POUND ISLANDS ONLY 60 MILES FROM FORMOSA

3 Warships Among 12 Vessels Sunk.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 10 (AP).—Sweeping the Ryukyu Islands, 200 miles south of Japan and some of them only 60 miles east of Formosa, carrier planes of the 3d fleet sank or damaged 38 ships and 20 small craft and destroyed 89 planes yesterday, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

The planes attacked in great force and achieved complete surprise, Nimitz said.

12 Ships Sent Down.

Preliminary reports indicated they sank 12 ships, including a destroyer, probably sank 14, and damaged 12. They also sank or damaged 20 luggers and other small craft. They destroyed more than 75 Japanese airplanes on the ground and shot 14 down in combat.

American plane losses were light and none of the surface ships was damaged.

The enemy shipping losses:

Sunk—One destroyer, one minesweeper, one submarine tender, two medium cargo ships, two small cargo ships, and five coastal cargo ships.

Destroyer Damaged.

Probably sunk—Two medium cargo ships, four small cargo ships, one medium oil tanker, and seven coastal cargo ships.

The Ryukyus, also known as the Loochoos or Nansei Shoto Islands, and sometimes called the Southwestern Islands, saddle the eastern entrance to the East China sea and have been in Japanese hands since 1879, 15 years before the Japanese took over Formosa.

They are 500 miles from the China coast and extend for a distance of 570 miles, almost to the southern tip of Kyushu in the Japanese home islands.

Population Is 820,000.

More than half of the population of 820,000 lives on Okinawa Island, which has been a communication center for Japanese forces in Formosa, the Philippines, and the Western Pacific.

Altho the islands are small and of little economic importance to Japan, their strategic value is great and many of them probably contain air fields.

The Islet of Garakayo, 10th to be invaded in the Palaus by the Americans, was completely conquered within 24 hours, the navy announced tonight. Elements of the 81st army division landed Sunday on Garakayo just north of Peleliu.

Finds British Outsmart U.S. on Lend-Lease

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—Charging incredible New Deal laxity in administering the multi-billion dollar lend-lease aid to Great Britain, Rep. Miller [R., Neb.] predicted today that Britain will refuse to pay for any lend-lease, and will seek instead, to bill this country for war aid supplied to the United States.

Rep. Miller.

Miller, who has just returned from a survey of Britain, said in an interview he found many "sour" notes in the lend-lease program, largely caused, he added, by our officials being outsmarted by the British, who are shrewdly looking out for their own interests.

Charge for Everything.

The Nebraska Republican reported that:

1. The British are charging us for reverse lend-lease "down to the last can of shoe polish and man hour of labor" expended for American troops, and "even plan to charge us for moving troops across the channel to France."

2. Our charges to the British for lend-lease are much less comprehensive. The result will be, Miller predicted, that when the war is over, "we're going to owe the British, according to their way of thinking, altho our aid to them actually exceeds theirs to us by many billions."

3. In spite of our enormous aid to Britain, the United States is required to pay cash for the transportation of American soldiers across the Atlantic in British ships. Miller declared the charge, which he said is $86.50 per man, should be assumed by Britain under so-called reverse lend-lease.

Have Huge Surpluses.

4. Enormous quantities of lend-lease goods from the United States are lying idle in England, because there is no use for them. Miller quoted a colonel in our army supply corps in Britain as saying too much material of the wrong kind was being sent, but that efforts to stop the shipments met with no success.

5. Britain has received more lend-lease farm machinery than it can use, and attempts are allegedly being made to sell some of it to Egypt and other countries. Miller said he saw an English rural plot "a mile square" filled with new American farm machinery rusting in the open air. Lend-lease trucks are similarly plentiful, he added.

6. Many Britishers believe our lend-lease program should be expanded to help pay for bombing damages to English cities after the war.

"Outsmarting Us."

7. American support in the war against Germany is being unenthusiastically received by the British people. Miller said mention of Britain's ally, Russia, in the house of commons drew far more applause than references to the part American soldiers and equipment are playing.

"I voted for the lend-lease program and I still think it has saved American lives and shortened the war," said Miller. "But it would be inexcusable for us to let the British outsmart us by sending us a bill for it when the fighting is over.

"It is high time the New Dealers do some old fashioned bookkeeping and let America and Britain know just where we stand on lend-lease and reverse lend-lease."

Hint Murder by Bandit in Priest's Death

An apparent slaying of a priest by bandits was disclosed yesterday, coincident with his burial, nearly two weeks after he was fatally injured. Garbled police records added mystery to the case.

The victim was the Rev. Maurice J. Hyde, 46, assistant pastor of St. Jarlath's Catholic church, 1725 Jackson blvd. The pastor, the Rev. Thomas B. O'Brien, said that if Father Hyde was a murder victim, a thoro investigation is expected.

Father Hyde was found unconscious at 1:10 a. m. on Friday, Sept. 29, at State and 40th sts. He died last Friday in Mercy hospital without ever having regained consciousness. A medical diagnosis indicated he had suffered a skull fracture.

Pockets Inside Out.

The priest was in full clerical attire. His pockets were turned inside out. He had no money or other valuables. Deputy Coroner Chris McGarigle, who presided at the inquest, said Father Hyde may have been assaulted and robbed where he was found or may have been robbed and then thrown from a speeding automobile. A short time earlier he had been visiting south side friends.

The original police report at the Wabash Avenue station, commanded by Capt. Ray Crane, identified the clergyman as Maurice Hyde, and gave his occupation as clerk. It also listed his address as 10056 S. Damen av., the home of his sister, Mrs. Margaret Lane. After his death, police identified him to the coroner's office merely as M. J. Hyde, and stated that he had been "injured at work."

Standard Practice Ignored.

One policeman, Sgt. Norman McGrath, said that Father Hyde wore everyday civilian attire, but Lt. Thomas Courtney, in command of inhalator squad 3, which originally ministered to him, declared that the priest wore full clerical dress.

Wabash Avenue police appeared to be uncertain as to how Father Hyde suffered his fatal injuries, altho police practice always has been to assume murder by robbery when a victim is found fatally beaten on the street, with his pockets turned inside out. Up to yesterday Commissioner Allman had not received any information that a felony had been committed.

At St. Jarlath's church, it was said that from the meager information originally developed it was assumed the worst that had happened was that Father Hyde had been struck by a car or had suffered a heart attack.

WIFE OF GEN. CHIANG IS RECUPERATING ON A SWANK N. Y. ESTATE

New York, Oct. 10 [Special].—Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of China's generalissimo, faces a long period of convalescence, her physician, Dr. Dana W. Atchley, said today after her release from Presbyterian hospital. She is a guest of her nephew, L. K. Kung, son of China's finance minister, at River Oaks, one of the swankiest estates in Westchester county. The 16 room home which Kung leased has been completely refurbished.

Mme. Chiang, who spent nearly a month in the hospital for diagnostic study of a nervous disorder, was flown to the United States from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in an army transport especially equipped with an elevator and other conveniences installed for the use of President Roosevelt and others.

King Cotton's Scepter Falls to Machinery

BY GAIL COMPTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Clarksdale, Miss., Oct. 10.—A revolutionary point in the history of cotton growing in the south was reached here today when harvest was begun on the first commercial acreage of cotton produced by completely mechanical methods.

Gone were the mules and one-furrow plows. Gone were the cotton choppers and their hoes, and at picking time there wasn't a bandanna headed "mammy" or young sister in the field with picking sacks.

A 28 acre field was plowed, planted, cultivated, and harvested entirely by machines on the Hopson Brothers 5,000 acre plantation south of here. The work marked a turning point in the culture of cotton that undoubtedly will cause a far reaching change in southern agricultural economy, cotton experts declared.

Corn Belt's Machines Used.

The cotton land was plowed and prepared this spring by tractors and farm implements common to the corn belt. The cotton then was planted with a seeder not unlike those used in the midwest.

Weeds, which are a tremendous problem in this lush delta land, were destroyed by flame. Miniature flame throwers mounted on machinery moved down the rows, blasting the young weed growth.

The field was treated this way approximately six times during the growing season. The cotton plants, with tough, barklike stems, were not injured by the flame.

When picking started today great, clumsy cotton pickers began to move down the rows. Development of a mechanical picker has been under way for some time, but the pickers still are in an experimental stage. Traveling one row at a time, the machines pick approximately three-quarters of an acre an hour."

Field Dusted from Plane.

A week before the harvest the leaves were removed from the plants to facilitate the picking. This was done by airplane.

Zooming over the field, the plane dusted the plants with a cynamid formula which in seven days causes the leaves to drop off.

Altho a vast amount of [illegible] ment work remains to be done to perfect this method of growing cotton, experts said they heard the death knell today of the old manner of cotton growing which produced the plantations, white pillars, and sad, sweet songs of the field for which this delta country so long has been famous.

Closed Factory Adopts Policy of Open Door

Sterling, Ill., Oct. 10 [Special].—Because he has found that getting out of business under the New Deal is fully as hazardous as staying in, E. F. Lawrence Jr., who last August closed his hardware manufacturing factory "for the duration," announced today that the doors of his plant will be open again tomorrow morning and that he is waiting for the government to tell him "what to do next."

Notices went out today to the firm's 300 former employes offering them employment "in the same job and at the same wages" they received prior to Aug. 29, 1944. The firm is Lawrence Brothers, Inc., which was founded in 1875 by Lawrence's father and had been in continuous operation for 69 years until the August shutdown.

Faces Heavy Penalties.

Lawrence said today his decision to reopen was made because of pending proceedings before the national labor relations board in which he is accused by the CIO United Steelworkers of "locking out" his employes. If the NLRB should determine after a hearing that the company's attempt to go out of business was a lockout, the company would be liable to all former employes for back wages from the time operations were stopped, he said.

"One of the reasons we closed up was that we had completed all our war contracts and the war man power commission told us our employes were needed in essential industries," Lawrence said. "Having nothing to do except manufacture goods for civilian consumption, we decided to release our men for other jobs necessary to the war effort.

Accused of "Lockout."

"Now we find we are accused of locking our employes out and are facing possibly heavy penalties, so we have concluded the only way to combat this charge is to open our doors again and give employment to all those former employes who are willing and able to return to us."

Lawrence said he has no idea how many employes will show up in the morning. After his factory closed all of them were offered war plant jobs, he said, but he does not know how many went to work. Persons who took jobs in essential industries will presumably need releases from the war man power commission before they can quit their present employment to return to Lawrence Brothers.

"We won't know just how we are

ULTIMATUM TO AACHEN: YIELD OR BE WIPED OUT

Guns and Bombers Ready to Bombard Beleaguered City 'Ruthlessly'; Test Hitler Fight to Death Order.

(Maps on pages 2 and 3.)

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP).—The historic German frontier city of Aachen is threatened with "ruthless" destruction by American artillery and bombing planes beginning at 10:50 a. m. tomorrow (4:50 a. m. Chicago war time) if the commander of some 1,500 enemy troops in the surrounded stronghold declines an ultimatum delivered to him today to surrender unconditionally.

For the first time in the war a German city, rich in tradition, faced obliteration by a land army. It was the first great test of whether the Germans were willing to see their cities destroyed one by one in carrying out Hitler's orders to fight to the death.

[Starting at 6 p. m. the Luxemburg radio at hourly intervals reminded the Aachen garrison they still had time to accept the ultimatum. The American broadcasting station in Europe quoted a "late report," meanwhile, that one German company in an isolated sector in the northwestern suburbs of Aachen had requested "independent surrender terms."]

Rain Bogs Down Front.

While the outcome of this ultimatum was awaited, a heavy rain set in during the afternoon, bogging down the whole western front.

Aachen, also known as Aix-la-Chapelle, whose pre-war population of 165,000 had been reduced to fewer than 15,000 civilians by evacuation and which already was badly damaged by nearly a month of fighting on its outskirts, was ringed by a tremendous concentration of American artillery.

The order to surrender unconditionally within 24 hours was delivered to the German command by three Americans under a white flag of truce, while 200 artillery shells bursting over the city showered down thousands of leaflets and planes dropped 400,000 more.

No Middle Ground for Nazis.

The Nazi garrison commander, whose troops have been holding up the United States 1st army push thru Aachen from strong hedgehog positions, was told there could be no middle ground for him, a clear indication that allied forces have no intention of dickering with the enemy at any point as they thrust into Germany.

"The city of Aachen is now completely surrounded by American forces, who are sufficiently equipped with both air power and artillery to destroy the city if necessary," the ultimatum said. "We shall take the city either by receiving its immediate unconditional surrender or by attacking and destroying it.

"In other words, there is no middle course. You will either unconditionally surrender the city with everything now in it . . . or you may refuse and await its complete destruction. The choice and the responsibility are yours."

Broadcast to All Germany.

Leaflets showered over the city called on civilians to "go now to those responsible and make them stop the useless bloodshed and destruction. The time has come for your civilian leader or you to speak boldly. Tomorrow—may be too late."

News of the ultimatum was being broadcast by the allies tonight to the people in all parts of Germany. A field dispatch said:

"The American high command wants them to know the story of Aachen—wants them to know that if their cities are to be made into fortresses then they will be destroyed. What happens to Aachen will set the pattern for every city inside Germany."

Repel All Counter-Attacks.

Altho the Nazis have been counter-attacking for days in an effort to break the jaws of the American pincers closing around Aachen, each of their thrusts had been thrown back. There were six of these attacks on Monday and four in the night.

Altho the ultimatum to the Aachen commander said the city was surrounded, a field dispatch said there still was a narrow corridor open to the northeast, but it was swept by American machine gun and mortar fire.

At supreme headquarters late tonight it was reported the gap was 3,000 yards or less in width. Lt. Gen. Hodges' troops were said to have by-passed Ofden, cleared Cruci-

Pvt. Kenneth C. Kading.

They were back from Aachen with a white flag of truce made from a bedsheet which they carried in to present to the German command and the mayor the ultimatum of the United States army to surrender in 24 hours or the city would be destroyed.

Lafley carried the messages. Boehme acted as interpreter. The 19 year old, tall, and spike haired Kading, gulping with nervous excitement at his participation in this memorable mission, carried the flag of truce.

The March Into Aachen.

They looked neither elated nor depressed as they told what had happened. Here is the story of their march into Aachen and back:

They rode in a jeep to our forward line at the railroad tracks right on the edge of the city. From there they walked into the city, Kading striding down the middle of the streets carrying the bedsheet, and the other two flanking him.

They reached a smashed underpass and, peering thru the gloom, sighted three German soldiers. Recognizing the flag of truce, the Germans waved for the Americans to come on.

"They blindfolded us with our

Stalin Toasts Peace at Gala Feast

PARIS, Oct. 10 [Reuter].—The communist evening newspaper, Ce Soir, reporting the Moscow conferences between the British and Russian premiers, said tonight "Trust Churchill and Stalin."

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP).—Premier Marshal Stalin at a gala midafternoon banquet for Prime Minister Churchill and the envoys of the United States and the British commonwealth today offered a toast to the future collaboration of the allied powers in a peaceful world.

Host at the elaborate three-and-a-half hour luncheon in the white and gold hall of Spirodonovka palace, the soviet premier rose twice to deliver speeches stressing the necessity for cooperation among peace loving nations in order to achieve peace.

In his toasts, Stalin also paid tribute to the contributions to an allied victory made by Britain and the United States. He referred in favorable terms to the Dumbarton Oaks conference from which emerged the framework of an international security organization.

Hails Might of Red Army.

Churchill replied to Stalin's acknowledgment of Britain's war role with a toast hailing the might of the Red army and its accomplishments.

The banquet was attended by W. Averell Harriman, the American ambassador, who is acting as President Roosevelt's personal representative at the Moscow conferences. Harriman was seated at Stalin's left and Churchill at his right. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, sat next to Foreign Commissar Molotov.

In the official invitation the banquet was called a "zavtrak," the Russian word for breakfast. The menu ran the gamut from exotic hors d'ouevres to the finest Russian pastry. The beverage list included the most famous wines, champagne and brandy of the soviet union, but, as is usual in Moscow, vodka was the favorite drink.

Praises Hull and Eden.

Molotov proposed a toast of glowing praise to the statesmanship of Eden and Secretary of State Hull. Eden replied with two toasts, one to Molotov and the other to Stalin, Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt.

Churchill came to Moscow yesterday for talks which responsible sources said should lead to guarantees of peace after victory. The British and Russian leaders spent three hours together in the Kremlin last night. The willingness with which Stalin greeted Churchill was considered indicative of his readiness to discuss the problems which will face the allied nations after the war.

fix Hill and pushed on against heavy resistance, cutting the last Aachen-Cologne highway some 10 miles southeast of Aachen.

Patton Wipes Out Bulge.

In Hurtgen forest the doughboys withstood a German counter-attack without yielding ground and closed within a mile and a half of the village of Hurtgen in their deepest penetration of Germany.

Lt. Gen. Patton's United States 3d army, springing forward between Nancy and Metz in eastern France, eliminated an enemy bulge and seized new positions running from Fresnes-en-Saulnois, 15 miles north and east of Nancy, to Cheminot, 18 miles north. Patton's forces had captured at least 3,535 Germans in the past three days.

Six miles north of Metz Americans fought hand to hand with the Germans in the streets of Malzares les Metz.

The situation inside Fort Driant, across the Moselle river from Metz, where for nearly a week American troops had been fighting a desperate close quarter battle with a determined Nazi garrison, remained static, a field dispatch said. American artillery laid a barrage on Fort Marival, a mile north of Fort Driant, silencing its guns.

New Canadian Landing.

Farther south Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army advanced two miles east of Epinal and drove the Nazis from the towns of Laveline and Herp-Elmont.

The 7th army pushed 1,500 yards thru the forest of Parroy east of Luneville. Near Fremi Fontaine, northeast of Epinal, the Germans were fighting stubbornly but in that sector Americans battled their way into the town of Laveline du Hous and on to the approaches of Rehaupel, two miles south.

French troops reached the Movellotte river near Saulxures and Vagney, outflanked Germans positions in the wooded ridges northeast of Ferdrupt, and took 400 prisoners.

Canadian forces, who in an amphibious operation early Monday established a bridgehead behind the enemy's lines on the shores of the Schelde estuary in Holland, were reported in a field dispatch to be firmly planted and beyond fear of being thrown out. Their bridgehead now extended almost three miles east from the village of Hoofdplaat and almost two miles inland.

The German D. N. B. news agency reported that a second Canadian amphibious force landed Monday night near Breskens, five miles west of Hoofdplaat and directly across from the Island of Walcheren.

Many Nazis were killed in a German counter-attack against British 2d army troops 12 miles west of Arnhem.

MOROTAI YANKS SINK 18 BARGES OF JAP TROOPS

ALLIED HDQ., NEW GUINEA, Oct. 11, Wednesday (AP).—A Japanese attempt to reinforce the little garrison still holding out against Gen. MacArthur's invaders of Morotai was largely broken up Monday night by fighter planes and patrol-torpedo boats which sank or damaged 18 of the reinforcement barges. One barge destroyed was 110 feet long and loaded with enemy troops.

A spokesman said some enemy troops may have succeeded in running the blockade; but no alarm was felt. He said the small naval units and the air force would be able to handle any opposition.

The Japanese also hit weakly by air at Morotai, sending two bombers in a pre-dawn raid and "causing minor casualties." Anti-aircraft batteries brought down one raider.

Allied night raiders set off fires visible for 40 miles at Manado, a town on the north coast of Celebes.

Bombers Over Germany as Weather Improves

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP).—Formations of fast allied bombers were over western Germany tonight, the Berlin radio reported, after a day of bad weather that kept most of the United States 8th air force and R. A. F. planes grounded on this side of the channel.

Germans Retreat Thru Greece.

ROME, Oct. 10 (AP).—British and Greek forces held the city of Corinth tonight as a base for the clearing of Athens, 40 miles distant, and the remainder of the Greek mainland.

Headquarters announced that German garrison units were withdrawing steadily northward and were omitting rearguard actions. The cleanup of the Peloponnesus was quick and largely bloodless.

A small force of British troops entered Corinth Sunday and found the entire German garrison gone. Corinth is at the south end of the isthmus linking the Peloponnesus with the mainland.

Greeks Ready to Take Over.

The liberation of Athens and its port of Peiraievs [Piraeus] will open the way for sending in food, medical supplies and other needed essentials for the civilian population. The Greek government announced it was in Italy ready to go to the homeland soon.

R. A. F. Wellingtons raided three Athens air fields last night and encountered only light flak. The only planes observed on the fields were 10 transports.

Allied land forces began an assault on the little southern Albanian port of Sarande [Porto Edda], a supply base for the Nazi garrison on the Island of Corfu.

City Welcomes Armies.

British troops and Greek Patriots were given a triumphant welcome as they marched into Corinth. Flowers, olive branches, and fruit were showered on them.

The Germans' Greek security battalions in the city of 20,000 surrendered after a conference with the mayor, and were taken to concentration points.

As they advanced along the isthmus to Corinth, the British found bridges on the Patri-Corinth road had been destroyed by retreating Germans.

FRENCH BATTLE IN FORESTS TO FLANK BELFORT

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH FRENCH 1ST ARMY, Oct. 10.—Shells and mortars were flying thru and above the high forest of Gehan, between Saulxures and Le Thillot, as the French fought today in a phase of what may be a movement to flank Belfort. Le Thillot, 16 miles northwest of Belfort, and Saulxures, six miles above Le Thillot, are road centers and vital outposts of the city of forts.

This evening one group of French infantry men had smashed into the western edge of Saulxures to get a grip on the railroad station and old castle, but other forces still were about a half mile from Le Thillot. German resistance was fierce, with enemy shells streaming in on the French and sharp fights ensuing near German nests and road blocks.

Shells Shred Trees.

The tall pines of the forest of Gehan were in the line of fire of both the French and German big guns and mortars striking at Le Thillot and Saulxures. Groups of trees were falling or were being shredded in this dueling, and added a hazard to the French, for splinters were sprayed about like shell fragments.

It was another day of heavy rain and the French attack was being pressed under great difficulty. Mist and foliage also helped reduce visibility to a matter of 10 yards or so. At some points the Germans were less than a hundred yards away, but were effectively hidden, and it was only when they fired their small weapons that they could be spotted.

Dig Caves and Foxholes.

Between rounds of fire French soldiers were digging caves and foxholes and some of them lit carefully screened fires to cook rations and to try to keep warm. But they couldn't hold off the cold and they were tired and dirty. It didn't improve their appearance or mine when we had to take impromptu mud baths as German shells whistled overhead.

Once French and German infantry patrols stumbled into each other a few hundred yards away from our mortar post and there was a clatter of rifle and machine gun fire thru the trees. Fifteen minutes later some French infantrymen came back carrying several of their wounded comrades.

The French have been fighting in this terrain for weeks and have had heavy casualties. One of their companies lost more than 50 men. The Germans haven't escaped lightly, either. There are rows of enemy graves in territory the French have won.

U. S. CAN'T FIND ANY USE FOR THE NORMANDIE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—The one time French luxury liner Normandie has become a "white elephant" which no one seems to want.

Since the navy some time ago halted its work looking toward converting the ocean giant into a transport, numerous official discussions have been held looking to the disposition of the vessel, but the navy has found no takers.

The maritime commission definitely isn't interested, it is learned here. The commission thinks it would be too expensive. Whether the French will want the Normandie back has not been stated, but the French are generally expected to ask cash instead.

The United States requisitioned the Normandie at her dock in New York harbor in December, 1941. She was turned over to the navy and renamed the Lafayette, but she burned and sank before she could be put to sea. The navy then raised the vessel.

Mrs. F. D. R. Is 60 Today; 'Too Old to Plan Peace'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who once said she would "adore being 60," will reach that age tomorrow. Her views on the advantages of being 60 were given last April in discussing women qualified to be members of a United States peace delegation. Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I'm nearly 60, and it isn't any use in any one that age planning for world peace. Younger people have got to plan for it because they've got to live in it."

LA GRANGE BOY AMONG 3 WHO ENTER AACHEN

Go Thru Lines to Deliver Ultimatum.

own handkerchiefs," Boehme said. "I told them we had a message for the German commandant and one of the German soldiers asked what it was. I said it was information for the commandant. Then I heard one of the soldiers whisper to another: 'I hope it is a reasonable offer.'

Some Rubble Underfoot.

"They were leading us now by holding onto our arms. There was some rubble underfoot but not much. We took quite a long walk and then we got to what I believe was a German company headquarters. It was the living room of a small house.

"A young German second lieutenant was there. He was pretty stiff and he and his soldiers there half helled us when we got in and they took off our blindfolds.

"I told the lieutenant we wanted to see the troop commander. He didn't answer, but just told one of his men to take us to another command post.

"They blindfolded us again and we were off—this time to a battalion command post. This was another long and zig-zaggy walk. We ended up in a cellar this time and I heard a dog barking somewhere nearby. At this place, we saw a lieutenant who was a battalion adjutant.

Delivers Two Envelopes.

"I gave him two envelopes, each one addressed both to the German commander of Aachen and to the burgomaster and told him to give them to his commanding officer."

Lafley entered the story at this point:

"The lieutenant signed a receipt for those papers and I put down the time on it. It was 10:50 a. m.

"We offered them some cigarets and they took them and offered us some of theirs. I took one and didn't like it. Boehme went on smoking his pipe. The German lieutenant asked me, 'How long have we got?' I told him it was right there in the papers. I told him it was for the commandant to say and that if he did have a reply he was to send it to us the same way we had sent these papers to him. They were polite but very formal. When we left they shook hands.

No Voices of Women.

"Back at the underpass they took off our blindfolds and gave us back our white flag. One of the Germans said: 'Auf Wiedersehen' as we left. We didn't hear any voices of women or children all the time we were in there. Our shells were going over the town, but none was falling in there."

The colonel commanding this regiment, which alone has massed a terrible weight of guns right here on the edge of Aachen, is sitting here now just waiting. His black hair is slightly mussed and he looks tired and speaks very softly.

"Gentlemen," the colonel said, "if there is no answer by 10:50 a. m. tomorrow I attack."

KEEPS WORD TO MOTHER.

Mrs. David Kading of 417 Waiola av., La Grange, mother of Pvt. Kading, was elated when she learned of her son's exploit.

"He said he would be a good soldier," she said, "and I guess he kept his word."

The last Mrs. Kading had heard from her son was that he had been returned to limited duty after being wounded in the legs last July. His name appears in the official casualty list printed in THE TRIBUNE today. The Kadings have another son, Robert, 20, a chief cook in an army air transport command in Homestead, Fla.

Kenneth, a graduate of Lyons Township High school in La Grange, was inducted Oct. 22 and went overseas last March 17. His father, a building contractor, has taken a duration job in the Buick motor plant near Elmhurst.

Halleck Rips 'Myth' of Military Expert.

Boswell, Ind., Oct. 10 [Special].—Assailing the Roosevelt administration's silence on circumstances surrounding the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, Rep. Halleck [R., Ind.] today charged the "New Deal dares not tell the truth about Pearl Harbor" because it "would completely wreck the fictitious character of the indispensable commander in chief, who seeks to ride to political victory o: the weary shoulders of our boys who are really fighting and winning this war."

Halleck was master of ceremonies at a barbecue and rally at the Benton county fairgrounds in honor of Secretary of State Rue Alexander. An estimated 6,000 persons heard addresses by Rep. Halleck, Gov. Willis [R., Ky.], and Ralph Gates, Republican candidate for governor of Indiana.

Holds Commander Responsible.

"The issue of the military ability of the New Deal Presidential candidate has been forced upon the people by his management," said Halleck. "It is fair, then, that he be asked to tell in detail how he has discharged certain of his responsibilities.

"Mothers and fathers everywhere want to know if it was his alleged ability that led to the Pearl Harbor tragedy, which initially cost the lives of almost 4,000 men. Since Pearl Harbor that disaster has cost many more American lives and the end is not yet."

Halleck asserted the President "must have known or, if he is a truly great leader, he should have known that an attack was at hand. So why did he not use our fleet for the effective purpose for which it was built.

Warns of Further Risks.

"Our ships were swept from the seas like ducks before a broadside on a mill pond. Is this proof of his great ability to guide our military strategy or conduct our world affairs? Must we keep him in office and risk further bungling at his hands?

"The people want to know just what part the fourth term candidate played in the Pearl Harbor tragedy, before and after the attack. Why did he not stop the sale of scrap iron to Japan years before it was rained down on our boys at Pearl Harbor? Why, despite repeated pleas of Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short, has the administration fought to postpone their trials."

DINNER BELL RINGS TOO EARLY FOR NAZIS AND ILLINOIS YANK

WITH THE A. E. F. ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Oct. 8 [Delayed]—(AP).—Saddest man of the week is Lt. Douglas A. Henry, Springfield, Ill., whos reconnaissance outfit reached a little French town so close to the retreating Germans he found 25 chickens roasting for the Nazis' dinner.

The village mayor suggested maybe the lieutenant should pay the villagers for them but insisted one package of cigarets was more than enough. So Douglas forked over the smokes. Then he told his outfit what they were going to eat at dinner time. They did, too—

But Lt. Henry was ordered to go on a new mission just before it was time to sit down to chow so he didn't get a single bite.

POLISH GROUP VOICES FAITH IN ROOSEVELT

A resolution expressing "faith and confidence in the judgment and decisions of President Roosevelt relative to the future of Poland" was adopted yesterday at the quarterly plenary session of the national directors and officers of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America at the union's headquarters, 984 Milwaukee av.

The Atlantic Charter and the fact that the President has consistently recognized the Polish government in London were cited as grounds for hope that the administration would work for the reëstablishment of Poland and the integrity of its pre-1939 frontiers.

The union is a fraternal organization which claims 150,000 members thruout the United States.

NAZI ATROCITY STORIES TRUE, BISHOP AVERS

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A Catholic prelate who knows the Nazis at first hand and has seen their actions in Poland declared yesterday that in his opinion the atrocity stories which have come out of that country are true.

Bishop Padewski.

He is Bishop Joseph Padewski of the Polish National Catholic church, who is in Chicago for a series of talks on war time Poland and Polish problems. The bishop, an American citizen, makes his home in Albany, N. Y.

"In Krakow I saw the Germans hang 13 men at one time," he said. "I saw them shoot people on the street many times in Warsaw."

Believes "Death Factory" Tales.

Asked about the Lublin "death factory" where thousands were reported gassed and cremated, Bishop Padewski declared his belief in the truth of the story. He said that when the concentration camp at Oswiecim is reached by the allied armies another such story will be forthcoming. A parishioner of his who had escaped from the camp told him that trainloads of prisoners were arriving daily, and that the old and the sick were disposed of in much the same manner as at Lublin.

Bishop Padewski, who was working as a missionary bishop in Poland, was several times arrested by both the Germans and the Russians. After the United States entered the war he and other interned civilians were shipped to a camp in upper Bavaria. On the 60 hour trip the Nazis provided neither food nor water, he said.

He was kept in confinement with 560 other Americans for 18 months and compelled to live on soup, hot water, and bread made partly of sawdust.

Saved by Red Cross Food.

"If it were not for the American Red Cross I would have been in my grave long ago," he said. He described the packages of food and clothing which the Red Cross delivered at the camp and the books and games which the Young Men's Christian association provided. Without these, he declared, life would have been all but impossible.

Last Feb. 27 he was taken from the camp and sent on a 10 day train trip thru Germany, France, Spain, and Portugal to Lisbon, there to be exchanged for German nationals from the United States. He came home on the Gripsholm, arriving in mid-March.

The Polish people, he said, are bitterly disappointed at the attitude of Russia toward the boundary question. There was some expectation, he explained, that the Russians were coming to Poland as friends and liberators, not as conquerors.

'BRING YOUR SISTER,' YANK TELLS URCHIN, AND THE BOY DOES

WITH THE 83D INFANTRY DIVISION IN FRANCE.—Sgt. Jerry Mateo, mess sergeant of headquarters mess, served as both mother and father to a number of younger Mateoas back home in Chicago. As a result, Jerry cannot stand the sight of a dirty face.

Recently, a French urchin with begrimed features appeared at Jerry's kitchen and gave him a French version of "Got any gum, chum?" Jerry gave him a piece of G. I. soap and, in faltering French told him to go home and wash his face and he'd get a piece of gum. Jerry slyly added that, if the boy had a good looking sister, he should bring her back, too.

Fifteen minutes later, the child returned, face shining, every hair in place, bringing with him his good looking sister, equally shining and immaculate. But she was only 5 years old!

MUD AND FLOOD HELP NAZIS HOLD PO RIVER VALLEY

Yanks Flounder Thru Torrential Rains.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 10.—Photographs taken by allied planes of the Po river plain behind German lines indicate one of the principal reasons why Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring is expending fresh troops and employing massed heavy artillery in a fierce attempt to deny temporarily the Americans entrance into the valley. Every day he can hold the 5th army on the northern edge of the Apennines is a day in his favor because a natural ally—rainfall—is coming to his aid.

Photographs show that under the influence of almost two weeks of steady rain the streams of the big Po plain, which extends from the Apennines to the foothills of the Alps, are at flood stage. The rainy season has only just started. As long as the rains hold every hour makes these rivers more difficult for the Americans to cross and easier for the Germans to defend.

Only Two Good Roads.

Much of the land bordering the larger rivers of the valley is so low it must be protected by levies and dikes. It will be simple for Kesselring's forces, once established safely north of such areas, to blow up these artificial bulwarks and flood large sections of the valley.

Only two good hard surfaced roads leading north from Florence to the front are available to the Americans. Secondary roads are seas of mud churned deeper and deeper by the wheels of heavily laden supply trucks.

Where roads wind around mountains gradually the outer shoulders weaken and give way, sending more than one truck plunging into the valleys below. Hastily built bridges disappear as foot deep creeks change overnight into roaring torrents.

Engineers Bring Supplies.

A few days ago a whole infantry division had to be supplied entirely by the engineers' corps for 24 hours after bridges leading to the division were washed away. Engineers worked until they dropped, sending ammunition, food, medical supplies, and all the paraphernalia of combat across cables and hauling back the wounded, but they could not transport a tenth of what the division needed.

Other engineers now are constructing a road three miles long to reach an artillery unit marooned in the mountains when its road was inundated by a river. More than once in this mountain offensive infantry units have driven the Germans from important hill positions, only to be forced to fall back themselves because sufficient ammunition could not be brought up for them in time.

Of course, German forces also are affected by bad weather but not nearly to such a great extent. Americans are moving forward into former enemy territory, where every bridge and mountain road has been blown up by the enemy.

TESTIFIES HEAD OF ITALY'S BANK GAVE NAZIS GOLD

ROME, Oct. 10 (AP).—Nicola Introna, governor of the Bank of Italy, testified today that the Italian gold reserve was consigned to the Germans by his predecessor, Vincenzo Azzolini, who is on trial for his life. The gold was transferred to Berlin this year by agreement between the Fascist regime of Mussolini and the Nazi government, the witness said. Azzolini is on trial on charges of collaboration.

Introna said about 50 tons of gold were taken to Berlin from Fortezza in February and that German orders to remove the remainder to the German capital were being discussed early in June. "I have no doubt it all has been transferred to Berlin," he said.

Introna said Azzolini had agreed to a plan of walling up 60 tons of gold in cellars of the bank and to prepare letters showing that the amount had been sent to Potenza, in southern Italy. Later, Introna testified, Azzolini told him the Germans had data on the amount of gold in the bank and that all of it must be turned over to them or the Germans would take it by force.

U. S. TROOPS IN ITALY PRESS ON SLOWLY THRU MUD AND RAIN

ROME, Oct. 10 (AP).—American 5th army troops, toiling slowly forward thru mud, rain, and stout German positions, are within heavy artillery range of Bologna, vital German communications and supply depot in northern Italy, allied headquarters said today.

Doughboys slogging along Highway 65, the main Florence-Bologna route, captured Anconella, Mount Castellazi, Lavalle, and Barbarola, within an area 10 miles south of Bologna.

To the east of the Americans, Indian troops reached a point two miles south of Highway 9, a lateral road between Bologna and Rimini, and brought it under range of artillery and mortar fire. The British already are astride the highway at the Adriatic end, but a portion of it remains useful to Field Marshal Kesselring in moving German troops and supplies.

Eighth army troops still were stalled on the banks of the Fiumicino river in the Adriatic sector. The stream, which was only a pebbly riverbed two weeks ago, now is reported from 30 to 35 feet wide.

GERMAN CIVILIAN IN HIS DOORWAY KILLS AMERICAN

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN GERMANY, Oct. 10 (AP).—An American soldier was killed yesterday by a German civilian who fired at him from a doorway of a house in the Aisdorf vicinity. Another American immediately killed the German.

This is the first witnessed and confirmed case of an enemy in civilian clothes firing on American troops inside Germany.

The officer commanding the dead soldier's unit said there was no doubt of the authenticity of the incident. He issued orders that soldiers must not wander about the streets of captured towns.

WASHINGTON was the first American to try raising mules. He asked our representative in Spain if he would get him "a jackass of the best breed." It was unlawful to export them, but the king said he would be proud to give him four. The finest, named "Royal Gift," was soon sent on a tour of the South, and the cry, "Washington's jackass is coming," always attracted a gaping crowd who had never before been such a creature.

F. D. R. RELEASES DOLLARS TO AID ITALIAN BUYING

Offsets Lire Paid to U. S. Troops in Italy.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt announced tonight that the United States is making available to the Italian government dollars equivalent to the Italian lire issued to pay American troops in Italy.

"The dollars will be used by the Italian government to pay for essential civilian supplies purchased in this country for use in liberated Italy," Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement.

The step was taken after consultation with the British government, Mr. Roosevelt said, adding that Britain will continue to provide its share of an agreed program of supplies to Italy but under different financial arrangements.

Final Settlement Later.

"It has been our intention," Mr. Roosevelt said, "to make available to the friendly western European countries dollars equivalent to the local currency issued as pay to American troops in their territory. This policy differs from that to be applied in the case of Italy since in the latter case it is subject to special restrictions reserved to the United States in connection with the final peace settlement."

When the allied troops invaded Italy, American soldiers were paid in American printed lire so that they might easily make purchases in Italy.

The question of how this currency was to be redeemed was described at the time as one for settlement in the final peace made with the government.

In addition to turning over dollars equivalent to the lire paid American soldiers, Mr. Roosevelt announced that the dollar proceeds of remittances made by individuals in this country to persons in Italy also are being made available to the Italian government as are the dollar proceeds of any products exported by Italy to this country.

Ship Supplies.

Meantime, the war department announced that shipments of clothing, vitamins, and medicine for needy civilians in the liberated areas of Italy are being made on army vessels as space becomes available.

An Italian committee named at the suggestion of Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of American Relief for Italy, Inc., will handle warehousing and distribution of the supplies, the announcement said.

The goods being distributed were received from a number of private relief organizations.

WRITERS MOVE TO NEW PARIS HEADQUARTERS

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Oct. 10 (AP).—War correspondents covering supreme headquarters wrote their stories closer to the scene of action tonight. Forty-five correspondents moved today from London to Paris—practically the last of Gen. Eisenhower's official family to get across the English channel.

Gen. Eisenhower moved his advance command post to an apple orchard on the edge of Cerisy forest in Normandy early in August. The bulk of his staff had set up headquarters elsewhere in France by the first week in September. Now nearly everything is in Paris.

The war had run away from communications as long as a month ago, and it had become increasingly difficult to keep abreast of developments from London, 80 miles from the fighting at Dunkerque, but 450 miles from the 7th army front before Belfort pass.

Report Revolt in Italian Town Near Bologna

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Oct. 10.—A revolt has broken out at Castelmaggiore, six miles north of Bologna, the Italian border press disclosed today. Partisan forces were reported to have seized the town after a plan to deport a number of persons to Germany was announced, and a crowd of 400 stormed the city hall and burned documents, vital statistics, and a list of men and women earmarked for "civil work" in the reich.

MARSHAL TITO SENDS ENVOY TO BUCHAREST

Reds Exhort Workers

BUCHAREST, Romania, Oct. 8 [Delayed]—(AP).—Between 50,000 and 60,000 Bucharest workers at a stadium meeting today heard Communist leaders condemn the present Romanian government and call for a Communist-Socialist alliance in a united workers' front.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Romania, Oct. 9 [Delayed].—Nikolas Petrovitch, representative of Marshal Tito, has been in Bucharest since Saturday, it was disclosed today. He flew here from a Yugoslav air field.

He told the press the Yugoslavs bitterly resented Romanian aid to Germany, but looked forward to resumption of the traditionally close friendship between the nations.

Petrovitch attacked Gen. Draja Mihailovitch, former Yugoslav minister of war, as a "traitor" and said: "In foreign countries Marshal Tito's struggle is known only from a military viewpoint. What should be known is that Marshal Tito is not only the chief of an organized army of 300,000 soldiers but also the creator of a state organized in all its departments, even during the fight for liberation."

Puts Future Up to Romania.

Petrovitch said that most of the aircraft which bombed Belgrade, Yugoslav capital, operated from Romania and fuel for German tanks was shipped from Romania. He said that "future development of relations between Romania and Yugoslavia depends primarily on the Romanian state and the people."

Asked how the Yugoslavs received the Russian army, Petrovitch said that officers who were present told him, "We couldn't find words to describe the enthusiasm with which our people received their brothers of the Red army."

He declared that the entire Yugoslav people, regardless of class, now is united behind Tito.

Girl, 16, Tied to Bed; Held 2 Hours by Young Thieves

Clara Pomerantz, 16, of Cincinnati, O., was held captive yesterday for two hours in the home of her uncle, Dr. Herman Pomrenze, 742 Independence blvd., by three young burglars who tied her to a bed, took jewelry and $30, and threatened to rape her, she reported to police. The eldest, whom the others addressed as Bernie, gained entrance, posing as a delivery man, then admitted the others, one of whom appeared to be about 13, Miss Pomerantz told Fillmore Street police.

BOMB UNITS LED BY ILLINOISANS WIN CITATIONS

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Oct. 10. — Col. John S. Samuel of Hinsdale, Ill., now commands the famous "annihilation group," which a year ago last May introduced Marauders to the European theater of operations. This group and a Pathfinder squadron of the 9th bombardment division have been awarded unit citations for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy, Maj. Gen. Samuel E. Anderson, commanding general of the United States 9th air force bomber fleet, announced today.

Maj. Robert A. Porter, Tonica, Ill., commands the Pathfinder squadron noted for its record in leading successful bombing attacks at night and in cloud cover.

Porter's squadron was the first American medium bomber unit to use this type of precision bombing technique. It was given credit for the development now regarded as an integral part of present day attacks by medium and light bombers.

RUSSIANS REACH BALTIC COAST IN LITHUANIA DRIVE

Smash to Sea 14 Miles North of Memel.

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Red army drove a band of steel across Lithuania to the Baltic sea 14 miles above Memel today, cutting off the German garrison in Riga and trapping probably 150,000 Nazi troops in Lithuania and Latvia.

A soviet war bulletin announced that Russian forces had crashed thru to the sea at Palanga, in Lithuania, on the north border of Memelland, and captured more than 300 other towns and villages north and southeast of Memel, virtually sealing the fate of that seaport which Germany annexed in the spring of 1939. Memel was under Russian shell fire.

Places captured included Kretinga, railway station 12 miles northeast of Memel, and Darbenai and Lenkimai, seven and 10 miles from the sea northeast of Memel, and Gargzdiai, nine miles due east of Memel. The effective width of the soviet barrier north of Memel appeared to be about 20 miles.

Tighten Ring on Riga.

The siege ring also was drawn tighter around Riga, long threatened capital of Latvia, with capture of 60 plances, including Stopini, seven miles southeast of Gauja, railway station 11 miles north, Ropazi, 10 miles northeast, and Saulkalne, 12 miles southeast.

The Berlin radio said the Russians were using more than 1,000 tanks and 1,000,000 men in this drive to the sea and toward East Prussia.

One strong Russian contingent in Lithuania wheeled southward and strengthened positions along the Niemen river with capture of Taurage, 20 miles northeast of Tilsit. Another force captured Sakiai, seven miles from the East Prussian border and 33 miles northeast of Kaunas.

Supporting the ground action, the Red air force Monday night raided Liepaja [Libau], where there were 12 German transport ships in port, and Riga, where there were three. Naval airmen reported sinking two German transports, a minesweeper, and other enemy vessels in the Gulf of Riga and damaging several German transports.

Soviet armies in the south also reported continuing successes. One column reached the Hungarian city of Debrecen, which controls routes into Czechoslovakia, Poland and Romania. Derecske, 13 miles south of Debrecen, was captured.

Near Transylvania Capital.

Moscow said nothing of the offensive aimed at Budapest. German reports have placed the Russians about 50 miles from the Hungarian capital, fighting for Szolnok, a station on the Orient Express Line to Budapest.

In northern Transylvania, territory that Hungary took from Romania, the Russians announced that Soviet and Romanian forces had entered Felachiu, only 3 miles from the capital city of Cluj.

The Red army and Yugoslav Partisans pressed their drive in northeast Yugoslavia, the soviet bulletin announcing they had cut the Nis-Belgrade railway and highway route by capturing the junction point of Veliko Plana, 43 miles southeast of Belgrade.

Veliko Plana is on the trunk rail line to Salonika and the Aegean. Its capture cuts off all German units remaining in Greece and southern Yugoslavia.

NAZIS MUST SHORTEN LINES, HIGH COMMAND SPOKESMAN ADMITS

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, spokesman for the German high command, voiced tonight what may be the signal for Nazi armies to retreat to Germany's borders. In his weekly broadcast Dittmar said: "It is essential for us now to realize that at present no aspect is more important for us than the utmost shortening of our lines. We are defending the fortress Germany and any outlying points must be held only as long as necessary. This applies also to the Balkans."

Generator Wheel Flies Off; Isle of Man Dark

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, Oct. 10 [Reuter].—A flywheel weighing about 20 tons flew off the generator at the power station here tonight and the Isle of Man was plunged into darkness. The flywheel hurtled thru the station roof and broke up in midair. Some of the pieces fell nearly half a mile away.

U. S. AGAIN WARNS NAZIS AGAINST KILLING POLES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—The state department, quoting Polish advices that German authorities in Poland are planning "the extermination of tens of thousands of innocent persons" now held in concentration camps, today reiterated previous warnings that those guilty will be brought to justice. A department statement said:

"The United States government has been informed by the Polish government that it had received reliable information that German officials in Poland are making plans for the extermination of tens of thousands of innocent persons of Polish and other united nations nationalities, as well as Jewish deportees from areas under German control who are now held in concentration camps, particularly those at Brzezinki and Oswiecim.

"The United States government takes this occasion to warn again the German government and Nazi officials that if these plans are carried out those guilty of such murderous acts will be brought to justice and pay the penalty for their heinous crimes."

[The British government issued a similar warning.]

FINNS PURSUE HITLER TROOPS; CAPTURE TOWN

STOCKHOM, Sweden, Oct. 10 (AP).—A Finnish bulletin today announced that the Finns were pressing after the Germans in the direction of Tervola on the road from Kemi to Rovaniemi. Six miles north of Tornealv, the Finnns captured Alavojakkala and "are still advancing," the bulletin said.

The harbor, railway station, and airport at Kemi, at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia, were ruined by the Germans before they retreated, a Helsinki correspondent reported. Buildings in the district of Karihaara were reported burned, leaving 1,500 homeless.

The dispatch said the Germans also destroyed their supply warehouses outside Kemi, and dumped locomotives, airplane motors, ammunition, radio apparatus, and cables into the harbor. German bombers attacked the Oulu railway area Sunday.

Report British Build Big Airport in West Africa

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A large airport which could be used as a junction for a post-war England to South America air route has just been completed in West Africa, it was reported tonight. The airport was said to be capable of accommodating the largest four engine bombers in war time and is expected to meet requirements for the next 10 years. For security reasons its location was not disclosed.

BOMBS PROVIDE FIREWORKS FOR SAIPAN'S JULY 4

'One Man Task Force' Sets Them Off.

[This is the fourth and last article relating the exploits of Comdr. Norman (Bus) Miller, navy squadron leader, who has wrought more damage on Japanese shipping and military installations than any other aviator in the war.]

BY LT. KEN CLAYTON.

The United States navy's "one man task force," Comdr. Norman M. [Bus] Miller, decided to celebrate the Fourth of July in the central Pacific. Miller wanted some choice pyrotechnics for his celebration—some honest-to-goodness "made in Japan" fireworks. So he scheduled a raid on Saipan and Tinian.

On the day before each raid, Miller outlines his plans to his crew men with as much attention to detail as he uses in checking over his plane. He tells them where they are going, what their targets are likely to be, how he plans to make his approach.

On the day of the Saipan-Tinian raid, Miller, his new co-pilot, Ensign James R. Park, Los Angeles, Cal.; the navigator, Ensign R. K. Schaffer of Saginaw, Mich., and I met at 5 a. m. for breakfast.

Overloads His Plane.

At the air strip after breakfast Miller loaded his big craft, the Thundermug, careful to put his extra passengers and most of the crew well forward.

While the four engines were warming up, I mentally computed the gross load scheduled for take-off. It was well over the maximum recommended by the makers of the Liberator, Comdr. Miller often overloaded the Thundermug by a couple of tons in order to stow sufficient fuel and bombs aboard for his surprise attacks.

Miller's search sector that day extended within 100 miles of Saipan and Tinian, and the "one man task force" was carrying enough fuel to extend this sector over the enemy territory.

Praises His Plane.

I spent most of the morning in the pilot's compartment listening to Miller praise his beloved Thundermug. The "one man task force" sat there, comfortably casual, with the legs of his flying suit unzipped and rolled up, one foot cocked up on the seat, while robot controls handled most of the flying.

We assumed battle stations. A few miles to starboard was a CVE escort carrier. An FM-2, apparently from the flat-top, inspected us closely, then flew away.

Saipan and Tinian lay dead ahead. We circled Saipan at 900 feet and watched two cruisers standing off shore pasting the northern half of the island. Then we swung south and circled Tinian. The "one man task force" scanned the islands for gun emplacements and protective topography for one of his 200 foot 200-mile-an-hour bombing and strafing runs.

"All right, 45, 25," said Miller softly to his co-pilot. I watched Park adjust the controls for a manifold pressure of 45 inches of mercury and a propeller speed of 2,500 revolutions per minute.

Miller swung his craft around and down, heading toward the air strip at the northern tip of Tinian. He roared over the field at tree-top height, all guns firing. After strafing the northern air field, we trundled south over the central plateau area of the island. I don't know what the other observers saw; the most interesting item I located was a cow ambling to port.

Hover Over Saipan.

Just as we reached the air strip at the southern point, Japs opened up with 20 mm. fire, but none touched the Thundermug, and our gunners silenced the opposition below as we plowed along.

Miller throttled back as we swung out to sea and then north to Saipan, hovering about a mile off shore.

A cruiser offshore was lobbing shells at the island, apparently endeavoring to hit buildings just north of a hill there. North of the buildings was the Japs' Marpi Point air strip. Miller spoke to his crew.

"We're gonna get those buildings for 'em," he said. "Better take out the guns at the end of the air strip."

Circle Island Again.

"Which side, sir?" the tail gunner, Robert Gariel, asked.

"They'll be a little to port," Miller answered, and that's exactly where they were when we went over.

Miller circled the island again, coming in close to the hill along the west side. He called for full power and adjusted the bombing "pickle" in his right hand. Bomb bay doors were open. Suddenly Miller cut sharply around the hill and we were smashing down the air strip. Guns at the eastern end opened fire. Thundermug 50s thundered back and one by one the enemy flashes flickered out.

Directly to port, so close that I was practically staring him in the eye, was one Jap gunner still popping away. Miller saw him and muttered, "Get him, boy, get him." But nobody did. Most of our gunners were working on the emplacements at the end of the strip.

The Pilot Explodes.

The proximity of the gunner didn't bother Miller. He headed over his bomb target, sighted, and squeezed the bombing "pickle." Nothing happened! It was Miller, not the bombs, that exploded.

The pickle had failed to work.

Miller whipped the clumsy Thundermug around.

"We're going back for a second run. Watch for that gunner to port," he snapped, and ordered Schaffer to the bombardier's station to release the bombs. In seconds we had zoomed around the hill and over the strip again. Our men were laying for the persistent Jap gunner this time, but apparently his machine had jammed, because six Japs were working on it frantically when Thundermug slugs blasted them out.

By the time we had completed our run, a TBF from a nearby carrier was following us up with a glide bombing attack.

"That's about the last time I'll bring bombs over here," muttered Miller as he headed back toward his search sector, chagrined, I suspected, that any further bombing was necessary after one of his low level attacks. "It's like taking a ham sandwich to a picnic."

Target for One Man Task Force

INVALID BOBTAIL VOTES CAST BY WISCONSIN VETS

Ballots Reported Used on Officers' Advice.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 10 [Special].—Altho use of the federal bobtail ballot by Wisconsin service men is illegal under the Wisconsin absentee voting statute, nearly a score of them have already been received here, Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman said today.

In one instance, according to Zimmerman, evidence has come to the attention of the secretary of state's office that army officers abroad are advising Wisconsin soldiers to use the bobtail ballot.

Still Time to Vote.

Zimmerman said he has received a letter from Gordon Hanson, a Milwaukee attorney, stating that Hanson's son wrote from England he had been told by his army officer that the federal ballot was legal in Wisconsin and had accordingly made application for such a ballot.

"Wisconsin soldiers must be told now, without any delay, that the federal ballot is illegal and that even if they have voted the federal ballot they may still obtain and vote the regular legal ballot issued by Wisconsin cities, villages and towns," Hanson suggested in his letter.

Urged to Use State Ballot.

As soon as federal ballots are received from service men, letters are promptly written to them informing them such ballots are not accepted in Wisconsin as valid, and advising them to obtain and mail regular Wisconsin ballots, Zimmerman said.

Letters are also sent to clerks of cities and villages of which the would-be voters of bobtail ballots are residents advising them to supply such voters with official Wisconsin Presidential and state ballots, according to the secretary of state.

Gaige Roberts, election official in Zimmerman's office, said some of the federal ballots received here arrived before Oct. 1, altho federal regulations provide that such ballots would be distributed to service men only if they failed to receive state ballots by Oct. 1.

F. D. R.'S SALUTE TO CHINA VOICES HOPE OF VICTORY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt, saluting China today on the 33d anniversary of the Chinese revolution, expressed the hope that the day is near when the Japanese will be driven out.

"The Chinese people are now in their eighth year of resistance to Japanese aggression," his statement said. "The American people salute them and pay tribute to their courage and fortitude.

"We join them in the confident hope that the day is near at hand when the Japanese will be driven from the homeland of China, so that the people of China may join with us and the other united nations in building a durable peace in a world free from aggression."

The President also sent a message to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek saying that "China's sacrifices to frustrate the aggressor's last desperate endeavors will play an important part" in hastening allied victory.

CHICAGO'S CHINATOWN MARKS ANNIVERSARY OF CHINESE REPUBLIC

Chicago's Chinatown, the district centering around Wentworth av. and Cermak rd., yesterday witnessed a parade and a meeting in celebration of the 33d anniversary of the founding of the Chinese republic. About 200 Chinese-Americans wound thru nearby streets carrying the American and Chinese flags and escorting a papier-mache replica of the multicolored lion which symbolizes the greatness of China. Gen. Shang Chen, head of the Chinese military mission to the United States, addressed the meeting. Business establishments in the neighborhood cooperated in the celebration and assisted in raising money for the United China relief and the Chinese Emergency relief.

ALLIES CLOSE IN ON JAPS' BURMA BASE OF TIDDIM

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Oct. 10 (AP).—Japanese troops are stubbornly defending Tiddim, but allied patrols have been operating within 400 yards of that western Burma base, allied headquarters announced today. Reverses were reported for enemy elements to the south.

Withdrawing from an unsuccessful attack near Coppe Bazaar, at the eastern end of one of the main passes across the Mayu range, Japanese troops left more than 60 dead, and British patrols harassed the withdrawal, killing more of the enemy around Taung Bazaar yesterday, headquarters said.

The bulletin said road and rail communications were attacked successfully in central and northern Burma by allied aircraft yesterday and Sunday, despite adverse weather. Bridges were the main objectives.

China Executes Colonel Who Lost Town to Japs

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Chinese high command announced today that Col. Tsao Cheng, a regimental commander, had been executed Oct. 7 for failing to carry out orders in connection with the defense of Pingnan, west river town in Kwangsi province which was recently captured by the Japanese.

CHIANG PREDICTS VICTORY IN YEAR ON ANNIVERSARY

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 10 (AP).—China commemorated today the 33d anniversary of her Oct. 10 revolution, which led to establishment of the Chinese republic, and was cheered by a prediction from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek that "the coming year will not only bring us final victory, but also will witness the success of our national revolution."

Marking the anniversary of the revolution led by Sun Yat-sen, Chiang reminded the nation that huge territories were untouched by the enemy and that 5,000,000 Chinese soldiers still are engaging the Japs.

Make Yourself A $2,000,000 HIGHBALL

Know how to make a correct highball? Lots of people don't, so we're giving you the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so good!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND

THEN DO THIS!

1 Place the ice cubes in an empty 6 or 8-oz. glass. Connoisseurs say the ice must go in first!

3 Fill with club soda or ginger ale. For a perfectly mixed drink, place ingredients in glass in the order given!

DEMOCRAT AIM: KEEP SANITARY BOARD CONTROL

Have Held Full Sway for Last Ten Years.

BY GUY GENTRY.

Democrats are waging a fight this fall to continue the domination of the Chicago sanitary district board of trustees which has been completely Democratic since 1934. Four places on the board are at stake this year, one for a vacancy existing since the death of Thomas Byrne last December.

The sanitary district, with its hundreds of political jobs, is an important political asset that Democrats have controled since 1926. They gained eight of the nine positions in the 1930 election and the board became completely Democratic with the retirement of Howard Elmore in 1934.

No Republican Check.

Since that year there has been no Republican minority representation on the board to appraise or check Democratic policies and performance.

Democratic nominees are:

John J. Touhy, former 27th ward alderman and present ward committeeman, served five terms in the council before being elected trustee in 1926. He was reëlected in 1932 and again in 1938.

J. L. Friedman was first named to a vacancy on the board in 1928. He was elected to his first full term in 1932 and reëlected in 1938. Friedman conducted a cleaning and dying firm before his election to the board and maintains his membership in the American Federation of Labor. He is serving as chairman of the district's finance committee.

Polish-American Leader.

John A. Szumnarski was appointed to the board last June following the death of President Ross Woodhull. Szumnarski was public vehicle license commissioner before his appointment to the board. He is Democratic committeeman in the 35th ward and a leader among Polish-American voters.

Neal T. Kelly is the Democratic nominee to serve out the four years remaining of Byrne's term. Kelly has been manager of the sanitary district's real estate department since 1932. He is 34th ward committeeman, a post he has held since 1928, and operates his own real estate business at 3550 Fullerton av.

THREATEN SYDNEY PRESS WITH SEIZURE IN PRINTERS' STRIKE

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 10 (AP).—The possibility of Australia's labor government taking over newspapers to assure the people of news was mentioned today by Information Minister Arthur Calwell during a discussion of a dispute which has left Sydney and New South Wales virtually without newspapers.

The situation arose out of a disagreement of printers employed by the Sydney Evening Sun. Proprietors of other Sydney papers decided to support the Sun by suspending publication in favor of a composite newspaper. Some mechanical staffs and writers decided against working for the composite publication. Dismissals and suspensions resulted.

Today the suspended and dismissed newsmen produced a four page paper in competition with the four page composite. As newsprint is rationed, publishers asked where the newsmen obtained supplies. The customs minister, who controls the newsprint pool, declined to say whether he had authorized supplies to the writers.

State Hospitals Ridden by Politics, Says Courtney

Political manipulation of state institutions for the mentally ill was charged against the state Republican administration last night in a speech by Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic nominee for governor, at Kankakee. All state hospitals, Courtney said, are staffed by politicians without experience in the field. If elected Courtney promised humane treatment for all patients in state hospitals.

RECORD COUNTY POLL LIST SEEN IN REGISTRATION

Estimate 200,000 Added Names as Voters.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

An outpouring of citizens all day and last night to 4,588 precinct polling places in Cook county indicated a new high record in registration for a Presidential election.

The previous high registration was 2,282,487 for the Presidential election of 1940. Indications were that yesterday's rush might add 200,000 names. That would make a registration of 2,437,000—subject to reduction after a door to door canvass which starts today. Final figures will be available about Nov. 1.

Big Late Rush.

At 3 p. m. a sampling by the Chicago election board indicated 73,000 registrations up to that time. But the biggest business was done in the evening, with the precinct polling places open until 9.

There were many complaints that precincts had run out of registration cards. The Chicago board of election commissioners had distributed 150 to each of its 4,025 precincts, including 221 outside the city. Emergency squads rushed more to some sectors. There also were hurryup calls for more to the county clerk's office, which had given from 50 to 150 to each of its 563 precincts.

What this all meant was a moot question. Officials felt certain that registrars had accepted many registrations from persons already registered.

Duplicate Registrations.

How many thousands of duplicate registrations were made will not be known until downtown forces can cull the cards. The Chicago board promised figures today, but the county clerk will not have results available for several days.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki said that where cards were lacking, and citizens wrote the required information on any piece of paper, the registration will be completed on the proper forms at board headquarters. If any persons were prevented from registering by the lack of cards, they will be permitted to register today if they can prove their statements, he said.

Information on Changes.

Special interest attaches to the registration, because thru it the political leaders will get information, now sadly lacking, on the probable vote from areas where there have been rapid war time shifts in population. How many of the hundreds of thousands of new residents, many from outside of Illinois, are qualified to vote is one of the big questions of the campaign.

For the first time the Chicago election board will ascertain the numbers of newly registered men and women separately. Various political deductions also are likely to be based upon these figures.

Gets Year and Day Term for Jimmying Mail Boxes

Walter Glowinski, 41, of 4700 Beacon st., yesterday was sentenced by federal Judge William J. Campbell to a year and a day in jail for breaking into four north side mail storage boxes. A plea for probation by him was denied by the court.

G. O. P. KNOWS HOW TO PROVIDE JOBS: CAPEHART

Democrats Failed, Indianan Says.

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

In the great Calumet industrial district of Indiana, where the fear of idle steel mills and factories haunts all citizens, Homer E. Capehart, Republican nominee for senator, made a plea yesterday for votes that will indorse his party's program for full employment and fair operation of the industrial system after the war.

"The Republican party under Gov. Dewey and a Republican congress will have to know how to provide jobs," he said in a radio address. "The so-called indispensable man, with a record of utter failure, has failed to tell labor how he expects to give them full employment when peace returns."

Started Midwest Swing.

Back in 1938, when Republicans were timid and hopeless, Capehart decided people ought to stop complaining about the New Deal and do something about it. The result was a great corn field conference on his farm near Washington, Ind., which helped start the midwest swing back to Republicanism. The conference also launched Capehart into politics, somewhat to his surprise.

In all his speeches in Lake county, Capehart has emphasized the menace of Communism in the Democratic party, asserting that the New Deal-Communist combination is out to kill private industry and destroy free American labor.

"The very foundation of our American system of government," he said, "was built on the long established principle of freedom of religion, freedom of speech, and sanctity of the home. Communism strikes at the very heart of all three of these.

Must Not Happen Here.

"We have seen examples of the one party state in Germany, Italy, and in other countries where freedom of the individual has long ceased to exist. That must not happen in America."

CARR REPLIES: MULCAHY GETS HOODLUMS' AID

Leo Carr, Republican nominee for sheriff of Cook county, renewed his campaign against his opponent, Sheriff Mulcahy, and the "hoodlum supported Kelly machine" in an address last night at 3236 Armitage av. before 150 workers of the 34th ward, by charging that Mulcahy's administration had failed.

"Maybe my opponent has tried to do a good job, but Kelly selected his personnel and told him who should and could be allowed to gamble in Cook county. Because the acting sheriff owes his entire political career to the mayor, he has been forced to knuckle to him. When he was without Kelly's support and depending on the votes of people who knew him, he was rejected as alderman after one year," Carr declared.

Answering Sheriff Mulcahy's recent statement that the "hoodlums are against me," Carr said, "I suppose he is trying to infer that they're for me instead. Well, they're not and he knows it. My opponent and the entire city hall machine are hoodlum supported and hoodlum operated," he concluded.

TRIBUNE REGAINS A 'LOST' READER IN FREE BELGIUM

It has been more than three years since Henry Vanderstock, a former professor at Brussels university who has been living in Nazi controled Belgium, has seen a copy of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Now that his country has been liberated, he is looking forward to reading THE TRIBUNE again, he wrote in a letter received by his cousin, John Weir, 4532 Austin av. "I like to receive THE TRIBUNE," Vanderstock's letter said. Prior to German occupation of Belgium, Weir sent his cousin THE TRIBUNE regularly.

CONFESSED NAZI SPY SENTENCED TO PRISON TERM

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Wilhelm Von Rautter, 44, naturalized American who pleaded guilty of espionage, today was sentenced to 29 years in a federal penitentiary.

Von Rautter, who was arrested Jan. 11 in his apartment near the Brooklyn navy yard, had told Federal Judge Grover C. Moscowitz he was forced into espionage by the gestapo, which had threatened his family in Germany.

He was charged with attempting to send information to Germany by writing in invisible ink between the lines of typewritten letters.

PEPPER CHARGES DULLES BETRAYS BI-PARTY PEACE

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.] said today a letter purportedly written by John Foster Dulles, Republican Presidential nominee Thomas E. Dewey's foreign affairs adviser, "proves that an agreement cannot be made with the Republican party to keep peace-making nonpartisan."

Pepper told a press conference that "in the unlikely event of a Republican victory" he would demand a senate investigation of Dulles, should Dulles be appointed secretary of state.

The senator said President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull had taken Dulles into "official confidence" but that now "that confidence has been violated" in a letter Pepper said Dulles sent to Mrs. S. Carter Hall of the Wilton [Conn.] League of Women Voters.

Statement of Pepper.

In a statement, Pepper said:

"This breach of faith was committed in the writing and publishing of a letter in which Mr. Dulles advised a voter—ostensibly in reply to a request for information—that the Republican isolationists in congress would be willing to 'go far' toward the making of a coöperative peace with a Republican in office, whereas they would not be willing to do so if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected."

Dulles said he had no comment.

"It takes two parties," Pepper said, "to carry out an agreement of nonpartisan or bipartisan action. In a shocking attempt to make political capital out of the unusual position of trust to which Mr. Dulles was admitted and to misuse for political purpose the authority that might attach to this unprecedented role, both Mr. Dulles and Mr. Dewey have now shown their hand."

Doubts Senate Coöperation.

Pepper quoted the letter as saying in part:

"As far as getting the necessary support of the senate, I have no doubt whatever that this will come more readily if Gov. Dewey is President than if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected."

The senator said Dulles declared further in the letter that he had talked to all members of the senate foreign relations committee except Sen. Nye [R., N. D.] and that "I [Dulles] think they'll go far to back up a Republican President, but I'm pretty skeptical as to what will happen if Mr. Roosevelt is reelected, in view of the very bad relations which exist between him and both houses of congress."

"Now what does this mean?" asked Pepper, a member of the foreign relations committee.

Pepper Calls It Blackmail.

"In the first place, it appears that Mr. Dulles is attempting to blackmail the electorate by offering an open threat that members of his own party will repeat their performance of 1920, when they destroyed peace, unless Mr. Dewey is elected.

"Mr. Dulles' letter proves that an agreement cannot be made with the Republican party to keep peace-making nonpartisan. The agreement already is violated."

Pepper said further that Dulles, as head of the Wall st. law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell, had "frequently represented international cartels—organizations of the type which the Democratic administration regards as hazardous to the maintenance of world peace."

"One of Mr. Dulles' foreign connections which I believe the people of America are especially entitled to know about," Pepper continued, "is his relationship to the banking circles that rescued Adolf Hitler from the financial depths and set up his Nazi party as a going concern."

Continue Trial of Truck Driver in Baby's Death

Trial of Henry Zawacki, 26, of 2637 Crystal st., on charges of manslaughter, reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident, and driving without a chauffeur's license, were continued yesterday by Judge John Gutknecht in Felony court until Nov. 3. Zawacki, a part time garage helper, is accused of driving the truck that killed an 11 month old baby and injured its mother and two pedestrians Saturday night at 11th and State sts.

MACHINE WON'T DICTATE TO ME, SAYS DEMPSEY

A group of Protestant ministers who have indorsed John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, met with Dempsey in the La Salle hotel yesterday to formulate plans for actively supporting him. The meeting was called by the Rev. Melville A. Sjostrand, pastor of the Messiah Evangelical Lutheran church.

"I have no political alignments and am obligated to no one," Dempsey said. "Unlike my opponent, I am an independent candidate and when I am elected my office will never become a cog in a machine.

"Cook county may face a crime wave after the war. There was an increase this year as compared with 1943. When I am state's attorney, criminals will very soon realize that they cannot flout the law in this community and get away with it. I will make the streets of Chicago safe for women and children."

THREE BOYS SNATCH PURSE.

Helen Gradus, 5039 S. Marshfield av., reported to police yesterday that three boys at 49th st. and Ashland av. snatched her purse containing $6.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

GIVE GOV. DEWEY G.O.P. CONGRESS, BROOKS PLEADS

Urges Aurora Women to Vote Straight Ticket.

Democratic members of congress are fully responsible for the New Deal, and at least 12 more Republicans must be elected to the senate at the same time Tom Dewey is elected President, Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] last night told the Aurora Republican Women's club in Aurora.

Sen. Brooks declared any one supporting Dewey and withholding similar support from Republican candidates for the senate and house shows a lack of understanding.

"While Ex-Convict Earl Browder and Sidney Hillman seek to take over our nation by a coalition of the Communists, the American Labor party, and the Political Action committee, all supporting Candidate Roosevelt and other Democratic candidates," Brooks said, "the American people are fighting to preserve their American form of government thru the election of Gov. Dewey.

Needs Support in Congress.

"Those who support Thomas E. Dewey for President and refuse to give equal support to Republican candidates for the United States senate and house of representatives this year show a lack of understanding of the functions of our form of government.

"The New Deal could not have imposed its burocratic, totalitarian tactics upon the American people without the support of the congress, which has been overwhelmingly Democratic. The Democratic members are fully responsible for the New Deal and all of its acts."

Large Democratic majorities permitted Roosevelt the strategy of allowing some Democrats occasionally to speak against one of his measures, so that when running for re-election they could cite these instances as proving their "independence," Brooks said.

Would "Tie His Hands."

"To elect Thomas E. Dewey President and not support him with Republican members in both houses, so that he can at least have Republican leadership in command of the vital committees, would be to tie his hands in a fatal way."

Therefore it is especially important in Illinois not only that Dewey be given this state's electoral votes but that Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator, be elected Nov. 7, Brooks said. The only way to stop the conspiracy of the New Deal, Browder, and Hillman is to vote the straight Republican ticket, he declared.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—Disclosure that American soldiers on ships returning to this country are being issued federal "bobtailed" ballots in possible violation of the service men's vote law was made today by Rep. Miller [R., Neb.].

Miller, who last week returned from England on a large transport ship, said soldiers aboard were given the short ballots and invited to mark them, if they desired.

"These ballots were to be mailed from New York after the ship docked," Miller said. "The law forbids use of the bobtailed ballot by all service personnel in this country. These soldiers could have voted state absentee ballots after they landed here. Their federal ballots are of doubtful legality to say the least. They could readily be contested in court and might be thrown out altogether."

Missing Four Days

(Story in adjoining column.)

Ronald Thompson, 20 months old, missing since Saturday in Dayton, O., where a newly hired nurse disappeared with him.

5 Boys Seized in Mail Box and Automobile Thievery

North avenue police yesterday seized five boys, two of them accused of rifling mailboxes, and with the three others also accused of stealing six automobiles. They are Thomas Fanter, 16, 1611 N. Bell av.; Russell Lamberg, 13, 1639 N. Oakley av.; Kenneth Thomas, 14, 1660 N. California av.; Anthony D'Amico, 16, 1653 N. California av., and William Creech, 15, 1754 N. Washtenaw av. Detectives Bernard Carroll and William Thomas said that Fanter and Lamberg admitted stealing and cashing two service allotment checks from mailboxes.

POLICE SEEKING VANISHED CHILD AND NURSEMAID

Soldier's Son Missing in Dayton, O.

Dayton, O., Oct. 10 [Special].—Police in cities thruout Ohio and the middle west were asked today by Dayton authorities to join in the search for Ronald Thompson, 20 months old, who disappeared Saturday while in the custody of a woman hired to care for him while his mother was at work.

The mother of the boy, Mrs. Anna T. Thompson, 25, who is employed as night superintendent of St. Ann's hospital here, was reported near collapse as the day passed without word of Ronald's whereabouts. The father, Pvt. Arthur C. Thompson, is with the army overseas.

Mrs. Mary Wilkey, 41, who had charge of Ronald, also has disappeared and is being sought on suspicion of kidnaping.

Answered Ad.

Mrs. Thompson said she first met Mrs. Wilkey on Friday when the woman came to her home in response to a newspaper ad seeking some one to look after the child. The mother said Mrs. Wilkey told her she had just arrived in Dayton.

Mrs. Thompson said she did not insist on references because the help situation is so desperate. All she learned about Mrs. Wilkey, she said, was her name and age. She arranged for her to call Saturday morning at the home of Ronald's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Waker, and spend the day with the boy.

Took Child Out.

"She seemed unusually anxious to get the job," Mrs. Thompson told police.

Mr. and Mrs. Waker said Mrs. Wilkey took the child out Saturday afternoon, explaining she was going to take him to a barber shop and to a 5 and 10 cent store to buy him a toy "so they could become better acquainted."

Police said they have located a barber in the neighborhood who recalls that a woman and child answering the description of the two visited his shop, but did not wait because the place was busy. Late Saturday night, Mrs. Thompson received a telegram from Mrs. Wilkey sent from a telephone pay station saying she had been delayed, but would return Ronald that night or the next day.

Mrs. Wilkey was described as wearing a blue woolen dress, a brown hat, and brown shoes, weighing 120 pounds and looking younger than her professed 41 years. Ronald is fair haired and dimpled and wore a red and white blouse, a light blue sweater, and white shoes.

DEWEY BUTTONS REACH TRIBUNE; WATCH THEM GO

THE TRIBUNE received a limited supply of Dewey-Bricker buttons yesterday. They were expected to be distributed within a few hours today because of the heavy demand from voters and the inability of Republican headquarters to supply precinct workers.

John F. Gillespie, manager of THE TRIBUNE'S public service offices, said the campaign insignia—3,000 buttons and 4,000 metal tabs—would be distributed from the offices at 1 S. Dearborn st. and Tribune Tower.

"They won't last long," Gillespie prophesied. "For the last 10 days we've had from 700 to 800 calls a day from people who have been eagerly awaiting the chance to wear badges proclaiming that they are going to vote for Gov. Dewey for President."

Republican state and western headquarters still were doing the Alphonse-Gaston act, referring inquiries to each other. Each campaign manager insisted that he didn't have buttons and wasn't quite sure who did.

Several Chicago ward committeemen and downstate county chairmen were buying buttons with private funds so that precinct workers could pacify voters. The county and ward leaders had to pay much higher prices than the national committee's quotations for buttons that seemed to be invisible. Also scarce and in demand at headquarters were large photographs of Gov. Dewey.

AP SUIT CALLED BLOW AT ROOTS OF FREE PRESS

Judge's Dissent Touches Heart of Concept.

[This is another chapter of the new book, "Liberty and the Press," which records The Chicago Tribune's struggle to preserve a free press for the American people. Yesterday's instalment detailed the beginnings of the government attack on the Associated Press and its members.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

On June 13, 1942, an official of the department of justice appeared at a meeting of Associated Press directors in New York and told them the department was considering filing a criminal or a civil suit against the Associated Press. He told the directors that if they gave the AP service to the Chicago Sun immediately, pending adjudication of the matter in the courts, the government would start a civil action only. The directors refused to do this and the next development, notwithstanding the threat of criminal action, was the filing of the civil suit, under the anti-trust laws, in the District court of the United States.

This suit, filed in August, 1942, named as defendants the 18 directors of the Associated Press, 17 newspaper corporations, each a member of the AP, and all other members of the AP as a class, totaling approximately 1,250 persons, firms, and corporations.

How this hit the smaller newspaper members of the AP may be seen in their action in organizing for the defense of the suit. Robert T. Neill was entered in the case as attorney for a special committee of the Associated Press members in small communities. The question involved, the freedom of the press, had gone far beyond a business or political rivalry in Chicago.

Sees Threat to All.

On Dec. 1, 1942, representatives of 1,000 smaller newspapers met to consider this threat to their papers. Edward E. Lindsay, editor of the Decatur Herald and Review, made this statement:

"We believe that most of the publishers of the AP newspapers have no interest in the controversy between two powerful Chicago morning newspapers. We believe that there are many who do not agree with the policies of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Nevertheless all of us are alarmed over the possibility that the government's effort to obtain, by force, an AP membership for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S morning competitor, the Chicago Sun, may result in the destruction of the AP. We are standing at a fork in the road. The way we take will determine whether this nation can continue to have 2,000 lusty and independent daily newspapers or will it, like most of the countries of the world, be forced to rely upon the reports of large, regional newspapers operating under the supervision of the national government."

Filed by Both Sides.

Interrogatories, answers, and affidavits were filed in the case by both sides and the government moved for a summary judgment. This would be a court judgment without formal trial, on admitted facts. The judges were Circuit Judges Learned Hand, Thomas M. Swan, and Augustus N. Hand. Weymouth Kirkland, Howard Ellis, and Leslie Hudson appeared for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE.

Press Freedom Endangered.

Col. McCormick made an affidavit in opposition to the prayer for summary judgment, giving his opinions in detail on how freedom of the press was abridged in the government demands.

"Whatever the formal demands and prayers may be," he said, "the whole tenor and object of this suit is by indirection to force AP to render its services to all applicants conforming to standards deemed reasonable by the government, thus transforming AP from a private enterprise into a public utility or a quasi-public utility.

"The right of AP to remain silent or not to publish its reports to any individual or newspaper is protected by the 1st amendment as well as AP's affirmative right to speak or publish."

Col. McCormick found many other things in the proposed order which in his opinion violated the first amendment. He discussed one argument that had been presented in the case, that the first amendment should be turned into a guaranty that the government will do all things necessary to foster as many newspapers as the public may wish. This was an argument which the majority of this court later accepted and embodied in its decision.

Motion for Judgment Granted.

"Under such specious arguments," said Col. McCormick in his affidavit, "have dictatorial governments everywhere subjected the press to their control. Under guise of freeing the press they have dominated the press. In my opinion the most dangerous modern threat to free speech and press are those academic thinkers who desire the government to control, regulate, and regiment, the press in order to obviate some imagined or comparatively insignificant evil of the press."

Judges Learned Hand and Augustus N. Hand made the decision in this case, granting the motion for summary judgment and granting the chief injunctions asked by the government. Judge Swan dissented.

Charges of monopoly and of attempts to monopolize any part of trade and commerce were rejected by the court, which held that certain by-laws of the AP were unlawful because the court believed them inimical to the public interest.

Judge Swan in his dissenting opinion said that the effect of the majority decision would be that the court would have to supervise the revamping of the AP by-laws, and that "such revamping will require many changes in the present set-up and will present many problems which I fear the court may be ill-equipped to decide."

While the question of the appeal to the United States Supreme court was under consideration among the AP directors, Col. McCormick wrote a letter to the AP committee directing the conduct of this case in which he outlined his reasons for the appeal being taken. He gave it as his expert opinion that a dangerous precedent had been set and that the temporary guardians of the privileges and immunities of the press must do all in their power to erase this precedent.

FIRM GIVES $100,000 TO SCHOLARSHIPS FOR EMPLOYES' CHILDREN

Max Epstein.

Scholarships totaling an initial $100,000 in memory of the General American Transportation corporation's employes who have died in this war were announced yesterday by Max Epstein, chairman of the board.

The fund was received by President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago for awarding to children of employes of the corporation who qualify and who wish to attend the college of the university. The first of these will be granted to students entering in February, 1945.

President Hutchins said unusual features of the new scholarships would be first that they cover tuition and living expenses for out of town students, with those living at home or adjacent to the campus allowed two-fifths of the total grant to be spent at the student's discretion. The second feature is that the transportation corporation had in mind solely the value of a general education as against technical, industrial, or specialized scientific education.

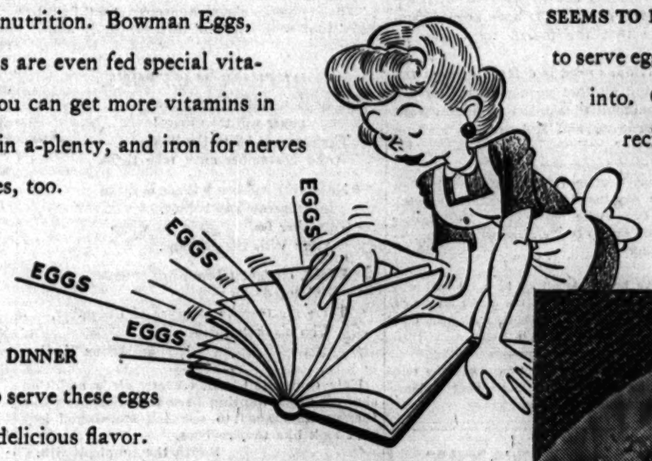
MY NEW MELODY IN E-G-G

Bud Bowman

START THE DAY HAPPY with a big, white Bowman Egg grinning from your egg cup, or a couple of 'em scrambled tenderly. Here's the sort of thing doctors and nutritionists are talking about when they say, "Eat a better breakfast, do a better job."

EGGS ARE FULL of good nutrition. Bowman Eggs, especially. Why, the hens are even fed special vitamin-rich rations so you can get more vitamins in their eggs. There's protein a-plenty, and iron for nerves and red corpuscles, too.



SEEMS TO ME womenfolks have a mighty good reason to serve eggs more often . . . all that food value to bust into. Of course, it takes a good cook to find recipes like Ragout of Eggs or Poached Eggs Duse to take Dad's mind off of beefsteak. But it can be done.

BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, DINNER or bedtime is the time to serve these eggs that have such delicate, delicious flavor.

Any way is good, too. At least, thousands of Chicagoland families think so. Bowman milkmen sell hundreds of dozens of these large, fresh eggs every day. Why don't you try' em, too?

Recipe for Ragout of Eggs. Melt 3 tbsp. butter and add 2 cups mushrooms, sliced, and 1 tbsp. minced onion. Fry lightly. Add 2 tbsp. flour, stir well, and then add 1 cup milk, ½ tsp. salt, speck of pepper. Simmer until mixture thickens. Cut 6 hot, hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise, removing yolks. Place the whites hollow side up on a hot platter. Put yolks thru sieve. Add half of sieved yolks to mushroom mixture. Fill centers of the whites with mixture; top each with a sautéd mushroom button. Heap remainder of yolk in center of platter. Garnish with parsley.

DUMBARTON HOAX.

After seven weeks of conferring at Dumbarton Oaks a tentative draft of a plan for world organization has been evolved by the spokesmen for Britain, Russia, China, and the United States. In outline and in detail the project is scarcely distinguishable from the old league of nations. There would be an assembly, a debating society which all nations would join as equals, and a council of 11, in which the big four nations and France would have permanent seats, while the other six places would be distributed by vote of the assembly. The assembly would talk; any action that might be taken would be determined by the council. At its service—and this is something of a novelty—would be placed an organization similar to the present joint chiefs of staff board. Instead of being called the league or society of nations the new world organization would be known as the united nations.

So much is fairly clear, but a good many details of the utmost importance remain to be filled in. The council may decide to use force against "aggressors" or others who threaten the peace, but the terms are not defined. If the United States gave asylum to an Indian revolutionary would that be an act of aggression? If we chose, as in '98, to give aid to a people like the Cubans suffering under a foreign yoke and seeking their independence would that be an act of aggression? The document throws no light on these questions and a hundred others like them.

There is a paragraph, hidden away in the middle of the plan, which says, or seems to say, that the council will have nothing to do with matters "which by international law are solely within the domestic jurisdiction of the state concerned." The more gullible will accept that as an assurance that our tariffs, our immigration laws, the management of our gold reserve, and other matters of the sort cannot be subjects for action against us. Nothing in the language of the draft justifies that confidence. What is international law? Where does it say that these matters are of purely domestic concern? It surely can be shown very easily that our immigration laws, by denying relief to overcongested nations in the old world, may promote unrest abroad and therefore invite war. Our tariffs are very widely regarded abroad as an unsettling influence on the world's economy, and so is our accumulation of gold. What assurance is there that our policies will not be made the occasion for a joint war against us?

The United States is today the richest country in the world. What we have others covet. We know how zealously foreign nations have schemed to get us on their side in war. There is no slightest reason to doubt that they would use the machinery of the new league, if they could, to serve their ends. There is nothing in the preliminary draft to indicate that our negotiators were on the alert to prevent just such abuses.

The assumption is that the world will be notably steady, secure, and prosperous after the war, and therefore that the United States will risk little by signing on the dotted line. In truth we shall more likely live in a troubled world of nations overflowing with hate and harassed by poverty; a world in which the nations will be faced with all their old problems and a score of new ones. The temptation to solve them at our expense will be irresistible.

We are asked to commit our future to a council in which one permanent seat goes to Russia, where today, according to Alexander Barmine, a former soviet official, at least 10,000,000 men and women are rotting in concentration camps. This Russia is to help lead the world toward liberty, reconciliation, and peace, having already, of its own motion, gobbled up half a dozen neighbor states and thereby invited future rebellions and wars.

Another of our partners is to be the same Britain that is hated, and justly hated, by hundreds of millions of Indians and other subject peoples. Mr. Alex Small's articles in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE tell why. Is our membership in the league intended to enlist us in the dirty business of keeping the Indians in misery or does it merely require us to give them no help in their efforts to liberate themselves?

And then there is China, which is pitifully weak and wholly disorganized, as David Lawrence showed the other day. Its government is headed by Chiang Kai-shek, a military despot whose moral quality is suggested by his ever-changing harem. At last count he had four wives or concubines. Dumbarton Oaks says Chiang has the wisdom and the restraint to make him just the man to tell America when to go to war.

Some Americans are already falling over themselves in their eagerness to get our country into the new league. This newspaper can't share their enthusiasm. We know the kind of world we live in. We know the motives, most of them base, that actuate the nations, particularly in their relations with the United States. Until the blank spaces in the Dumbarton agreement are filled in, and until the ambiguities have been cleared up, the only sensible policy for the people of the United States is a policy of extreme caution. We can survive outside this league or any other league. We may not survive in it.

THE WHIPPING BOY.

Members of the Midwest Manufacturers' association complained at their convention that, while the statutes creating the departments of commerce and labor were similar, the department of labor "aggressively represents the interests of the workers," whereas the department of commerce affords no like support to industry. The association seemed to feel that the remedy lay in a more vigorous leadership exercised by the commerce department.

The manufacturers, if they give a little more consideration to the matter, will find that there is a more fundamental influence at work. That is the whole New Deal attitude toward business. The apathy of the department of commerce is only a reflection of the indifference, if not hostility, of the entire administration toward the business man.

Mr. Roosevelt has made this a keystone of his political policy and is on record in many inflammatory utterances on the subject. The man who could create the concept of the "economic royalist" out of his own mind and say that an industrial community that has found that it had met its match would now find that it had met its master in him could hardly be expected to surround himself with people who were not business haters. Even the astounding performance of industry in meeting the demands for production brought by war—a performance never aided, but frequently hamstrung, by Mr. Roosevelt's administration—has earned few if any kind words from him.

If industry wants encouragement so that the productive resources of the country may be freed and peace time employment and prosperity created, it will not seek it thru a change of leadership in the commerce department. It will seek it thru a change of administration.

THE CLOSED SHOP AS A POLITICAL WEAPON.

The authorities of Nassau county, New York, are investigating the charge of Miss Frances Guzzo, a garment worker, that she was fired because she refused to pay a dollar into a Roosevelt campaign fund. Miss Guzzo, who has a brother in France and another about to enter military service, is a Dewey supporter and refused to contribute to Mr. Roosevelt.

The assessment was one voted by the union, specifically as a campaign contribution. The union operates under a closed shop contract. If one of its members becomes delinquent in union dues the employer is required by that contract to discharge the member. That is what happened to Miss Guzzo. Her union is the International Ladies' Garment Workers, an AFL affiliate headed by David Dubinsky.

Mr. Dubinsky, an ardent Roosevelt supporter, is not the dictator of his union as Sidney Hillman is of the organization of men's garment workers which he heads. Mr. Dubinsky is the employe of his members, and does what they tell him to do, not they what he tells them to do. The members run the union and the majority of the members are without doubt supporters of the Roosevelt candidacy or they would not have voted the assessment for the Roosevelt campaign fund.

The question boils down to this: Can a majority of the union force the minority holding a different political opinion to contribute to a candidate whom the minority oppose? Obviously the question would not have arisen if the union had stuck to the purpose for which it was organized and by which it is given federal statutory protection in getting its objectives, including the closed shop contract. That objective is collective bargaining to improve the economic condition of the union members.

There is a good deal of balderdash written on both sides of the closed shop question. Some unions, notably the railroad brotherhoods, have made themselves strong and effective without having it. Many employers, on the other hand, have found it advantageous to deal with unions that have a closed shop and would not eliminate that provision from their union contracts if they could.

But if unions are going to expand from the economic into the political field and use the power of the closed shop to regiment their members politically and to punish them with loss of their jobs if they insist upon retaining their political independence, the majority of the citizens of this country who do not belong to any union are going to do something to prevent such abuses of power. Unfortunately, the reforms that will be insisted upon may, in the course of curbing the abuses of union power for political purposes, injure unions in the economic field. That, however, is a hazard which unions and their leaders should have considered more carefully than many of them did before they embarked on their course of compulsory political partisanship.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

Citizens who took over the job of block captains in the office of civilian defense a couple of years ago in the impression that this organization was intended to safeguard lives and property in the event of enemy bombings are now being chiseled for contributions to the Democratic campaign funds so that Chicago can be carried for Mr. Roosevelt. This is another good reason to support Ald. Waller's position that it is high time to fold up the outfit.

The solicitation in behalf of the man who is pleased to refer to himself as the "commander in chief" and a certain congressman whom Sidney Hillman carries in his CIO pouch bears out the warning given long ago that the OCD could easily be perverted into a political agency. When block captains are exposed to a shakedown, the initials of the OCD have been scrambled in order that the fourth term may be delivered C. O. D.

What the civilians need is defense against the fourth term and all that goes with it, particularly the Communist inspired popular front which Earl Browder and Hillman are seeking to build.

Vice President Wallace told interviewers in New York the other day that he would continue to work to make the Democratic party over. Most people thought that job was to be "cleared with Sidney."—Los Angeles Times.

UNKNOWN DISCOVERER.

This is the time of year for observances in honor of the New World's discoverer—Christopher Columbus for most of us and Leif Eriksen for the rest. But there is a man with a prior claim, resting on fairly credible testimony, whose name is never mentioned in public meetings. If there is a memorial to him anywhere in this land, whether statue, plaque, or place name, we have never heard of it. Therefore let us speak a few words in memory of an Icelandic seafarer named Bjarni Herjolfsen, the discoverer who has been brushed off in favor of bigger and better captains.

* * *

About 15 years before Leif's voyage and brief colonization of Wineland the Good, Bjarni sailed from Iceland to join his father, who had emigrated to Greenland with Erik the Red, Leif's father. He steered westward on hearsay sailing directions in search of a country of mountains and glaciers, but gales blew him far to the southwest and fogs prevented him from correcting his course. After many days of this dirty weather he was able to get a bearing due west, and one day later he sighted land. He sailed in close to shore and saw low hills, heavily wooded. This was plainly not Greenland.

* * *

Bjarni then sailed two days on a northeast course and had another landfall—flat, wooded country. His crew wanted to go ashore for water, but Bjarni refused and sailed northeast for three days more, when he reached a land of mountains but no ice. Again he said, "This is not Greenland," and worked his way northward. Four days later, with good sailing weather, he reached Greenland, close to the settlement where his father lived.

* * *

These three landfalls seem to have been Cape Cod, Nova Scotia, and Newfoundland. Since Bjarni did not go ashore, he won no reputation as an explorer. But his talk about the unknown countries to the southwest caused Leif Eriksen to go in search of them. The link between these two men is even closer than that, for Leif bought Bjarni's ship for his Wineland voyage.

* * *

Pass the bottle of aquavit, then, for a skoal to Bjarni Herjolfsen, the relatively unknown discoverer of America.

THE THREE MAGI.

(Suggested by the legend of the Three Kings of Cologne.)

They say the kings were buried in Cologne,
That lovely miracle of soaring grace,
With its twin spires that captured prayer in stone,
And held it high. Within this cloistered place,
The legends say, their journeys ended; here
Peace welcomed them, after long wandering.
But men still seek to follow, every year,
The poignant quest they made—to find the King.

Their royalty saw One of greater worth
To whom they could give up their gifts that were
So priceless: darics made of gold the earth
Must yield to those who dig; the pungent myrrh
Gained from such thorny shrubs; the frankincense,
So volatile and pure, distilled from trees
Grown in high places . . . gifts of reverence.
And still the King has need of gifts like these.

So many gifts are lost now; there remain
Ashes where beauty flowered. Now the hour
Comes back to journey with the kings again.
Now may we somehow wrest from pain the power
To bring the costlier gifts, and kneeling, find,
After the battle flags shall all be furled,
An ancient legend singing in the mind,

October unsettles the leaves—
She never will rake them!
The gypsy is off to the hills,
And November must take them.

November will brush them in drifts

Unwanted—no wonder
There are tears in the eyes of December,

I worked for about three months and then found I had to quit because of an illness which has disabled me, but the illness was in no way connected with my service. I have found another job that barely pays me enough for my room and board. Can I file a claim for partial disability compensation?"

The veterans administration states that for a veteran to draw compensation for a nonservice connected disability, such disability must be complete or total disability not the result of the veteran's misconduct and he must have had at least 90 days of active military or naval service. Under the present laws the veterans administration cannot consider partial nonservice connected disability claims. THE DIGESTIVE TROUBLES OF SOLDIERS.

THE American doughboy is a strikingly healthy chap. By and large he views his job sanely. His chief objective is to get the chore over with so that he can come back home. But among those who fret, whose superiors have not been able to fit them into suitable tasks, a substantial number will present signs of indigestion. The ensuing disability is more than enough to transform the individual from an asset into one who requires care.

Thus it is that functional dyspepsia becomes a primary army problem. No matter how extensive the examination may be, no organic explanation will be forthcoming; no weak spot along the alimentary tract will be detected. The only answer to why these patients complain, why they vomit or persist in exhibiting pain, lies in the fact that they are emotionally disturbed.

Now and then it is possible to find a psychological basis. If the victim is inwardly rebellious toward military life, if he is worried about home troubles, his mental unrest will be translated into a score or more of aches. All may be incapacitating and will vary from nausea and headache to diarrhea. The only place where these sufferers are comfortable and happy is in the hospital. After a pleasant sojourn, attempts to discharge them will be resisted or accompanied by the reappearance of distress.

The alert medical officer who recognizes the situation is quick to recommend a discharge. He realizes that the soldier cannot be adjusted to the self-sacrificing teamwork which is demanded, without the expenditure of a large amount of time and money.

But there are real troubles—plenty of them. For the most part, cases of peptic ulcer have been managed on a fairly satisfactory basis. Once the lesion has healed, return to duty is advised, with the victim under more supervision than normal. Should symptoms recur, one may assume that the warrior's usefulness has been exhausted. Chronic gastritis, with true irritation and degeneration of the lining of the stomach is relatively uncommon. Acute upsets, however, are frequent. These episodes usually follow the taking of edibles outside the jurisdiction of the command. Ordinarily, the seizure is over within two or three days.

In the course of a recent chat with one of my colleagues, a specialist in digestive disorders, who has just returned from the South Pacific, I learned that a stubborn sort of diarrhea was the most perplexing condition which confronted his staff. By the time the invalids arrived at the base hospital, most of them had been given adequate courses of the sulfa drugs, as well as medicines designed to combat amebic infestations. He was loud in his praise of the grit displayed by these patients. He found, on the whole, that most cases would yield to an old but simple program which included the use of kaolin [clay], plus certain preparations of bismuth. A few weeks in the hospital restored most of these men to health. They gained weight under a controled diet and intestinal functions were speedily rehabilitated.

"Of course, you must understand," he concluded, "that combatants cannot be supplied with special menus. They have got to take whatever is at hand." American fathers and mothers may well be comforted by the fact that the meals supplied our service men are well balanced and nutritious.

Aloof Is Aloof Is Gertrude.

No one who gave the matter a moment's thought ever doubted but that the most detached viewpoint of the war would eventually be served up by Gertrude Stein. Now comes word that Miss Stein has written a new book under the very noses of the Nazis, a simple feat in that they would not have known what she was talking about, anyhow. Its title? "All Wars Are Interesting."

Hats in the Wind.

Maybe the milliners have a point in their fight for large, larger, largest hats this winter. This profound thought was prompted by the vision of a young lady in distress [but unaware of it] in a high wind the other night. She wore her hair in a pompadour. Behind it was perched a tiny skullcap. The wind removed the latter. Three men stood on a near-by curb and watched the flight of this tiny object in undisguised indecision: was it a hat or not? One fellow, a scientist no doubt and seeking the truth, chased it, recovered it, and advanced toward the young lady holding it in his hand. She did the only thing possible under the circumstances—looked astounded, felt the back of her head, and accepted the offering. The three men went away shaking their heads.

Seabee Safari.

Gentle debate between the marines and the Seabees as to which force is more necessary to efficient prosecution of the war in the Pacific already has become traditional in this war. Say to a Seabee that the marines are always the first to land, and back comes his retort that the marines wouldn't be worth their salt if the Seabees did not precede them and build roads on which they can chase the Japs. He may vary this with, "We go ashore first to build roads for the Japs to run away on so the marines can chase them." A navy flyer just back from the Pacific now tops all of these. During a recent invasion of a small Jap held island by the marines, invasion craft were gathered offshore in the darkness of dawn waiting for the signal to push in. A group of Seabees filled one boat. One of these swam ashore dragging with him a hastily printed sign. This he erected on the beach. He then swam back to his boat. When the marines landed in a hail of Jap bullets, they found the sign. It stated: "Welcome, marines!"

More on Fires.

Seventy-three years ago today the great Chicago fire was still raging. Mrs. Dorothy Johnson sends a note to report that her great grandmother, a pious lady who regarded card playing and cosmetics as equally sinful, risked her life by dashing into her burning house to rescue—a box of powder, a deck of cards, and a pound of butter.

Confusion.

Albert Mitchell, the answer man, and Mrs. Aimee Buchanan, who may be called the answer woman since she answers inquiries directed to the Encyclopedia Britannica, got together the other day on amazing questions they had received. Mr. Mitchell mentioned the man from Brooklyn who wrote to ask how he could get in touch with the man who wrote the Ten Commandments. Mrs. Buchanan countered with the lady who wrote she had heard a poem but could remember only one line of it. She wanted to know the name of the poem. The line she recalled was: "O'er the ramparts we watch."

Say That Again.

Apropos of Winston Churchill's championship of Basic English, J. W. O. asks if it is possible that Mr. Churchill accepted the office of prime minister to his majesty, the king of England, for the purpose of liquidating the king's English?

W. E. MACFARLANE.

Ironwood, Mich., Oct. 9.—I am very much distressed to have the news of Bert Macfarlane's death. Over these many years I have cherished his friendship and companionship. I have lost a real friend. In our business associations his advice and help have always been sound, constructive, and inspirational.

During these many years that we had the privilege of his association on the American Newspaper Publishers' association board of directors, he made a material and outstanding contribution toward the stability and betterment of the press of the country. His loss will be keenly felt by the host of friends and associates who loved and respected him, and by the country at large, which will share the loss of a mature and sound newspaper leader in the prime of life.

LINWOOD I. NOYES.

New York, Oct. 9.—The unexpected death of W. E. Macfarlane is a distinct loss to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and to American newspapers generally. Bert and I worked closely together for many years as directors of the bureau of advertising and as directors of the American Newspaper Publishers association. His qualities of character and executive ability had won him a widely honored position in the field which he knew so well. A great newspaper man, a vibrant personality, his death will be deeply regretted by newspaper men everywhere.

EDWIN S. FRIENDLY.

New York, Oct. 9.—I am shocked at hearing of Bert Macfarlane's passing. Not only does THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE lose one of its most outstanding executives but Press Wireless loses a director whose help and guidance have aided greatly in fostering a free press communication system for the press of the world.

A. WARREN NORTON,
President, Press Wireless, Inc.

New York, Oct. 10.—I was shocked, indeed, to read this morning of the death of Bert Macfarlane. He was an able newspaper man and I know what a loss his passing must be to his family, his friends, and his associates. My deepest sympathy to all of them.

ARTHUR HAYS SULZBERGER.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 10.—Our deepest sympathy over W. E. Macfarlane's passing. We full well know the void this leaves in your official family. He was the kind of man who did deeds of kindness for his fellows and as a newspaper man he ranked in the very foremost line.

THE NEW DEAL BRAND OF JOBS.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 21.—You are wrong about the New Deal not creating jobs. Down here in Dixie the New Deal hired Tom, Dick, and Harry to plow up crops and to kill pigs. Is there a sane man who would think Mr. Dewey would do this?

AMOS GENTRY.

"F. D. R."

Chicago, Sept. 28.—I was standing looking into your Tribune window at the war map and a little lady next to me asked me if I knew what F. D. R. stands for besides the New Deal.

"Folly, destruction, and ruin," she said.

HOW THE MAN HAS CHANGED.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—As governor of the state of New York, Franklin D. Roosevelt recognized a deep rooted tendency toward perpetual expansion in government, and bluntly rejected a public petition that he enlarge the powers of the state to assume jurisdiction over purely local concern. "I cite this," he said, "as an illustration of the present dangerous tendency to forget a fundamental of American democracy, which rests on the right of a locality to manage its own local affairs; the tendency to encourage concentration of power at the top of a governmental structure, alien to our system and more closely akin to a dictatorship or the central committee of a communist regime. We have met difficulties before this, and have solved them in accordance with the basic theories of representative democracy. Let us not now pursue the easy road of centralization of authority, lest some day we discover too late that our liberties have disappeared."

God help us today if he is elected for another four years, may we not forget those promises of F. D. R. today.

TED LIETZ.

ON THE PICKET LINE.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—While marketing today I noticed several of the stores were closed on account of striking employes. Outside of one of these stores stood an elderly gentleman, leaning on his cane. He said: "Striking for higher wages, eh? What means higher prices. Well, we oldsters, I guess, are not wanted, with our fixed incomes. Who cares if we can't exist?"

Could some of those strikers have seen and heard this, they perhaps would wake up and realize what they are helping to create. If our soldiers and sailors were to go on strike it would not be so funny, and they have just as much right to do so. I feel it would be the proper thing to send all strikers across to fight over there. They only help the enemy here.

DISGUSTED.

WOULD HAVE G. I.'s DISPOSE OF GERMANY.

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 24.—Why not let the fighting G. I.'s handle the disposition of Germany and Japan? Then Mr. Morgenthau and Roosevelt's cabinet committee, or Tom Dewey's cabinet, won't have to worry about it. If the men on the front lines can whip Germany and Japan, I am sure they could figure out what to do with them.

CHURCH LEADERS CONDEMN PAC AS FOE OF RELIGION

Assail Hillman Program as Communist Plot.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 10 [Special].—A blistering denunciation of Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee for "attempting to use the church for its own political ends" was issued today by the federated legislative committee of Pennsylvania, regarded as the corporate voice of Protestant churches in the state. The PAC is supporting President Roosevelt for a fourth term.

The church group, which met in the William Penn hotel, is composed of representatives of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches and 11 other state-wide religious and temperance organizations. It is headed by the Rev. John Yates of Harrisburg.

Denounced as Insult.

The attack on the PAC, it was explained in a resolution adopted by the committee, was inspired by the action of the PAC in sending a pamphlet to religious leaders asking their coöperation in the PAC program. The sending of the pamphlet was denounced as an "effrontery" and an "insult to the church."

The committee, asserting that the PAC has been accused openly of communism, said, "We still believe communism at heart to be atheistic."

A warning to churches and to "our host of Christian friends in the labor movement" that "slavery lies ahead if this kind of activity is to continue" was included in the resolution.

"Expedient" Appeal.

"These so-called Communists, leaders of an otherwise agreeable movement, find it expedient to appeal to the church because they have found out that neither they nor any other force can destroy it," the resolution charged.

"All of their efforts to drive faith in God out of the hearts of the people only strengthened the faith of the people. With all their murderous, cruel, brutal, and inhuman treatment of faithful followers of God in Russia, they could not destroy the church.

"They have now come to the place where they are forced to say, 'This is the church, this is the steeple, open the door and there are the people,' which is the title of their publication."

"Sugar-coated Communism."

The resolution accused the PAC not only of seeking to tell the church what its program should be, but also of suggesting "a creed which leaves God out and makes no mention of Christ." This creed is described as "nothing but the bitter pill of communism with a little sugar coating."

In addition to the Council of Churches, the committee's membership is composed of the following organizations:

The Women's Christian Temperance union of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon league, the Lord's Day alliance, the Sabbath Association of Western Pennsylvania, the National Reform association, the Pennsylvania Men's Christian Temperance league, the Pennsylvania Council of Christian Education, the Young Men's Christian association of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor union, the Young Women's Christian association of Pennsylvania, and the Pennsylvania State grange.

$500,000 LIBEL SUIT FILED AGAINST CIO BY VIVIEN KELLEMS

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 10 [Special].—The California council of the Congress of Industrial Organizations and several state CIO officials and employes are named by Miss Vivien Kellems, Connecticut war plant operator, in a libel suit asking $500,000 damages filed today in the federal court in San Francisco.

Miss Kellems based her complaint on an article published last April in the CIO Record, which accused her of "treasonable operations" and referred to her as "the wealthy Connecticut cutup whose correspondence with a leading Nazi operative in Argentina recently made news."

Several months ago Rep. Coffee [D., Wash.] read excerpts in the house from letters purportedly written by Miss Kellems to Frederick von Zedlitz in Argentina. An investigation later was undertaken into charges by Miss Kellems that her private mail was being spied upon for political purposes under the guise of censorship.

WORKERS' RALLY CALLED TO FIGHT CIO SLUSH FUND

Studebaker Employes to Meet Tonight.

Workers in the Chicago war plant of the Studebaker corporation, who waged a successful fight last year to rid their CIO local union of its communist officers, have joined with other employes of the plant to take up another fight for freedom. They are determined to "protect our American rights to vote for whom we please."

The workers are members of local 274 of the United Automobile Workers' union [CIO]. Their international union is headed by R. J. Thomas, who also is a member of the CIO political action committee.

Plan Massmeeting Tonight.

The Studebaker employes will hold a mass meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at 6611 Cottage Grove av., "to clarify our position in opposition to CIO-PAC activities."

Members of the United Steel Workers, United Packinghouse Workers, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers, United Farm Equipment Workers, and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers have promised to attend the meeting, Studebaker workers announced.

First Meeting of Series.

Pamphlets passed out in front of the Studebaker plant at 5555 Archer av. urged employes to attend the meeting. The pamphlets asserted that "political independence is the foundation of successful unionism. No one labor union should dictate the policies of government. No one political party should own any labor union."

Speakers at the meeting will include Thomas J. Downs, Republican nominee for congress in the 2d district; State Sen. Walker Butler [13th dist.], State Rep. Noble Lee [5th dist.], and William J. Grace, executive secretary of the Citizens' U. S. A. committee. Rep. Busbey [R., 3d], member of the house committee combatting subversive activities, also may address the meeting.

Studebaker workers said that the meeting would be the first of a series which they hoped would inspire similar meetings of CIO unionists in other plants who are opposed to the PAC's fourth term "slush fund."

● When the fast Pacific coast mail train pulls into Omaha on its way west, one member of the crew is Orlando E. Miles, a "North Western" 37-year service man.

Just mention his boys to him and a gleam comes into Miles' eyes. He has a right to be proud. Bill, formerly a "North Western" brakeman, is with the railroad engineering corps in Italy. Lieutenants Eugene and Robert are bombardiers; Eugene, incidentally, having seen service in the South Pacific. Richard also favored the Air Corps, and has recently been stationed in England.

But this doesn't complete the war picture for the Miles family. There's Dorothy, who works in a wartime ordnance plant; and Mrs. Miles, whose home canning program helps to conserve food for fighting men.

LET STATES TAX VAST FEDERAL LANDS: BRICKER

Urges New Revenues for Local Needs.

Wenatchee, Wash., Oct. 10 (AP).—A recommendation that local governments be authorized to tax federally owned property, "with proper restrictions," came tonight from Gov. Bricker, Republican candidate for Vice President.

The Ohio governor, arriving from Spokane on a two day tour of Washington, said taxation of federal property would enable local governments "to maintain their financial independence without looking to the federal government for handouts."

He asserted that "unseen, underlying currents" were washing away this financial independence. Local governments, he added, have been "more and more deprived of tax revenues" by federal acquisitions of property.

Owns 20 Per Cent of Land.

The federal government, Bricker said, now owns 395,000,000 acres, or more than 20 per cent of the total area of the country, which would have yielded $91,000,000 a year if taxed at local rates.

To help local governments make up the loss in revenue on some of this land, he continued, the federal government "devised a scheme known as 'payments in lieu of taxes.' Adherence to this policy, he said, "will help to destroy the financial independence of local governments."

Assails Large Subsidies.

Gov. Bricker urged that all property acquired for the conduct of the war, not needed for our permanent post-war military needs, should be returned to private ownership as soon as practicable after victory.

Taking up what he called a trend toward federal financing of activities heretofore financed by local governments, Bricker said federal subsidies to the states had increased from $217,000,000 in 1932 to $744,000,000 in 1941; that federal collection of taxes had risen from 22 per cent of the nation's total in 1932 to 38 per cent in 1939.

PAC CONTROLED BY COMMUNISTS, CIO LOCAL SAYS

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP).—The political action committee is "Communist controled," members of local 432, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America [CIO], declared in a resolution adopted tonight.

Fred Comanzo, local president, said the resolution declared the members were "free American citizens fully aware of our freedom to decide our own political choice regardless of the dictations of any labor leaders, including Sidney Hillman [chairman of the PAC and international president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers]."

"The political action committee of the CIO in this area," the resolution said, "is controled . . . by members of the Communist political association who are using the CIO labor unions of the capital district for front political organizations and have thereby brought much discredit and disunity to the general labor movement in this area."

Florists May Rent Autos Over Holidays, ODT Rules

The office of defense transportation yesterday said it will permit retail florists to use rented automobiles to make deliveries for Christmas, St. Valentine's day, Easter, and Mother's day, but will not be issued extra gasoline rations for their own equipment to meet these peak delivery loads. Officials said a similar plan used last season enabled florists to make all scheduled deliveries.

WHISKY DEALER AND AID HELD ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Sidney R. Leader, 34, of 4215 N. Francisco av., owner of three liquor stores, and Thomas A. Wilson, 38, of 1818 N. Drake av., a truck driver, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday on charges of removing the federal serial numbers from 109 cases of whisky. Both pleaded not guilty and their hearing was continued to Oct. 20, with bonds set at $1,000 each.

E. C. Yellowley, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit here, said the men were watched Saturday afternoon when they took 14 cases of liquor from one of Leader's stores at 3000 Irving Park rd. to another store at 3245 Fullerton av., also owned by Leader, where the cases were loaded into a truck.

The agents found a total of 109 cases in the truck, all with the serial numbers obliterated. The whisky was seized and warrants issued for arrest of the two. Ralph Harrick, acting supervisor of the alcohol tax unit, said he believed the whisky had been destined for delivery into dry states.

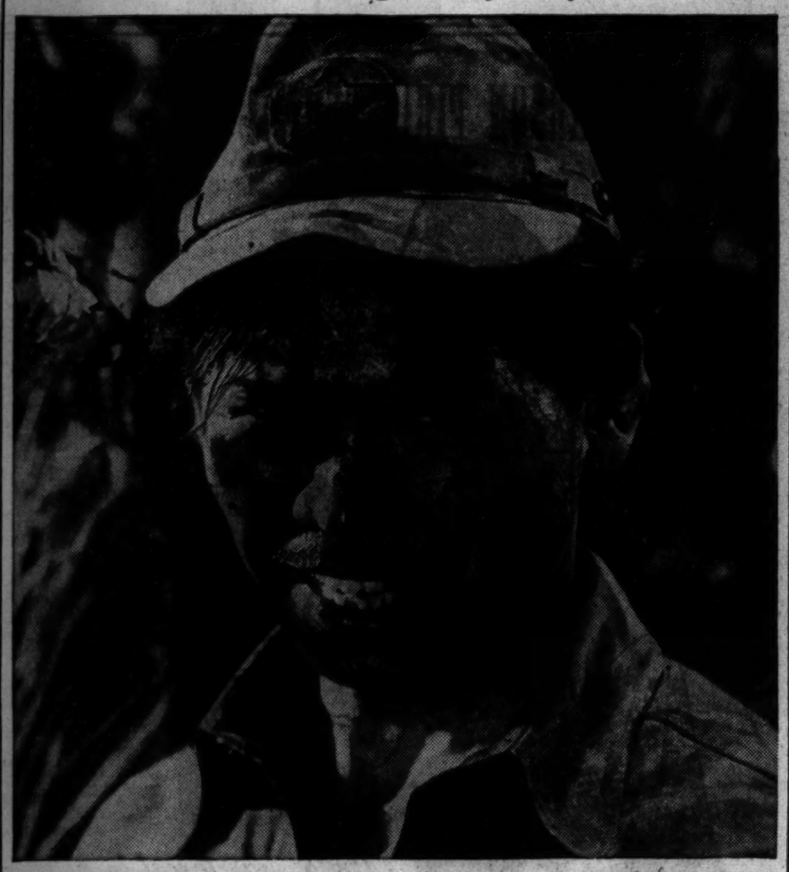
American Women Saving Deadly Surprise for Him



Into the used fat cans of America's kitchens this month will drip approximately 16 million pounds of salvaged fats that will help wipe the grin off this Jap's face.

Right now, he and his pals are still holding the Pacific Islands from which we used to import one billion pounds of fats and oils each year. Those fats must be replaced. They are vitally needed for explosives, battlefield medicines, synthetic rubber, tanks and parachutes with which to lick the Jap himself. And even the end of the European war won't help us at all, because the Jap has the fats.

So it is up to American women in their kitchens to keep on saving used fats until final victory is won—in Asia as well as in Europe. Save every drop. Remember, used fats are still so urgently needed the government gives you 2 free red points (and 4¢) for every pound you turn in to your butcher. Keep on saving . . . please!

CLOSING OF FIRM TOO HAZARDOUS UNDER NEW DEAL

So Suspended Factory Is Reopening Today.

going to operate until we find out who is coming to work," he said. "If machinists show up we will start building up our stock of civilian goods, manufacturing barn door [illegible] and hangers, strap and key hinges, and gate hooks and eyes. If only shippers and packers show up, we won't know what to do with them because we have nothing to ship or pack."

Lawrence made his original announcement closing the factory a half hour after a labor board election in his plant had resulted in selection of the CIO United Steelworkers as bargaining agent for the employes. The CIO won the election by a vote of 211 to 47, altho Lawrence had filed a protest because 137 employes absent on military leave had not been permitted to vote.

No Move to Bargain.

The CIO, in a statement by Harry Holloway, subdistrict director for the steelworkers' union, termed the closing a lockout, but Lawrence said it was "just a coincidence" that his announcement was virtually simultaneous with the CIO victory. He said he was closing up because it was too risky to do business under New Deal controls. With regard to possible post-war reopening, he said:

"Certainly if post-war manufacturing is to be done under present conditions with hundreds of Washington bureaus issuing thousands of orders, each duly threatening the manufacturer with large fines and long imprisonment for any unwitting violation, and with the government taking nine-tenths of any money he might make, then we shall congratulate ourselves on being out of business."

Lawrence said today the steelworkers' union has made no attempt to bargain in behalf of the employes since the labor board election.

"We are not questioning the result of the election," he said. "We are ready to bargain with the union."

EVANSTON FIRES PATROLMAN WHO KILLED BARMAN

William Howard Perdew, Evanston police patrolman and radio technician, was discharged from the department yesterday by Chief Carl Ekman on recommendation of the civil service commission, which had found Perdew guilty of charges of conduct unbecoming a policeman. Perdew shot and killed Nick Ubiasi, 39, a bartender at the Log Cabin inn, 1047 Wilson av., on Feb. 23. He was acquitted on his plea of self defense when he testified that Ubiasi had followed him from the tavern and threatened him with a gun. Perdew, whose home is at 722 Washington st., Evanston, worked at a war plant while under suspension from the police department. His lawyer, Frank A. McDonnell, said he will appeal the discharge order.

False Fire Alarm Ringer Is Sought on North Side

Hudson av. police are looking for the person or persons who have turned in from one to three false fire alarms every day the last week. Two were turned in yesterday, one at Willow st. and Sheffield av., the other at North and Clybourn avs. The alarms have been sounded after school hours. Police believe the culprits are schoolboys.

Miss Barbera

So a poet once said of aristocratic Boston. Little Sonia Marburg, daughter of an impoverished German immigrant, accepted those words as a challenge and dared to dream of the day when she would crash the charmed circle of Beacon Hill and mingle with its proud residents.

The story of Sonia and The Dream she never lost sight of until it was realized, is deftly told in Jean Stafford's "Boston Adventure" ($2.75). Miss Barbera, manager of the Daily News Bldg. Book Shop, says this scintillating novel is one of the most promising of the new fiction releases.

In the nonfiction class, Miss Barbera asks, "How will you have your invasion?" If the answer is, "undiluted and action-packed," she suggests "Invasion Diary" ($2.75). The author is Richard Tregaskis, the lean, lanky correspondent who has a talent for being "there" when things happen.

Then, for a deeply-moving literary experience, read Howard Vincent O'Brien's "So Long, Son" (75 cents). It's just a little book—won't take more than an hour to complete it—but in that hour, you will have held a mirror to a father's heart.

Miss Barbera reminds you that the deadline for overseas mailing is nearly at hand and that she has a large stock of small, paper-bound books which will fit nicely into an overseas package. There are mysteries by the gory dozen, some swell collections of short stories, and popular fiction, too.

When you're making up a gift box for your friend in service be sure to include a holiday greeting card from Miss Barbera's extensive display—something to make home seem just a "Merry Christmas" closer.

Whether you come in to buy or to browse, you can count on receiving friendly attention to your needs at the Daily News Bldg. Book Shop, or at any of these Handy Book & Gift Shops: Field Bldg.; Post Office News (37 W. RUSSIAN SYSTEM WON'T DO IN U. S., ARNOLD ASSERTS

The Russian system of controling industry thru a political hierarchy has made little headway in this country because the American people resent any form of politically controled business, Thurman W. Arnold, former New Deal figure and now an associate judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, told an audience in the Social Science Research building on the University of Chicago campus yesterday. He was delivering the second of a series of four lectures under the auspices of the Charles R. Walgreen foundation.

"The Russian example reinforces our former belief that when the state controls business, political freedom is destroyed," he said.

The policy of government toward business and industry, he said, depends on an economic ideal which finally will emerge from the American people themselves. What the nation needs, he said, is a framework in which to fit such an economic policy.

Interim Leaders

Freshman students at Mundelein college are learning first hand about democracy. After three weeks in school, they already have elected 15 freshman governors to take charge of class affairs until regular elections are held later in the year. The governors will function as group representatives after regular officers have been elected.

A DOOR CLOSES AND FBI FINALLY TRAPS ITS MAN

3 Years of Hiding Ended for Draft Evader.

Federal bureau of investigation agents yesterday arrested an alleged draft evader who, they said, successfully eluded his pursuers for more than three years by alternately hiding out in the Wisconsin woods and in a dilapidated shack at 1514 Fry st.

Andrew Bartkowski.

The fugitive, Andrew Bartkowski, 27, was apprehended in the shack when FBI agents trailed his father, Joseph, who carried provisions to his son.

Richard Hosteny, acting agent in charge of the FBI here, said Bartkowski admitted hiding in the shack since last March. The building had no heat nor light, and the broken panes of its windows had been replaced with boards.

Door Betrays 2d Occupant.

The shack was believed to be untenanted until Joseph Bartkowski moved in with his son recently and pretended to be living there alone. When agents trailed him yesterday, they had only a suspicion that the shack contained a second occupant. They were not sure of the son's presence until they saw the front door being closed while the elder Bartkowski was in view in the middle of the room.

Hosteny said that Bartkowski's mother and sister, who live at 610 N. Elizabeth st., also have been helping him hide out.

Sympathetic neighbors, sorry for the elder Bartkowski in the chilly shack, contributed food, clothing, and furniture, Hosteny said. When the father moved into the shack he changed his name to Joseph Socha, which Hosteny said was a crude ruse to throw off pursuit of the son.

Hosteny said young Bartkowski confessed going out at night and picking pockets to obtain money. He said he wore dark glasses to disguise himself. Agents found $586 in the shack.

A second son, Joseph Bartkowski, was arrested last November for failure to report for induction, Hosteny said. Joseph was inducted after his arrest, but later deserted and now is serving time in the guardhouse at Fort Sheridan.

Andrew, who was to have reported for induction June 13, 1941, was held to the grand jury under $5,000 bonds when arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. He told the commissioner that he failed to report because he felt the United States provoked Japan into war.

FUND PROGRESS TO BE REPORTED TO TWO GROUPS

Rear Adm. Morsell.

The business division of the Community and War fund, charged with raising $10,230,000 out of the total fund quota for metropolitan Chicago of $12,980,000, will hold a luncheon in the Standard club today at which reports of progress will be made. Richard Wagner, chairman of the business division, will preside. Guest speaker will be Rear Adm. Everett G. Morsell, 9th naval district supply officer and formerly a member of Gen. MacArthur's staff.

A report meeting of the fund's city division, whose quota is $1,200,000, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Midway Masonic temple, 6115 Cottage Grove av., for southeast side workers. Owen L. Coon, chairman of the city division, is to speak.

A CORNUCOPIAN horn of plenty would have to be in the giant class to hold the harvest of the farm plots at this time of the year. Aside from the field corn which is being cut, chopped, and blown into the silos, the farm people have been gathering their final garden crops, as well as fruits, from the vineyard and orchards.

Last week the men picked 14 bushels of pears from one orchard, all of which were stored in the new root cellar on the north side of the farm.

Trees Heavily Laden.

The trees still are heavily laden so the farm wives have been ordering their menfolk out to pick additional baskets of pears for canning.

The last three weeks also have been the open season for picking grapes from the five rows in the farm vineyard and all families were invited to pick as many as they needed for their tables and for making grape juice and jelly. There are several varieties of delicious grapes in the vineyard, including concords, red catawbas, and white niagaras, but the concords are the prime favorites of the farm women for making jelly.

The problem this season is in finding enough sugar for canning the pears, grape jelly, applesauce, and other fruits or fruit products.

Puts Grape Juice Away.

One of the women reports that she has no sugar on hand for making jelly, so she is canning the unsweetened grape juice and hoping that during the winter months there will be some sugar on the grocery shelves. When sugar becomes available she will convert the juice into jelly.

The people on the Fox river farm also have been picking fall fruits but their main interest these days is the new contingent of Aberdeen-Angus steers recently bought on the St. Paul market. There are 35 head in the lot, averaging 816 pounds. The buying price was $11.75 per hundredweight, the only additional charge against the lot being $107 freight and trucking costs.

★ The GARDEN ★

THE potato harvest from Chicagoland gardens has been generally unsatisfactory this year, proving again that this crop requires specific soil conditions and a normal water supply to produce a worthwhile supply of tubers. The harvest from the sample plots on the Wheaton farm was about four times the amount of seed planted, as compared with seven times the amount of seed last year and 15 times the amount of seed in past years when growing conditions were nearly perfect. The potato plot on the farm was treated with sand to increase drainage, and the plantings were hilled several times during the season.

The long summer drouth was the main deterrent to a successful crop of potatoes. The tubers cannot attain a satisfactory size on heavy soils which hold moisture, and if planted on light, sandy soils the drainage is so acute that the plants do not mature well under drouth conditions such as prevailed this summer.

NAVY TO RETURN 4,305 OFFICERS TO RETIRED LIST

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—The navy has ordered a gradual return to inactive status of an estimated 4,305 officers called from retirement since 1939, it was learned today.

Release of the officers, most of whom have administrative billets ashore, will be based on age and dispensability. The releases are made possible by the fact that an increasing number of younger officers may now be brought back from combat areas for duty ashore.

In making the releases first consideration will be given to officers above the following ages: Flag officers [commodores and above], 64; captains, 60; commanders, 55; lieutenant commanders, 50; lieutenants, lieutenants junior grade and ensigns, 45, and warrant officers, 50.

MILWAUKEE SOLDIER ILL.

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (AP).—A Canadian army casualty list released today listed Pvt. Daniel Kruger of the Royal Canadian ordnance corp, whose father, Frank Kruger, lives at 1116 E. Prior av., Milwaukee, Wis., as dangerously ill.

EDUCATOR UNIT PLANS PROBE OF SCHOOLS HERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—The National Education association announced plans today for an investigation of the treatment of teachers in the Chicago public schools.

One of the subjects of the inquiry will be the transfer of John J. de Boer from his position as supervisor of English practice teaching in the Chicago Teachers' college last May to a teaching job in Herzl Junior college, after he had criticized a proposed change in the teachers' college curriculum.

Probe to Begin Soon.

The investigation will be made by the association's national Commission for the Defense of Democracy Thru Education. Donald Du Shane, executive secretary of the commission, said the investigation will begin in Chicago within the next two weeks.

The work will be done, he said, by a committee of educators from outside Illinois.

The association, which has its headquarters here, is an organization of teachers with a nation-wide membership. F. L. Schlagle, superintendent of schools at Kansas City, Kas., is president.

Group Attacked La Guardia.

One of its investigating committees recommended last year that Mayor Fiorello La Guardia be removed from control of the New York City public schools budget after accusing him of interfering with the New York board of education.

La Guardia retorted that the investigators were small town teachers and that nobody in the association had "the mental capacity to grasp the magnitude of the New York school system."

CHICAGOANS ASKED PROBE.

The Chicago school investigation announced in Washington today was authorized, it was reported, after protests on conditions here from several individuals and organizations in Chicago, including the Citizens' Schools committee, the Chicago chapter of the National Council of Teachers of English, the Woman's City club, and the Chicago division of the Illinois Education association, a branch of the National Education association. Dr. De Boer, mentioned in the Washington announcement, formerly was an officer of the English teachers' group here.

WILLKIE RITES HELD AS 35,000 WAIT OUTSIDE

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie today was eulogized as "an internationalist who believed that he could love other nations without sacrificing or hating his own."

Men and women of all political shades crowded into the 5th Avenue Presbyterian church, where the funeral service was held for the 1940 Republican Presidential candidate. The Rev. John Sutherland Bonnell delivered the eulogy. Police estimated 35,000 persons waited outside during the service.

Mrs. Willkie attended the service accompanied by her brother-in-law, Edward Willkie, and other members of the family. Gov. and Mrs. Dewey occupied a pew on the main floor, as did Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

After the service Lamoyne Jones, Willkie's secretary, said that the office of the secretary of war had suggested by telephone that Willkie's body be buried in Arlington national cemetery but that Mrs. Willkie had declined the honor.

The body will be accompanied to Rushville, Ind., Willkie's birthplace, tomorrow by Edward Willkie. It will be placed in a crypt awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Willkie, who will remain in New York for the return of her son, Lt. [j. g.] Philip Willkie, U. S. N. R., from Atlantic convoy duty.

PETRILLO DEFIES F. D. R.; BAN ON RECORDS STANDS

Rejects President's Plea in 9 Page Telegram.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians [AFL], yesterday refused to comply with President Roosevelt's request asking him to permit union musicians to make phonograph recordings for commercial use. After a two day session with the union's executive board here, Petrillo sent the President a nine page telegram saying the union would not retreat from its position that all companies making phonograph records for commercial use must pay royalties on each disk into the union treasury.

Petrillo has insisted that what he calls "canned" music, used for commercial purposes, deprives union musicians of jobs.

Petrillo explained in the telegram that 105 manufacturing companies have signed contracts with the union stipulating payment of royalties, and that only two companies, RCA-Victor and the Columbia Recording company, have held out.

"Other Two Must Sign."

"There is only one solution to this problem the federation can accept," his telegram said, "and that is for these two companies to sign the same contract as the 105 other companies have signed if they wish our members to work for them in making recordings and transcriptions." The two companies are among the largest producers of phonograph records.

Petrillo halted the production of phonograph records by union musicians on Aug. 1, 1942, after the union's convention had indorsed the move. The government tried unsuccessfully to lift the ban, first thru a suit under the anti-trust act and then by war labor board decree.

The union won the first and defied the second. Then, on Oct. 4, President Roosevelt sent Petrillo a telegram asking him to coöperate with the WLB order "in the interest of orderly government." Petrillo's telegram of yesterday was a reply to this message.

Offer No Longer Good.

During a senate committee investigation of the dispute on Jan. 12, 1943, Petrillo said he would lift the prohibition if the President asked him to. He explained in his telegram that the signing of the 105 contracts placed him and his union "in a position whereby the offer made by me no longer has any further application." He said a concession by the union now would "permit these two companies to resume the manufacture of records for civilian use with resulting tremendous profits to them, and that would be accomplished by taking the business away from those companies who have signed. . . ."

After he had dispatched the telegram, Petrillo sat at the executive board table in a room in the Morrison hotel, and explained the royalties collected from the record manufacturers were his "post-war project" for union musicians and for the propagation of "musical culture." He wore an expensive gray, double breasted suit, and a blue and white leaf patterned foulard tie.

Foresees 200,000 Members.

Petrillo said his union now has 138,000 members, 35,000 of whom are in the army or navy. He expects to have a membership of 200,000 after the war. He explained there were no musicians now drawing compensation from the union unemployment fund into which the royalties are poured. There is now a "scarcity" of "good" musicians, he declared. He said the union so far has collected $125,000 in this fund from the 105 companies, at royalties ranging from ¼ cent on each 35 cent disk to 5 cents on a $5 recording.

Petrillo said when the war is over he expected the "scarcity" of musicians would turn into a surplus and there would be unemployment. He said the executive board, with the approval of the union convention, would have to set whatever scale of compensation unemployed musicians may expect from the union unemployment fund.

"But I'm not going to set up any WPA," he said. "Whenever a union musician makes music, he'll be paid the union scale."

PEACE REIGNS IN CUBA AS GRAU BEGINS HIS RULE

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 10 (AP).—For the second time in little more than 11 years, Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, 62, took the oath of office as president of Cuba today in Havana's most colorful and enthusiastic celebration.

Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin.

The orderly inauguration was in complete contrast to the hectic ceremony in which he took office Sept. 6, 1933, just after the fall of Dictator-President Gerardo Machado, for a brief, turbulent rule of 137 days.

In an atmosphere of good will, retiring President Fulgencio Batista turned over the administration to his duly elected successor.

Batista Gets Ovation.

A milling throng of 35,000 gave Batista an ovation as he left after the ceremony to complete arrangements for his departure Saturday on a six months' tour of all American nations except Argentina.

The greatest chorus of "vivas," however, was reserved for the scholarly new president, a bachelor professor and physician, who appeared upon a second floor balcony to receive the plaudits of his adherents. Beside him was his vice president, Dr. Raul de Cardenas.

Bands to Play Nightly.

Havana stores were closed to celebrate inauguration day, which falls on the 76th anniversary of the "Grito de Yara" which started the ill fated revolution of 1868 against Spanish colonial rule.

From Monday thru Thursday, Columbus day, 30 bands play nightly on principal downtown thorofares. Residents of Havana and thousands from the provinces jam the streets night and day. Fireworks displays spring from all parts of the city.

Executive, Father of 2, Dies in 11 Story Plunge

Edward Hartmann, 48, of 4335 N. McVicker av., shop superintendent of the Barrett Sales company, 2612 Barry av., leaped or fell to his death yesterday from the 11th floor of the Builders Building, 167 West Wacker dr. His body landed in a parking lot. His wife, Edna, said that Hartmann had been worried about finances. Two children also survive—Edward, 10, and Susan, 13. An inquest will be held this morning.

Rapist Is Given 15 Years on Testimony of Nurse

Melvin Hayes, 45, Negro, of 331 E. 29th st., a former baseball player, was sentenced to 15 years in prison yesterday when he was found guilty in Judge Cornelius Harrington's court on a charge of rape. A 55 year old nurse testified that Hayes threatened her with a knife and forced her into an alley last June 18.

MASONS' PARLEY HEARS PLANS TO KEEP UP CENTERS

Plans for continuing the work of the six Masonic service centers in Illinois were contained in the report Grand Master Stuart E. Pierson made yesterday at the opening of the two day 105th annual meeting of the Illinois grand lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons in Hotel Sherman. Action on these plans is expected today. More than 500,000 members of the uniformed services are expected to visit the Illinois Masonic service centers during 1944. Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] will speak at a morning session today. Pierson was reëlected grand master.

BEHIND THE SCENES

IT TAKES millions of telephone calls every day to keep our nation hurrying along the road to victory. Those calls are handled with promptness and courtesy—but war work for telephone people doesn't end there.

Behind the scenes here at Illinois Bell offices, some 2000 accounting people like those pictured above are carrying on—doing many things that are mighty important to the war effort. . . .

They sort the millions of Long Distance tickets and prepare the regular bills, itemizing the taxes we collect for Uncle Sam. They make War Bond payroll deductions for some 28,000 employees and arrange to issue the Bonds which help pay for the war. They keep the records of telephone service and equipment used by the Army and Navy and by war plants. They prepare reports needed by various wartime government agencies. And they keep up, as well, with the normal accounting work required to serve over 1,300,000 customers.

The work they do not only helps us provide good wartime telephone service, but also helps our government run the war.

Miss McDonald Will Be Bride of Capt. DuBois

Col. and Mrs. John W. McDonald of Eastlake terr., announce the engagement and approaching marriage Oct. 21 of their daughter, Ethel R. McDonald, to Capt. Edmund Louis Du Bois of the army, son of Col. Bird S. Du Bois of the army. Miss McDonald and her fiance met in 1939 when their fathers were in command of R. O. T. C. units at the University of Illinois. Capt. Du Bois, who recently returned from two and one-half years in the South Pacific, was graduated from the university in 1941, and his fiance received her degree last June.

The wedding will take place in the chapel at Fort Sheridan, with a reception following in the Officers' club. Capt. Du Bois will report to the Command and General Staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., Oct. 28. Col. McDonald, who returned in June from spending five months in North Africa as part of his duties with the war department man power board, has been transferred to Washington, D. C., where Mrs. McDonald will join him after the wedding.

From New York comes word of the marriage there on Oct. 1 of Miss Shirley E. Abrams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Abrams, to Julius L. Miller of Chicago. Mr. Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Miller of Schenectady, N. Y. The bride is a graduate of Hunter college, and did graduate work at New York university. Mr. Miller received his bachelor of science degree from Union college. He and his bride will live in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Girault of N. Paulina st., are announcing the marriage on Sept. 23 of their daughter, Harriette Boyson, to Capt. Walter W. Stegemerten of the marine corps, son of Mrs. Hazel Stegemerten of East McKeesport, Pa. The ceremony took place in St. Paul's-by-the-Lake Episcopal church in Rogers Park. The bride received her degree from Northwestern university. Capt. Stegemerten, who was graduated from the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, Md., recently returned from two years' duty in the South Pacific.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 10.—Paramount bought "The Lady and the Landlubber" by Paul Webster and Fred Saidy. It's the story of a girl who works in an office, and inherits a yacht—and her efforts to support it in the style to which it's been accustomed. They'll probably get a woman off the lot for the leading character. . . . J. J. Shubert bought Andrew Solt's play titled "Accidents Don't Happen." The rights were owned by Buddy De Sylva and Irving Berlin, who were going to produce it on Broadway, but they have other fish to fry. Now Shubert's got it and will produce it as a musical. It's already been done in 10 European countries and has been made into a picture for the South American trade. . . . Harry Sherman would like to have Gene Fowler write a novel based on Goldfield, Nev. Then he'll buy it and do it on the screen. . . . Joan Fontaine is wanted by Hal Wallis to go to England and do his first picture over there some time in June. . . . Charles Mendl will be given a complete acting test by Director Al Hall, who wants him for his next picture.

Turnabout, and with Good Results.

Thirty years ago Henry Hull was a director on Broadway and Raoul Walsh was an actor working for him. Now Hull is working as an actor for Director Raoul Walsh in "Objective, Burma." . . . Ray Milland got up at 5 a. m. to start work at 6:30 a. m. on a Sunday morning for those scenes in which he walks down 3d av. in New York. . . . Warners has made a short, "Zooming the Blues," which was not dedicated to Harold Ickes. . . . Gus Schilling will do the lead in a New York show called "Hey, Reuben," which is about carnival life. . . . Albert Maltz, who just finished script of "This Love of Ours" [from the story of Al Schmid, marine], has a new book just out called "The Cross and the Arrow." . . . Irene Dunne finishes "Together Again" the end of this week, then leaves for that vacation in New York. But she'll do a little business there—getting ready to back a new line of cosmetics which will be named after her.

Irene Dunne.

Ray Milland.

The Picture Grew and Grew.

"Hollywood Canteen," which started out to be a two reeler based on an idea of Bette Davis', is turning out to be one of Warners' big productions. Forty per cent of the profits will go to the canteen. Picture will feature some scenes about Ann Sehr's Hollywood guild canteen, which it should. Ann deserves all the bouquets she can get. She's made a real home for the boys. She sleeps them, feeds them, and mends them free, and is known as "mom" all the way around the globe. It was mighty fitting that Eddie Small give her the proceeds from the premiere of "Abroad with Two Yanks" at the Chinese theater the other night. She got $5,500. . . . Peter Garey makes his screen bow in "A Song for Miss Julia." He was with Lunt and Fontanne in "The Pirate," and before that with Connie Bennett in "Without Love." Peter hails from Albert Lea, Minn. Fay Bainter is to play Mrs. Taylor in "The Virginian."

Second Generation.

Capt. Dreyfus to Be Speaker at Jewish Assembly Sunday

The "Hope of Israel" assemblage planned for Sunday afternoon in the Standard club by the Chicago division of the American Jewish congress will bring Capt. Pierre Dreyfus here as guest speaker. He is the son of Alfred Dreyfus, who 50 years ago was expelled from the French army and imprisoned on Devil's Island. His later vindication is remembered as one of the most dramatic stories of that generation.

Capt. Dreyfus will recall his childhood. Four hundred affiliated organizations will be represented at the meeting, which will open at 12:30. Max Bressler will preside at the meeting.

Music Notes

New York's Metropolitan Opera opens its 60th season Nov. 27 with Gounod's "Faust," according to an announcement just made by Edward Johnson, general manager, who also reported a 10 per cent increase in subscriptions over this time a year ago. Mr. Johnson said that Thomas Beecham, now in England, will not return until after Christmas, if at all this season, but added that Bruno Walter may break his sabbatical leave to conduct "Fidelio" and that Erich Leinsdorf, released from army service, will conduct "Tristan and Isolde," "Lohengrin," and "The Marriage of Figaro." The season's revivals will include "Die Meistersinger," "La Gioconda," and an English version of "Coq d'Or." Karl Kritz and Wolfgang Martin have been added to the music staff, and there are nine new singers, including Richard Manning, an English tenor.

The Chicago Opera announced yesterday that "Carmen," opening the season Monday night, has been sold out.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Goodness, what an exhibition!" exclaimed a woman in a department store watching a little girl about 4 years of age stamping her feet, screaming, and pulling at her very embarrassed mother. The mother didn't look angry—just disconcerted.

"If she was my child," spoke up another woman, "she would get a hiding she wouldn't forget in a hurry."

"Poor woman," said still another, "it isn't easy to handle a child with such a temper as that."

So nobody seemed to blame the mother or father. Kicking, stamping, punching, crying, and screaming are weapons that children will use to get their way if they're allowed to. That little girl was not at fault. The scene was, on the contrary, only a reflection on her parents.

I happened to know that she had been allowed to do such things since she was a baby and nobody had stopped her. She was really a sweet, intelligent little girl, but she wanted her own way, quite naturally, and that was the way she was used to getting it when she was opposed. She acted that way at home and got results, so she did the same thing elsewhere. If she had been stopped in the beginning, she would never have made such a display in a department store.

The same thing holds true of tantrums: screaming, lying on the floor and kicking, holding the breath while crying, hitting, breaking things. It holds true of impertinence, disobedience, and the other ways that children fall into which are bad for them, and for their parents, as well. They should all be nipped in the bud [which doesn't mean spanking and scolding them out of it]. Then the habits never get any headway.

But let a child once get well established in the habit of tantrums and "acting up" generally and it is hard to break him, hard for everybody. This doesn't mean it can't be done after the habit is formed. It can and should be; it's never too late to mend. But late mending is a much bigger job than nipping in the bud the first signs of such behavior, and it takes a lot out of both child and parents.

Party Honors Weber, Musical Director of W-G-N for 10 Years

Officials of W-G-N gave a dinner last night in tribute to Henry Weber on his completion of 10 years as the station's musical director and conductor of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus. Besides the station's leaders, long-time associates of Mr. Weber in the W-G-N orchestra and Mrs. Weber [Marion Claire] were guests at the dinner in the Cliff Dwellers club, 220 S. Michigan av. An engraved ebony and silver baton was presented to Mr. Weber by the station.

After the dinner Mr. Weber conducted the orchestra in its regular Tuesday night broadcast of Symphony Hall from Orchestra hall over W-G-N and WGNB. Besides Symphony Hall he has conducted the orchestra for the Theater of the Air productions, presented on W-G-N-Mutual thru the years, and many other programs.

Thru the Looking Glass

The season's delight for women who like to keep abreast of the latest fashions are the fancy combs to dress up coiffures. And after looking over the offerings in the shops, we can see how it would be hard to resist them. The stunning creations are simulated tortoise shell and colored plastics, some combined with rhinestones and unreal pearls. Others, depending on color and design alone, make a tempting array and it is simple for milady to visualize herself wearing them. They lend a touch of elegance to the appearance and it is more than a little fun to experiment with them, trying different hair styles and arrangements and tucking combs in for a pretty effect.

But as with any fashion, discretion is called for and we'd like to suggest that before going overboard for the ornaments, it is well to consider the types and varieties and choose those which will be most suitable for individual types and needs. Certainly, the plainer combs are best for day time wear and we'd shun wearing the creations that are sparkling with brilliants except for dress-up occasions. It is a matter of taste, of course, but it is easy to be carried away with enthusiasm as some women were with flowers and feathers and we think the well dressed women will stick to the less obtrusive models for general wear.

Since the combs will make the hair a focal point of attention, the locks will have to be shiny and well groomed to meet the extra scrutiny they receive. Brushing and brilliantine will help give the tresses sheen and luster and with the hair looking its very best, the ornaments will accent and pick up its highlights in a most becoming manner.

Little Sister a Bore? Try a Solid Talk

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Sisters and brothers always come in assorted sizes. The bigger ones are often the more choice variety because they come in handy for arranging dates with friends, lending out a little of that jingling money till the week-end and often own strictly smooth date dresses or sport coats that just fit the brother and sister coming directly behind. But the younger ones, especially those under 7 who want you to cut out paper dolls with them, wear your new red sweater to play baseball, or want to go to the movies every time you go, can be rather off the cob characters when they put their minds to it. Here's a letter from two sisters who are singing the blues because their younger sister gets out of line and thereby upsets their routine as interesting date bait. It gives out this way:

"Our problem may seem very minor to you with the world in such an unhappy state, but to us it is nothing short of a major catastrophe. We have a younger sister named Judy who is the cause of all our embarrassment. Whenever fellows drop in for a coke and a visit, she makes life miserable by constantly begging for money or gum. Whenever she gets bored, she ridicules the fellows in front of all of us. She tells the boys wild stories about how much we eat and about how impudent we are to our parents. Our mother and dad ignore the seriousness of the problem and even go so far as to encourage Judy. . . ."

Why not take Judy aside for a gal-to-gal talk. Explain to her that she isn't improving your dating rating with her antics and besides the fellows all think she's too big a girl to behave so foolishly. That approach might work. Otherwise, tell your mother and father exactly what you told Judy. If they realize that you are really embarrassed, they might not think the situation so slight. And if neither method works, try ignoring the whole thing.

If Judy insists on joining you when you have visitors, introduce her to them and even try to bring her into the conversation. Treat her as an adult and she may behave like one. Probably she is just lonesome and wants attention; the little gal is one of three sisters, tagging behind in years, and she is making certain that she's not left out of things!

Rep. Luce to Speak at Women's Rally in Orchestra Hall Friday

Republican women leaders from every county in Illinois are expected to hear Rep. Clare Boothe Luce [R., Conn.] speak in Orchestra hall Friday night in behalf of the Republican campaign.

Chairmen of the women's divisions in all counties have received tickets, Mrs. Helen Griffin, chairman of the women's division of the state central committee, said yesterday, and indications are that all will be here.

Rep. Luce will speak under auspices of the women's divisions of the state and Cook county central committees. Her address will be broadcast at 9 p. m. over a national hookup on the Blue network. Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman for Illinois, will introduce her. Women thruout Illinois are organizing listening parties.

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator, and John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, will precede Rep. Luce. Doors will be opened at 7:30 and the program will begin at 8 o'clock.

Tickets, still available, are free in room 303, La Salle hotel, Nellie Wang, executive secretary of the county women's division, said. The telephone is Central 7802.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Grace Paskus, 7929 Cornell av.]

THE QUESTION.

What is the most gallant act your husband has performed for you?

THE ANSWERS.

I. C. station, 53d st.

THE ANSWER.

Mrs. Max Lannes, saleslady, 5238 Woodlawn av.—One afternoon I was doing my ironing and I had so much other work to do that I left one blouse for later and went to mop the floor. When I returned to the kitchen my husband was standing by the iron board, putting the finishing touches on a neat job of ironing my blouse.

Mrs. W. D. King, housewife, 5313 Lake Park av.—He's always been a gallant husband and very helpful to have round. When we were living in South Carolina we couldn't get any help at all and when the baby was born he'd stay up until 12 and 1 o'clock cleaning the house, washing baby clothes, and taking care of me.

Mrs. Sam Kaplan, currency exchange manager, 6436 Stewart av.—On Sept. 27 I received a card from my husband, who was in France, wishing me a Happy New Year. He was in a hospital at the time but didn't mention that he'd been wounded until he'd been removed to a hospital in England. He didn't want me to worry.

Mrs. Alvin S. Zager, telephone operator, 6740 Chappel av.—I was swimming in the ocean off Long Island, N. Y., and before I realized it I had gone too far and couldn't get back because of the waves. my husband saw me struggling and braved the distance and the choppy water to rescue me. He arrived just in time.

Mrs. Melvin Leonardy, housewife, 3910 Lake Park av.—He's done so many nice things for me that it would be hard to say what I appreciated most. He's a much better cook than I am because he cooked in a restaurant and many times when I go away and return around dinner time he'll have everything on the table waiting for me.

Mrs. R. Victor Olson, 5302 Cornell av.—My husband and I were returning home one night on a street car when we came to a flooded viaduct. The sidewalk was covered with water up to our ankles so he took off his shoes and socks, rolled up his trousers, handed me his shoes and carried me across to the other side and dry land.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

WACs from Chicagoland are playing an important part in the air war on the European continent, filling every type of noncombatant job with headquarters of all major subordinate commands of the 8th air force. Most of the women arrived in Great Britain in July, 1943, with the first WAC battalion selected for assignment to the force.

A communique reports that Corp. Mary A. Prendergast, 5037 Montrose av., is a clerk in the personnel division of fighter command headquarters. Corp. Bronislawa Cieslinska, 8372 Baker av., and Pvt. Paula D. Gemmer, 911 Thatcher av., River Forest, work in the operations center, where flights of fighter craft are plotted in the course of every 8th air force bombing mission.

At the bombardment division WACs work in most staff sections. Tech. 4th Grade Margaret A. Fleek, 1728 N. Mason av., is a telephone operator, maintaining communications between headquarters and other air force installations in the European theater.

Pvt. Evelyn Johnson, 7254 Jeffery av., and Pvt. Vivian I. Harris, 819 S. Grove st., Oak Park, are WAC teletypists, transmitting and receiving operational orders and reports on results of missions. Pvt. Margery E. Merrill, 8216 Harper av., works in a division operations center, and Pvt. Vivienne A. Reimer, 1720 N. Washtenaw av., is a medical orderly in a WAC detachment dispensary at another headquarters.

At service command headquarters, responsible for the procurement, issue, and maintenance of aircraft and equipment, Staff Sgt. Cleo-Mae Mrozek, 5638 N. Western av., is a stenographer in the statistical section, where records of personnel and equipment are kept. Corp. Adeline Hickman, 321½ N. Central av., works in the office of the adjutant general at command headquarters.

Pvt. Florence M. Wilkins, 704 S. Keeler av., is a clerk in the air force supply division. Sgt. Shirley Kahan, 1101 N. Grove av., Oak Park, is a teletypist in the signal section.

Allied headquarters in Italy has released news about the jobs of several Chicago WACs. Pvt. June A. Gilbert, 4821 Newport av., is a teletypist assigned to the message center with the signal corps. Much of her work is "top secret." Important communiques affecting operations pass thru her hands daily.

Staff Sgt. Gertrude Levin, 165 Pine av., has served in that theater for more than a year, acting as secretary to high ranking officers in the public relations division.

Corp. Stella C. Goldikas, 12204 Union av., has a WAC job in Italy not unlike the one she held as a civilian. She works in the pay roll section of the allied military government. Before joining the army she was employed in the personnel division of the United States employment service in Chicago.

Library Opens Vets' and War Workers' Information Bureau

The Chicago public library has opened a veterans' and war workers' information bureau on the fourth floor of the main building at Randolph st. and Michigan av., with branch bureaus in the 40 outlying libraries, it was announced yesterday. The bureau is prepared to give aid and advice on available training facilities, reading programs, schooling, and general educational and vocational matters. It will serve as a referral center for other veterans' problems. Applicants wishing legal, financial, or employment aid will be directed to local agencies which have been organized to serve them.

Chicago Symphony to Open 54th Season Tomorrow Night

BY JUDITH CASS.

ORCHESTRA hall will come to life tomorrow night for the 54th season of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which will start its premiere program at 8:15 by playing Mozart's "Magic Flute" overture under the baton of Désiré Defauw. A number of small dinner parties will precede the concert, and among the guests in box parties which will gather for the program will be several distinguished visitors, including Norman Chester, president of the Milwaukee Orchestral association, and Jean Lallemand, president of the Montreal symphony, which formerly was conducted by Mr. Defauw.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester will hear the concert as the guests of Edward L. Ryerson, president of the Chicago Orchestral association, and Mrs. Ryerson, who also will entertain the Arthur G. Cables. Mr. Lallemand is flying to Chicago today to be a guest of the Charles H. Swifts at the opening. In the same party will be Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart and Dieter Dux, Mrs. Swift's nephew.

The Thomas I. Underwoods will share a box for the season with the Sanger P. Robinsons. Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr. will hear the concert in the box which she is sharing with the Talcott Griswolds while Lt. Stanton is serving overseas. Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Bacon Jr. and the Joseph D. McNultys also have taken a box together.

Some of the other Thursday night boxholders include Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clayton Morrison, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, the Walter S. Brewsters, William D. Darrow, and Mrs. Thomas Furness. The opening concert will be repeated Friday afternoon, and the first Tuesday afternoon concert is set for Oct. 24.

Wedding News.

In a simple, quiet wedding last Friday in the Evanston home of Mrs. Charles Henry Bosworth, her daughter, Mrs. Della Bosworth Padley, was married to Edward Edgerton Hart of Chicago. The bride's sister, Mrs. Trevor Stamp, who just had arrived from California, was matron of honor, and the bride and bridegroom's daughters, June Padley, 10, and Helen Hart, 6, attended as flower girls. June's father was the late Gordon L. Padley of London, and Helen's mother, the late Mrs. Hart, was the former Elizabeth Miles of Columbus, O.

Mr. Hart was born in Marietta, O., a member of one of its pioneer families, but lived in New York. He is a graduate of Brown university and has been living in Chicago for the last couple of years. After Nov. 1 he and his bride will be at home in Evanston. Mrs. Stamp had been in California with her husband, who flies frequently between the United States, Canada, and England.

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Webb Crawford [Frances Richardson] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, their fourth child, Monday in St. Luke's hospital. The baby and her three young brothers are grandchildren of the Ralph R. Richardsons.

Gen. Clark's Wife Tells Her View of War

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

Every seat in the spacious ballroom of the Woman's Athletic club and on the balcony around it was occupied yesterday when Mrs. Mark Wayne Clark, wife of the commanding general of the American 5th army, spoke on "A General's Wife Looks at the War" in the first of this season's lecture series at the club.

A group of snapshots sent to her by Gen. Clark and made into lantern slides by the war department illustrated her talk and brought to life her account of Gen. Clark's daring trip to North Africa shortly before the invasion of that continent, of his troops' subsequent landing at Salerno, and of the 5th army's progress northward in Italy.

"Gen. Clark writes me repeatedly of the bravery and courage of his troops," said his slender, gray haired wife. "In hospitals in this country I visited some of the wounded who fought with him, and I never have seen such fortitude and morale. They were all grateful for two things—that they are alive and that they are home."

Following the lecture Mrs. Clark, whose husband is a nephew of Mrs. John I. Marshall of Lake Forest, had luncheon with some of the club's directors at a table presided over by Mrs. Alvin E. Bastien. Mrs. Bastien's daughter, Nancy Bastien of the American Red Cross, was one of the first American women to enter Germany.

Among those in the crowded ballroom were Mrs. Bastien's other daughter, Mrs. A. Loring Rowe; Mrs. David Annan, whose husband, Lt. Comdr. Annan, is traveling overseas so constantly that he has seen their 4 month old daughter, Barbara, only once; Mrs. William A. Ryan, Mrs. George McWilliams Jr., Mrs. Nicholas Staroselsky, Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. E. Franklin Motch, Miss Lucy Miller, Mrs. E. Cummings Parker, Mrs. Arthur Wakeley, Mrs. Edward Morris, Mrs. Donald MacMurray, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. Kenneth Horan, sporting a Dewey button; Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Thomas J. Fleming.

1. To make these easy-on-the-sugar, quickly prepared fig cookies, combine ⅓ cup shortening, ½ cup molasses, ¾ cup sugar mixed with ¼ teaspoon ginger. Heat to boiling, then cool to lukewarm.

2. Add 1 well beaten egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, and 2⅛ cups sifted flour sifted once with 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ¾ teaspoon salt.

3. Stir in ½ cup chopped figs. (Moist pressed figs were used; if dried figs are used soak them in boiling water 10 minutes.) Form into small balls. Bake on greased baking sheet at 375 degrees 12 minutes.

4. These tender little spice cookies with a true fig flavor are perfect for the lunch box and as an after school snack or tea accompaniment. They're a good choice for the service man's box, too.

Geographer to Speak to Woman's Club Today

A meeting of the Chicago Woman's club, at 2 p. m. today in Curtiss hall, will bring as guest speaker Clarence Sorenson, geographer and correspondent, whose talk will be illustrated with maps. At 10:30 a. m., Ethel M. Colson Brazelton, a member, will give a current events program and review Elizabeth Goudge's book, "Green Dolphin Street."

Plans Are Disclosed to Erect New Chapel for Garrett Institute

Plans for erecting a $250,000 chapel for Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, were announced yesterday by President Horace G. Smith at the 90th convocation of the institute, held in Scott hall, Northwestern university. President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university reviewed the relationships of the two institutions thruout the years and declared the partnership of religion and education is basic to the country's traditions. Dr. Ernest F. Tittle of First Methodist church, Evanston, called for churches to be alert to realistic needs of the people after the war.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE.

Pear and Plum Pie.
[One 9-inch pie.]

2 cups water
⅔ cup sugar
Peel from ½ orange, cut in strips
5 large ripe pears
1 pound red plums
⅓ cup sugar
2 tablespoon cornstarch
Dash of salt
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 baked 9 inch pastry shell

Combine water, sugar, and orange peel and bring to boil. Add pared and cored pears, cut in halves. Cook, covered, until tender, about 10 minutes. Drain. Remove orange peel from sirup and boil down to ½ cup. Meanwhile, cook plums until tender; force thru sieve. Add plum pulp to sirup from pears. Combine ¼ cup sugar with cornstarch and salt and add to plum pulp. Cook until thickened. Add flavoring. Arrange pears, cut side down in pastry shell and pour over the plum sauce. Chill thoroly. MRS. Cool Weather Brings Out the Padded Coats

BY REA SEEGER.

There's a sudden dash for padded coats and house gowns these first snappy, cold mornings. Nothing ever turned out equals the warmth and cozy comfort of these robes. Those with long, wide sleeves that are easy to slide into, small waist lines defined by either attached belt or a sash tied into a neat bow and a wide, handsomely flared skirt are the most popular finds. Plaid taffeta in gay colors, solid bright shades of jade, scarlet, carbon blue, and the pastels of pink, blue, and a few yellow golds provide a wide color choice.

If you want the house gowns that are fashioned like a long dress and do not open down the front there are many from which to choose. Some are piped with such strong colors as red on blue, some have floral prints for linings, others feature flowered prints on the outside and solid colors inside. A few fetching young models have a gathered skirt, with the gathers at each side and the belt cut as part of the robe. A few boast a single pocket and some have collars and cuffs, but even without these features the finished creations have all the snug warmth of the robe of pre-war era when pockets were a dime a dozen.

Short versions labeled "brunch coats" have the same decorative padding and quilting, detailed in the same neat streamline, and feature practical but flattering colors for round the house prowling on a cold winter's day. The knee length models can be worn with slacks or with sleeveless sheath dresses left over from summer or with a costume slip of velvet or crepe. Some are long enough to be worn as a dress and warm enough for walking the dog, for driving the family bus to school, or for shopping in the village.

White Collar GIRL

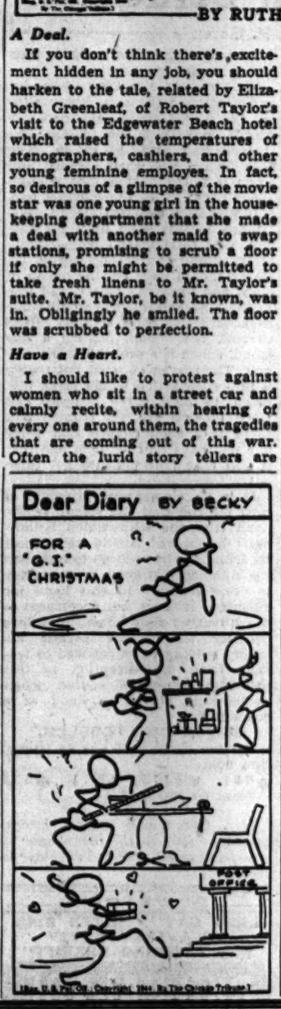
A Deal.

If you don't think there's excitement hidden in any job, you should harken to the tale, related by Elizabeth Greenleaf, of Robert Taylor's visit to the Edgewater Beach hotel which raised the temperatures of stenographers, cashiers, and other young feminine employes. In fact, so desirous of a glimpse of the movie star was one young girl in the housekeeping department that she made a deal with another maid to swap stations, promising to scrub a floor if only she might be permitted to take fresh linens to Mr. Taylor's suite. Mr. Taylor, be it known, was in. Obligingly he smiled. The floor was scrubbed to perfection.

Have a Heart.

I should like to protest against women who sit in a street car and calmly recite, within hearing of every one around them, the tragedies that are coming out of this war. Often the lurid story tellers are those with no one closer than a cousin in the war. Those of us who are white collar mothers, going down town daily, well aware of the suffering of our sons, cannot always change a seat on a street car, but need we have our hearts rent unnecessarily? F.



Stenographic Soliloquy.

If we had met some fancy place
On prettier plane of social grace,
And you were charming—I so sweet
With laughter, say, and dancing feet,
We might have played a pleasant part
Enchanting each the other's heart!

Had our paths crossed a different way,
Had we but met another day,
Nothing would have been the same;
We might have used the given name
Without the formal and austere—
"Dear Sir" perhaps would be "My Dear."

If we had met in days gone by
You might have learned [or cared] that I
Can phrase a lyric fairly well,
But now you fret that I can't spell!
So best it is you'll never know
We should have met long, long ago.

Dis and Data.

New York City telephone operators have contributed 5¼ million packages of cigarets in the last year for service men overseas. . . . It was an accounting department secretary, Alice Burch, who won first prize in a gay '90s costume at a recent Chicago service men's center party. . . . There is an all-woman team working smoothly together in the aircraft data fileroom of a Birmingham war plant. They know all the facts about B-29s and B-24s—and they can keep secrets. . . . The barefoot lady in the La Salle station mentioned here some time ago has been identified. She was from the Ozarks, on her way to visit her son in the army. She bought a fur coat but carried her shoes over her arm—"no sense hurting her feet until she arrived in camp," according to the Rocket Whistle.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead, king of spades.

Early in life we learn where little children go, who persist in telling lies. Later we are told of the harrowing future that awaits bridge players who do not draw trumps. I think they have their choice between the streets of London and sleeping on park benches. The dread of such a career has had a deleterious effect upon the dummy technique of a great many players. Their first consideration has been to rush right in and draw the trumps. Some of them will have a hard time finding a park bench.

A victim of this doctrine was the South of today's hand, who bid himself without much ado into a game contract in hearts. His second bid perhaps calls for some comment. With a partner who was able to keep the bidding open surely South should be unwilling to play for less than game, and a jump to only three hearts would have been a decided error, inasmuch as North would have been obliged to pass. Take one quick glance at his hand and see if you'd blame him. The alternate to bidding four hearts, is a jump shift in clubs which is forcing to game.

West opened the king of spades and continued the suit, South ruffing the second round. He then proceeded to extract the trumps and it took four pulls to do so. The club finesse was then essayed and when it failed East cashed enough spade tricks to set the contract two.

It was very bad strategy to draw trumps on this hand until the side suit was established. Immediately after ruffing the second spade, declarer should have led the queen of clubs and finessed. This would lose to the king and a spade would come back. This lead declarer must refuse to ruff, but should discard a diamond, which is a probable loser anyhow. The reason he must not trump is that such action would bring him down to only three trumps and since there are six trumps out, there is a good chance that some one will have four of them and that it will take four pulls to get them out.

It is an elementary principle of card playing that the strong trump hand [the one with which trumps must be drawn] should not permit its trumps to be reduced to less than the number that may be necessary to draw trumps. In this hand for example, it may be necessary to draw trumps four times, therefore declarer should not permit his trump holding to be reduced to less than four. An exception to this principle occurs, of course, when declarer is playing a hand at a cross ruff.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargeli

Mrs. Leonard G., Chicago—I have found it helpful to keep a coating of liquid wax on my rope clotheslines and clothespins. An occasional wiping with a damp cloth keeps them clean and moisture doesn't get into their surfaces.

Angie H., Oak Park—We roast a lot of frankfurters over an outdoor fire and offer these two helpful hints: Use a wire corn popper to roast several weiners at a time in feeding a big crowd; in using a roasting stick, thrust it thru a paper plate. This plate makes a comfortable protective shield.

Mrs. Tom S., Milwaukee, Wis.—When I wax my linoleum floor in hall and kitchen I give traffic lanes an extra coat—and add an extra coat around baby's high chair.

Mrs. John S., Benton Harbor, Mich. — If you are a new housekeeper, have your husband cut a notch in one end of your clothes pole. It will come in handy to remove ice from your line next winter!

daughter, Anina, on Friday, Dec. 29, at the Arts club. Miss Paepcke attends the University of Chicago. Her younger sister, Paula, is enrolled this year at Foxcroft.

Two parties have been planned for Miss Ann Gregory, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen S. Gregory of Winnetka. The Gregorys will give a luncheon for her Dec. 19 at the Indian Hill club, and New Year's night the bud's aunts, Mrs. Francis R. Dickinson and Miss Dorothy Stirling, will entertain at dinner and the hockey game.

Today's Events.

The first rehearsal for the annual St. Luke's Fashion show next Wednesday in the Stevens hotel will be held at 2:15 p. m. today at the Casino club. Edward Beck will direct the rehearsal.

Mrs. Charles Edward Brown, new president of the Chicago Chamber Music society, will entertain her board at tea at 3 p. m. today. New board members include Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. Charles Pierce, Mrs. H. Belin Voorhees, Mrs. James C. Ames, Mrs. Britton I. Budd, Mrs. Giulio Bolognesi, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., and Miss Elizabeth McCrae.

Several members of the Chicago Junior league will act as hostesses today at the exhibition of paintings by merchant seamen on view in the galleries of Marshall Field & Co. The league is one of many organizations coöperating with the women's division of the Community and War Fund in providing hostesses for the duration of the exhibit, which was opened as a stimulus to the women's participation in the fund drive. Mrs. Harris B. Burrows III., Mrs. H. Leighton Hansen, Miss Jane Leonard, Miss Marilynn Morse, and Miss Mariella Wyly will be on duty in the galleries today.

At a meeting today in the Wilmette home of Mrs. Ralph F. Huck, members of the Friends of Orphans will complete plans for their annual rummage sale Oct. 25 and 26.

Christianity to Help Block Future Wars, Lutheran Men Told

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 10 (AP).—War, a manifestation of international disease, challenges men of good will everywhere in the world to cultivate a global Christian approach to an end which will bring to light and counteract its causes and prevent a recurrence, Dr. O. Frederick Nolde told 400 delegates from 1,200 brotherhoods of the United Lutheran church at a banquet ending their 14th biennial convention here tonight.

Dr. Nolde, professor of Christian education at Philadelphia Theological seminary and a collaborator with John Foster Dulles on his "six pillars of peace" program, said a world program would be worked out by the Lutheran board of missions as part of the convention of the United Lutheran church in America, which opens here tomorrow night.

Working from both the top, thru government officials, and the bottom, thru the people, Dr. Nolde said, Christians everywhere are transcending lines of separation fixed by traditional faith to marshall Christian resources thruout the world in united activity.

Bureau for the Blind Benefit Tea Is Planned

A benefit tea for the Bureau for the Blind will be given in the tearoom of Mandel Brothers' department store this afternoon with Mrs. Herbert Hoffman in charge of arrangements. The bureau is a group of the United Order of True Sisters from the Johanna lodge. Last season the women transcribed some 54,000 pages in Braille for students and other blind persons who requested their services. Several work in languages other than English and others specialize in transcribing in music.

ADMISSION.

Lamb got up. "Thank you, Miss Madoc. And now we will see Mr. Madoc."

"O, but I'm afraid you can't—he's working—I really couldn't—I mean, we never interrupt him when he's working."

The chief inspector had a formidable manner when he chose. He evoked it now with so much success that Miss Madoc found herself meekly treading the forbidden path to the laboratory door, knocking upon it and impelled across the threshold with a few faltering words of introduction, after which she departed in a hurry.

"We have been asked to make some inquiries in connection with the death of Mr. Michael Harsch. I believe you can help us, Mr. Madoc."

The erratic black eyebrows rose. "I should think it most improbable. What do you want?"

"I want to know what you were doing in the Church Cut at a time not very long before a quarter to 10, when the shot which killed Mr. Harsch was fired."

The black slanting line of the brows came down again, descending until they made an angry line above the frowning eyes. The hand which held the test-tube closed hard and then relaxed. The glass dropped broken to the floor.

"Who says that I was there?"

"You were seen and heard, Mr. Madoc. I have a statement here which says, 'Mr. Madoc came along the cut from the direction of the church. I could see him quite plainly in the moonlight. Miss Brown was just outside the garden door of the rectory. Mr. Madoc said, 'Where are you going, Medora?' and she said, 'It hasn't got anything to do with you.' Have you any comment to make on that statement? The witness is prepared to swear to it, and to the conversation which followed. He says, in effect, that you forbade Miss Brown to go to the church, and that you took from her the key which she had in her hand and went off with it. I may say that Miss Brown admits to having gone into the lane."

"O, she says she went into the lane? What else does she say?"

"I'm not here to tell you about other people's statements—I'm here to ask you what you have to say. There is evidence to show that you were in possession of one of the church keys at the time that Mr. Harsch was shot. There is evidence that you quarreled with Miss Brown about him. Have you anything to say on these two points?"

"If you have all this evidence, what more do you want?"

"Do you admit that you were in the Church Cut at somewhere 'round about half past nine on Tuesday evening?"

"Why shouldn't I admit it?"

"Would you care to make a statement as to what took place there?"

"So that you can check it up with your witness and try and catch me in a lie! That's what you would like to do, isn't it? But that's just what you won't do, because I don't tell lies—I speak the truth. Write down what I say and you can have your statement, and every word of it will be true!"

"Tuesday evening. I didn't look at the time. I went out and walked. When I came to the Church Cut I saw Miss Brown. I thought she was going to the church. I thought she was making a fool of herself. I could see she had something in her hand. Harsch was playing in the church. I told her she could listen to him from where she was. I told her to hand over the key. When she wouldn't, I twisted her arm. The key fell down. I picked it up and went away. That's all—make anything you like of it! And get out of here! I'm working!"

No one was in a hurry but Mr. Madoc. Sgt. Abbott wrote.

"Just a moment, Mr. Madoc. This business is important for you as well as for us. It can't be rushed over. I'd like you to take time to think before you speak, and it is my duty to warn you that what you say will be taken down and may be used in evidence against you."

The words pulled Evan Madoc up short.

"Good God! What are you suggesting?"

"It is not my place to suggest. I am warning you. I've got my duty to do, and it would be better for yourself as well as for me if you would sit down quietly and think before you say anything. All right, it's just as you like—but I've warned you. I'm asking you whether you used the key you took from Miss Brown. I'm asking you whether you went to the church and saw Mr. Harsch on Tuesday evening."

Madoc had already made a violent gesture of dissent. He now repeated it, shaking his head with an energy which shook his whole body too.

"You deny that you went to the church?"

"If I say no, you'll be sure I lie. If I say yes, you will ask me whether I shot Michael Harsch, and if I say yes to that, you will believe me with greediness. But if I tell you that I loved him like a brother, and that I would give my right hand to have him back, you will again be very sure that I am lying. Because it is not in you to believe good—you can only believe evil."

"I should like to ask you to clarify those remarks, Mr. Madoc. We don't want any confusion over this. I am not clear whether you are stating that you did go to the church, or that you did not."

"I did not go to the church. I did not shoot Michael Harsch. Is that quite clear?"

"O, yes, quite. You went home, and you took the key with you. When did you return it to Miss Brown?"

Madoc gave a disagreeable laugh. "Hasn't she told you that? I'm surprised! I returned it to her on Thursday night. She seemed to want it back, so I brought it down and handed it over."

"Thank you, Mr. Madoc. Have you any objection to signing the statements you have just made?"

"Not in the least. Why should I? I have nothing to hide."

There was a pause. Frank Abbott wrote, and afterwards read what he had written. Madoc listened to them with that black frown dominating his face, snatched the papers and picking up a pen from his writing table, drove it deep into the inkpot and scrawled a thick, smudged "Evan Madoc" across the page.

1 cup water
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Rub meat thoroughly with bruised clove of garlic. Add salt and pepper. Brown pot roast slowly on all sides in hot lard melted in heavy kettle with tight-fitting lid. Add water, Worcestershire sauce and chili sauce. Cover and simmer gently until meat is tender, about 3½ hrs. Turn meat occasionally. Add more water, if necessary, a little at a time. Make gravy by thickening liquid with flour smoothed in water (1 tbsp. flour to each 1 cup of liquid). Serves 4, with leftovers.

When infection threatens your body, an army of fighters in your blood stream goes to work to overcome it. To build these "antibodies" your body must have the right kind of proteins. Get an adequate amount of meat in your diet and you're sure of getting the right kind of proteins to build resistance to disease. For meat has proteins of the topmost rank—to build healthy tissues, good blood, and strength to ward off illness. All meat has these fine proteins.

PICK CENTERS FOR ALL-STAR BOWLING TRIALS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Althe Purdue, Ohio State, and Wisconsin are the only undefeated teams in the race for the Western conference football championship—the Buckeyes and Badgers meet Saturday—Indiana university should not be overlooked in any forecast of the final standings. The Hoosiers still have an excellent chance to win the title which never has belonged to that university.

Bob Hoernschemeyer.

Indiana's position currently goes back to its 20 to 0 victory over Michigan, a thoro job in which the Hoosiers gained more yards by rushing and more by passing than the Wolverines. Perhaps this victory did not sufficiently impress followers of teams outside the immediate influence of Indiana alumni who, you may be certain, regarded the conquest almost as highly as a victory over Purdue.

Hoernschemeyer Big Asset.

Outlanders also remember that Indiana lost to Illinois, a setback the Hoosiers would like to forget. Since Indiana never has figured prominently in the closing weeks of a conference campaign in recent seasons, it is easy to overlook Indiana's title opportunity.

Indiana's attack obviously has improved since the return of Bob Hoernschemeyer and he also is a dependable asset to the secondary defense. Indiana's team of civilians will be available thruout the season while Purdue, for instance, will lose at least some of its navy trainees early in November. And finally, Indiana plays a seven game conference schedule, which affords the mathematical opportunity to erase the full value of the licking by Illinois.

Wolverines Play Seven, Too.

Michigan also plays seven conference opponents. This gives the Wolverines the same schedule advantage by which Ohio State took the title in 1942 when the Buckeyes won five games and lost one while Wisconsin, victor over Ohio State, finished with four victories and a defeat.

Indiana lacks reserve strength in the line. Recognizing this, it early decided to use Bob Ravensberg at left tackle on offense to improve blocking. Ravensberg is defensive left end. This situation can be matched at practically all of the conference universities where there is a drop in ability between the first and second teams at several positions. Indiana also elected to use its center, John Tavener, at defensive right tackle against Illinois for the same reason.

Hoosier Line on Upgrade.

The Hoosiers' first line has played well, however, and it has improved as was shown by its defense against Bob Wiese, Michigan full back, and its rushing of Bill Culligan, Michigan's passer. Indiana also possesses two fine freshman full backs in Harry Jagade and George Sundheim, an excellent right half back in Abe Addams, and replacement backs in Bob Miller and Ben Raimondi.

Indiana meets Nebraska Saturday after two weeks of preparation and then comes the Northwestern game in Dyche stadium, followed by Iowa in Bloomington. It seems logical that the Hoosiers may come to the Ohio State contest Nov. 4 still fighting for the leadership. This climax will be followed by Minnesota, a nonconference engagement with Pittsburgh, and the final of the season with Purdue.

ARMY RETURNS HANK GOWDY TO INACTIVE STATUS

Columbus, Ga., Oct. 10 (AP).—Maj. Harry [Hank] Gowdy, special service officer of the infantry school and former major league baseball star, has been returned to inactive status, headquarters of the school announced today. Maj. and Mrs. Gowdy left yesterday for their home in Columbus, O.

Gowdy, a veteran of World War I., obtained leave from his duties as coach of the Cincinnati Reds of the National league to accept a captain's commission in January, 1942.

Once on a time there was a seed
That fretted, there among its kind,
Resenting what fate had decreed
With all its little seedling mind.

It wanted not to be a rose,
It longed to grow as one of those
Full-bodied plants upon the ground.

And so it strove with all its might
'Til lo! one day it saw the light
And as a sturdy cabbage grew.

Exultantly it viewed the change
And cried, "My destiny I've beaten!"
But then, alas, and not so strange,

HECKER NAMED BADGER LEADER FOR OHIO GAME

Former Buckeye to Face Old Mates.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 10 [Special].—Bob Hecker, naval trainee on the University of Wisconsin campus and former right half back on the Ohio State football team, will be acting captain of the Badgers on Saturday when they tackle the strong Buckeye eleven at Camp Randall. Hecker originally was scheduled to leave the navy school this week but, because of some work which he missed during an illness last summer, probably will be here for several weeks.

Hecker earned the captaincy by his fine running and defensive play in the Marquette and Northwestern games. He will replace Joe Campbell, who started at right half in the Badgers' first two games.

All the Wisconsin cripples were on hand today as the varsity went thru a scrimmage and studied the Ohio offense. Allen Shafer and Nick Collias still are doubtful starters but there is hope that they will be able to see some action against the Buckeyes.

BUCKEYES KEEP SOUDERS.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10 [Special].—The Ohio State football squad continued to work on defense today in preparation for the game with Wisconsin Saturday in Madison. The Buckeyes were cheered by the announcement that Cy Souders, right end, originally ordered to report at Great Lakes Thursday, had a change of orders which will allow him to play in the Wisconsin game. He now must report at Great Lakes Oct. 21, the day Ohio State meets the Bluejackets in Columbus.

Three Buckeyes were on the injured list today. Capt. Gordon Appleby has an ankle injury and Jack Dugger a thigh bruise, neither being in uniform. Bill Hackett, regular guard, has a bruised side, but was in uniform. Charley Renner took over Appleby's job at center and Mardo Hamilton and Dick Jackson divided Dugger's end duties.

PURDUE STRESSES PASSES.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 10 [Special].—Purdue is apt to take to the air with frequency as the Boilermakers attempt to remain on the victory path against the powerful Iowa Seahawk eleven here Saturday. This was indicated in this afternoon's drill in which Ray Schultz, quarter back and ace passer, came in for more than the usual share of attention.

Schultz's surprisingly accurate passing has been one of the highlights of the impressive Boilermaker offensive performances so far this season. The former Lane Tech [Chicago] High school lineman, who won two minor letters on the Boilermaker squad before taking over the quarter back spot this fall, has responded remarkably to Cecil Isbell's tutelage and has completed 11 of 20 passes in three games for a net gain of 197 yards.

Schultz has specialized in spot passes, and three of his completed heaves have resulted in touchdowns—two against Illinois and one against Great Lakes.

While grooming the aerial attack this afternoon, Isbell paid tribute to the blocking of the Boilermaker forwards, who afforded Schultz fine protection against Illinois Saturday as he threw crucial passes in the spectacular offensive battle.

SEAHAWKS EXPERIMENT.

Most prominent of these was Bob Smith, the former Tulsa star, who has been the regular right half. He was alternating at right and left half today. Others who took a trial at the position were Randall Rushing, ex-Texas Tech full back who scored against Minnesota, and Lyle Downing, Missouri quarter back who opened against Michigan.

Col. Joe Triner Awarded Meritorious Service Medal

Col. CLEAR ALLEYS FOR ALL-STAR TOURNEY

DOERR, MARION RATED MAJORS' MOST VALUABLE

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 10 (AP).—Martin Marion, shortstop of the newly crowned world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Bobby Doerr, Boston Red Sox second baseman, today were named by the Sporting News as its selections for the most valuable players in the National and American leagues, respectively, for 1944.

The baseball paper said it had made the selections independently this year after working in conjunction with a committee of the Baseball Writers' association since 1938.

At its semi-annual meeting here last week, the writers' association decided to make the All-Star awards directly, instead of working thru the Sporting News. Martin J. Haley, president of the baseball writers, said their official selections, made thru a poll of all members of the association, will be announced sometime in November.

The Sporting News also singled out two pitchers, Hal Newhouser of the Detroit Tigers and Bill Voiselle of the New York Giants for special merit. Newhouser, with a record of 29 victories and nine defeats, largely was responsible for the Tigers staying in the American league pennant race until the final day. Voiselle, a rookie right hander, won 21 and lost 16 for the fifth place Giants.

CLASSIC LEAGUE TO BOWL SIXTH ROUND TONIGHT

Chapin & Gore, leader in the Classic Bowling league with only three defeats in 15 games, will risk a three game margin in the circuit's sixth rolldown tonight at 9 o'clock in Northtown Recreation, 2519 W. Devon av., against the fourth place DuBouchett Liquers.

Other matches are Prima Beers vs. Washington Shirts, Congress Arcade vs. Keeley Half and Half, Sunkist Pies vs. Meister Braus, and Thompson's Restaurants vs. Monarch Beers.

The Monarchs, league champions in 1943, will be without the services of Capt. Bill Flesch for a month because of a recurrence of a back injury.

SGT. JOE LOUIS RETURNS FROM WAR ZONE TOUR

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, returned to the United States today after a seven month tour of the European war zones during which he fought 96 exhibitions.

The champion said that two American soldiers he fought in Italy might offer a threat to his title after the war. He said that he could not remember their names, but that they "gave me good fights."

Nashville May See Preview of Pro League Title Battle

BY EDWARD PRELL.

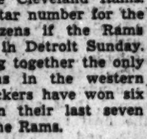
The good folks in Nashville, Tenn., are convinced that on Saturday afternoon they'll see a preview of the 1944 National Football league championship game. The Green Bay Packers, far out in front of all rivals due to an early start, will meet the Philadelphia Eagles in an exhibition game in Vanderbilt stadium.

Curly Lambeau.

They'll be playing a United States ferry command benefit attraction sponsored by the Nashville Tennessean. Reports yesterday predicted a sellout crowd in excess of 25,000. The Eagles, favorites to win the eastern title, do not meet the Packers this season in a league contest.

Green Bay's next league start will be a week from Sunday in Green Bay against the Cleveland Rams. This will be a star number for the Green Bay citizens if the Rams whip the Lions in Detroit Sunday. This would bring together the only unbeaten elevens in the western sector. The Packers have won six and tied one in their last seven meetings with the Rams.

Frankie Sinkwich, the hard running Detroit half back, is piling up a string of gridiron victims. Vic Sears of the Eagles tried to tackle Frankie during an exhibition game and the result was a broken leg. In Sunday's game at Detroit, Bob Masterson, Brooklyn end, went up with Sinkwich in pursuit of a forward pass and the collision sent Bob off the field for the remainder of the afternoon. In the same game Frankie charged thru tackle with the ball and Brooklyn's Pug Manders rushed up to confront him. The result: Pug suffered three damaged ribs.



Frankie Sinkwich.

Frankie's 72 yard run against Brooklyn, longest this campaign from scrimmage, started out as a pass play. He couldn't spot a receiver, so he just started to run.

Sammy Baugh has been placed on the Washington Redskins' active list so that he will be eligible to play if he decides to leave his Texas ranch. . . . Ward Cuff, the old Marquette star, gained 18 yards in three tries for the Giants against the Yanks in Boston Sunday. . . . Steve Filipowicz still is undecided on pursuing a career with the football Giants. . . . He finished the season with the baseball Giants.

Paul Duhart, Green Bay left half, is a postage stamp find. Before the season opened he wrote Curly Lambeau that he was in the market for a football job and additional employment during the off-season. He didn't have the wherewithal to continue at the University of Florida, he said. Curly invited him to Green Bay for a tryout and the youngster caused no excitement during the training period. Now he's the No. 2 left half, back of Irv Comp.

His chest wrapped in an elastic brace, Ray [Scooter] McLean, injured Chicago Bear right half back, did a spot of running yesterday during the team's drill in Wrigley field, but it will not be known until Saturday whether he will play Sunday against the Card-Pitts. Doug McEnulty, who suffered a hip injury at Cleveland Sunday, went to a hospital for observation yesterday. The third member of the hard luck right half back corps, Rookie Al Grygo, engaged in mild exercise. He has rib trouble. Bulldog Turner still was limping from a shin injury. The coaches declared one of their major tasks is to improve the players' mental attitude.

Ray McLean.

N. U.'S 'B' SQUAD TO PLAY PURDUE RESERVES TWICE

Two football games with the Purdue reserves, the first of them in Dyche stadium Saturday afternoon, have been scheduled for the Northwestern university B squad, Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, director of athletics, said yesterday. There will be no admission charge for Saturday's contest in Evanston.

The return game will be played in Lafayette, Ind., on Nov. 18. The two games will make up the entire schedule for the Wildcat reserves and were arranged to give the B squad members some intercollegiate competition.

Cubs Purchase Garriott, Angels' Star Outfielder

James T. Gallagher, vice president and general manager of the Chicago Cubs yesterday announced the purchase of Cecil [Rabbit] Garriott, outfielder, from Los Angeles of the Pacific coast league. Garriott participated in all his team's 1944 games and was voted its most valuable player.

ROUND ROBIN PLAY CARDED FOR NOV. 18, 19

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The fourth annual All-Star individual match game bowling championship tournament, No. 1 competition of the game and sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, enters the first phase of its local program this morning, with the announcement of the sites and dates of the Chicago preliminary rolling.

The big show proper will be conducted, as it has been the last two years, over the 12 elegant lanes of the Auditorium service men's center from Dec. 2 thru 10, with a field of the sport's ablest artists, including Champion Ned Day, Paul Krumske, Rudy Pugel, Buddy Bomar, and Connie Schwoegler.

GARDEN RECREATION — 4374 Milwaukee av., Mike Hechinger and Lyman Bolger.

ROSE BOWL—11317 S. Michigan av., Paul Young.

The Messrs. Olsen, Samuelson, Hechinger, Bolger, Wevang, De Vito, and Young will be prepared to welcome any ambitious sharpshooter who aims to join the party in the Auditorium center on Dec. 2. The entry fee for the qualifying program at each of the five centers will be $2 and bowling. An entrant who is not satisfied with the first three game effort may bowl as many similar series as he wishes by paying the $2 and bowling for each.

Round Robin Final.

At the conclusion of the trials, the eight highest men, based on their best three game totals in any single attempt, will assemble for a round robin final at each of the five establishments. The deadline for three game series bowling will be 11:55 p. m. on Nov. 16. The round robin battles at each of the five centers will be decided on Nov. 18 and 19, with each bowler meeting his rivals in seven four-game matches, all based on the Petersen point system.

Bowling Lanes, Cascade, Garden Recreation, Park Manor, and the Rose Bowl will maintain permanent scoreboards from today until the Nov. 16 deadline and the establishment of each of the five round robin fields. These boards will carry the names of the eight bowlers who have compiled the highest three game totals to date. If a bowler wishes to roll more than one series, he may enter again for the aforementioned fee, but must bowl his three games on two alleys other than those on which he made his first effort to gain the top eight.

Final Blocks Nov. 19.

The 28 game round robin pattern will be divided into two blocks on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 18; two more on the night of the 18th; two on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 19, and the seventh and last on the night of Nov. 19.

The 24 low scorers in the 1943 All-Star tournament proper have been seeded into the 1944 event without the necessity of preliminary qualification, in addition to Day, Krumske, Pugel, Bomar, and Schwoegler, who have been seeded into the finals of the tourney. The remaining 96 bowlers in the field must earn their places thru sectional qualifying rounds. The All-Star committee made this a definite rule last year. If a Chicago bowler was not among the first 24 last winter, the only way he can gain entrance is thru the medium of trials in the five establishments announced today.

All-Star Committee Meets.

Each of the five operators will charge admissions for the round robins. These will be added to the entry fees, with the only deduction being the franchise fee of the proprietor. Admissions and entry fees will make up the prize fund at each establishment, of which 50 per cent will be awarded to the winner. The breakdown of the remainder of the purse calls for a percentage distribution of 25, 20, 15, 15, 10, 10, and 5 for the other seven places.

The All-Star tournament committee met yesterday to make further plans for the big show. Attending were Chairman Barney Hochstadter, Louis P. Petersen, Eddie Linsz, Ell Whitney, Jerry Peck, Ted Gillette, and the writer.

Fort Sheridan Ring Team Meets Madison Tonight

Johnny Francisco, 1,201st member of the Catholic Youth organization to enter the service, will represent Fort Sheridan in one of a series of bouts against the Madison Athletic club in the post gymnasium tonight. He will meet Joe Haneghan, welterweight. Other Fort Sheridan representatives will include Vince Pellegrini, 140; Tony Hanrahan, 155; Gene Gall, 170; Ed Koplinski, 160; Joe Schilink, 160, and Herman Lusport, 150.

NATIONAL RULES TO GUIDE IRISH AND DARTMOUTH

Only Deviation Is Pact to Kick Off in Bounds.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 10 [Special].—Commenting on Notre Dame's intersectional meeting with Dartmouth in Boston Saturday, Ed McKeever, head coach of the Irish, today said he had reached an agreement with Earl Brown, Big Green coach, that both teams refrain from kicking off out of bounds in their Fenway park battle. McKeever said that with this one exception, National Collegiate A. A. rules would be observed in the playing of the contest.

Elmer Angsman, varsity full back, hobbling from a leg injury suffered in the Tulane game, was kept out of action. He is expected to be able to start against Dartmouth.

HOOSIERS WORK ON PUNTS.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 10 [Special].—Indiana stressed the recovering and running back of punts in today's workout. Bob Hoernschemeyer and Abe Addams, half backs, and Bill Uecker, end, handled the punting. The Hoosiers also worked on blocking and tackling and on their own offensive for Nebraska.

SHIFT ILLINI TACKLE.

GOPHER PUNTERS WORK.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 10 [Special].—Minnesota punters are in for a week of hard work in preparation for Saturday's game against Missouri. Last Saturday's average of 39 yards per kick has brought the Gopher season's average down to about 31 yards per game. The kicking in general has been as bad as Minnesota has produced in a long time, poor punts repeatedly setting up opposition touchdowns.

Missouri comes to Minneapolis with seven veterans, three of whom were starters in last year's game.

IOWA COACH DISSATISFIED.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 10 [Special].—Coach Edward [Slip] Madigan today looked at movies of the ill-fated game at Ohio State last Saturday and then put the Iowa squad to work. "Our blocking was bad," he told the squad after the reminder of the pictures. "Our tackling was of the touch variety and our timing was off. In fact, it looked like the opening game that it was."

Madigan said he planned no major lineup changes this week as he had no time for experiments before the game at Illinois Saturday. Guard Stan Mohrbacher definitely will miss the meeting with the Illini as the result of a knee injury suffered against the Buckeyes.

RED EMBREE AND ORIOLES BLANK COLONELS, 10-0

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 10 (AP).—Charles [Red] Embree, ace of the Baltimore staff, pitched a four hit game against the Louisville Colonels tonight, while his mates pounded three Louisville hurlers for 13 safeties and a 10 to 0 victory to put the Orioles out in front of the little world series, three games to two.

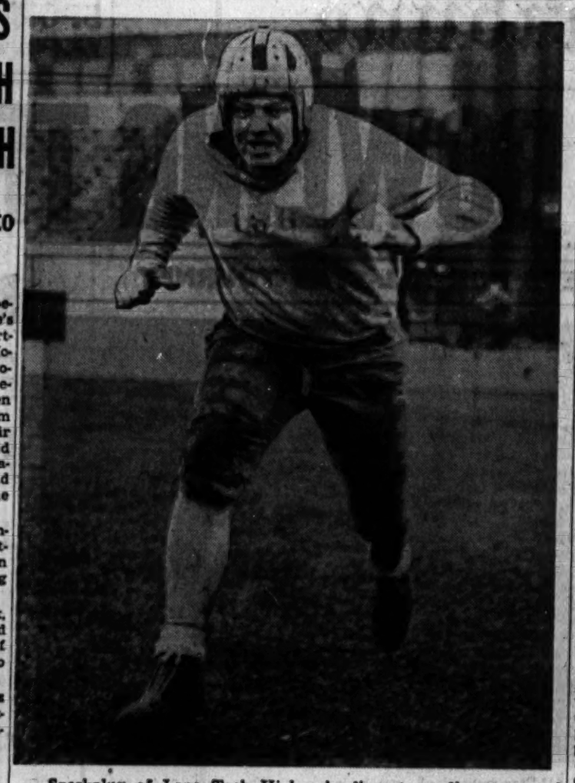
SPARKS LANE IN TITLE RACE



Sparkplug of Lane Tech High school's veteran line, unscored upon in four games this year, is Capt. Bill Fischer at tackle. He hopes to lead the north side eleven to the city league sectional championship which has just escaped Coach Bob Koehler's charges the last two years. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Brothers Clash in Michigan, N.U. Contest

Brother will face brother Saturday when the football teams of Northwestern and Michigan meet in Ann Arbor. The brothers are Duane Sickels, Northwestern's veteran end, and Quentin Sickels, a freshman who has won the left guard position with the Wolverines. The boys are from Benton Harbor, Mich., where they were outstanding high school athletes.

Duane, among the better ends in the Western conference, was a regular on last year's team as a sophomore and also lettered in basketball. He is the leading scorer for the Wildcats with three touchdowns, all on passes from Johnny Yungwirth.

Northwestern will present two other Michigan natives in Saturday's game. They are Ben Schadler, quarter back, who also comes from Benton Harbor, and Larry Savage, right half, Saginaw. Schadler has had a knee injury all season and may play only briefly.

The Wildcats will lose Bud Pettit, freshman end from Milwaukee, who suffered a head injury in the Great Lakes game. While he is improving, it is doubtful if he will see action for several weeks. Yungwirth, who was slowed up by a foot injury in the Great Lakes contest, will be in top condition, as will Bill Roper, another half back who has been out for two weeks with a leg injury.

One of Waldorf's worries was removed last night with the announcement that navy V-12 trainees on the squad, with one exception, had passed their examinations. The one who failed was a third string lineman, Waldorf said.

MICHIGAN LOSES SPINK.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 10 [Special].—Michigan learned today it had lost for the season Don Spink, Rochester, N. Y., full back. Spink was secondary replacement for Capt. Bob Wiese, who is expected to be transferred by the navy shortly after the Northwestern game.

LANE TECH SEES SECTIONAL TITLE WITHIN GRASP

Lane Tech's football squad, after being jostled out of the north section crown of the City league for two successive years, has cleared two hurdles in this year's march toward the championship.

Lane has defeated the nogth's two strongest teams, Schurz and Senn, by scores of 6 to 0. Amundsen, defending champion which knocked Lane out of the 1943 title with a 13 to 7 victory, in turn has lost to both Schurz and Senn.

Only Three Letter Men.

Coach Bob Koehler has built the 1944 team around five veteran linemen. Capt. Bill Fischer and Ed Garcia, tackles, and End Merle Richmond won monograms last year. Center John Errath and Jack Wineberg, a guard, played last season, but did not earn letters.

Koehler attributes much of Lane's success to this line, which averages 185 pounds and has not been scored on. "We haven't been too good on offense," he said, "but we have been very good on the defense. We have been rounding out very well after our first two practice games."

In those games before the start of the league season, Lane tied Austin, 0 to 0, and then defeated Foreman, 21 to 0.

Backs Are Problem.

The back field has been Koehler's chief worry. Without a returning veteran, he has built the attack around Alvin Bizzato, 160 pound left half back. Bizzato, a senior, ran 30 yards for Lane's touchdown against Senn. Frank Seyferlich, senior 185 pound full back, scored against Schurz. In both cases Seyferlich failed to kick the extra point, which, Koehler admits, might become more important as the seasor. goes on.

This Saturday Lane meets Lake View, which last week lost to Amundsen, 14 to 6. Then, on successive Fridays, Lane meets Sullivan, Amundsen, and Waller. Victories over these opponents will give Lane its coveted title and a meeting with the South section champions in the league play-off series.

OFFER JOCKEYS $2,000 IN PRIZES AT SPORTSMAN'S

The leading four jockeys during the Sportsman's Park fall meeting, which is to open at the Cicero half mile track Oct. 18, will divide $2,000 in war bonds, John L. Keeshin, president of the track, announced yesterday.

The leading rider will get $1,000 in bonds, Keeshin said, while the second, third, and fourth jockeys in the final standings will get $500, $300, and $200, respectively. The standings will be determined on a point basis, a rider receiving four points for a winner, three for a place horse, two for show, and one for fourth position.

Two Outdoor Trials Set for Chicago Dogs

BY BOB BECKER.

Trained springer spaniels again will perform for sportsmen this fall in two outdoor trials. Next Saturday and Sunday the English Springer Spaniel Club of the Central States will hold its trial adjacent to the intersection of route 176 and Green Bay rd. west of the village of Lake Bluff, 32 miles north of Chicago.

Three Stakes on Saturday.

B. F. Genty, club president, said yesterday that three stakes, including the shooting dog event, will be held Saturday. The top notch springers aiming for championship points will be tested on pheasants Sunday in the open all age stake.

E. J. Elting of Riverside and Leonard Leader, Milwaukee, Wis., will pick the winners in all the events on the two day program. The public is invited to watch this trial which opens at 9 a. m. Saturday.

The second springer trial of the season is scheduled for the weekend of Nov. 4-5 under the auspices of the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial club of Illinois. Also to be held west of Lake Bluff, it will culminate in an open all age stake on the second day.

Service Men to Benefit.

Officers of the club state that the gross proceeds of the two day event will be donated to the Red Cross for convalescent service men in the hospitals around Chicago. One of the plans being discussed for this trial calls for the transportation of a certain number of hospitalized veterans to the field trial grounds so that they may watch the trained hunting spaniels demonstrate their bird finding and retrieving ability. Complete details of the trial and the judging program will be announced later.

Amateur Trio Seeks Hawks' Left Wing Job

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 10 [Special].—In two strenuous drills today, Manager Paul Thompson got down to the task of learning which of his amateur left wings will be in the lineup when the Blackhawks meet the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey league opener in the Chicago Stadium, Sunday, Oct. 29.

The two recruits from Vancouver, Harvey Fraser and Russell Brayshaw, were worked the hardest in the two sessions. Brayshaw, because of his speed, was used with Bill Thoms, center, and Fido Purpur, right wing. Fraser, not so speedy as Brayshaw, but very rugged and much rougher, had as his co-workers Clint Smith and Johnny Harms. A third line had Pete Horeck, a sensational scorer with Cleveland in the American league last season, at left wing, working with Johnny Gottselig and Mush March.

Brayshaw and Fraser of the newcomers and the veteran March showed the best form. Earl Seibert, veteran defense man, became the first casualty of the season in the morning workout, when he received a cut from the stick of Brayshaw which necessitated five stitches, but did not keep him from taking his turn in both drills.

12 NAMED FOR $5,000 CHARITY RACE TOMORROW

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Henry Tikulski's speedy Icangetit and Marion Brink's Foreign Agent, another consistent 2 year old, top a list of 12 of the best youngsters in the Stickney barns nominated for the Columbus day feature tomorrow at Hawthorne, a six and one-half furlong affair for a purse of $5,000.

The net proceeds of the program, raised to nine races for the occasion, will be equally divided among three war agencies, the Community War fund chest of metropolitan Chicago, the Illinois Veterans' services, and the Chicago service men's center.

Competing against Foreign Agent and Icangetit will be Lexingtonian, Flying Colors, Joe's Choice, Jesting Fox, In the Bag, Darien, Cross Bayou, Corina Lark, and Calm Seas. Post time for the first race will be 2 o'clock.

Weights for the Illinois owners' handicap Saturday will be announced today. The race for horses owned by Illinois residents, will be for a purse of $10,000 and has drawn 22 entries, including Mrs. Robert McGarvey's Night Shadow, winner of the Autumn handicap Sept. 9.

Yesterday's program was attended by a top-coated crowd of 7,219. Holders of winning daily double tickets were rewarded with a $121.20 return when Tony Skoronski brought in Foxiola in the first race at $8.40 and Al Bodiou scored with Joe Schenck at $9.20.

While the card was featureless, a good race developed in the sixth, a sprint for 3 and 4 year olds, which was taken by Joe Maum's Rockwood Lou, ridden by Kempton Knott. The 3 year old filly, fourth in a field of seven as they turned into the stretch, passed Sigma Kappa, Michigan Chevy, and Hortdal and was second to Michigan Chevy by a head as they hit the 16th pole. Then with a closing surge she went to the front and won by two lengths as Sigma Kappa took the place and Michigan Chevy the show.

1944 HARVESTS ESTIMATED AT ALL-TIME PEAK

Corn Yield Figure Is Increase.

Supplies Adequate

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—War Food Administrator Jones said today that with this year's record food production "we are safely thru that critical period of expanding needs, both for immediate use and reserves, which challenged us at the beginning of the war."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—An all-time record harvest for 1944 "now seems in reach," the crop reporting board said today. It termed production "remarkable" considering the labor shortage and weather difficulties with which farmers contended.

With a higher yield per acre than in any year except 1942, crops are being harvested from an acreage larger than that of any year since 1932, the board said in its report of conditions as of Oct. 1.

Yield Per Acre Nears High.

"In the country as a whole the crop yields per acre harvested probably will be above the 1923-'32 or pre-drouth average by 30 per cent compared with 24 per cent above this average last year and 36 per cent above in 1942," the report said.

The largest corn crop ever produced in the country is in prospect, the board said. It predicted a harvest of 3,196,977,000 bushels, 95,658,000 above its Sept. 1 estimate and 21,823,000 above the previous mark set in 1942.

Favorable September weather enabled corn to attain and often exceed expectations and "all-time production records are being shattered in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Nebraska," the board said.

This year's estimated wheat crop of 1,108,881,000 bushels continues "the largest on record" despite a decline of 6,521,000 bushels from the September estimate, caused primarily by losses of spring wheat from excessive moisture.

Predict Bumper Sorghum Crop.

Bumper crops of grain sorghums and rice were forecast. Record yields of fruits, commercial vegetables, peanuts and tree nuts were predicted. Tobacco production set at 1,804,879,000 pounds will approach the high record set in 1939.

Hay, beans, peas, soy beans, flax seed, potatoes and sweet potatoes will be at levels not often reached in pre-war years, but will be below the yields in some recent seasons, the board forecast. Cotton, with a record high yield per acre offsetting a reduction in acreage, will be about average. The board said the only important field crops that will be "materially below average in production" are rye and sugar beets.

Live stock and live stock products will reach a volume higher than in any year except 1943 and probably 12 per cent higher than in any year prior to 1940, the report said. Citrus crops in all producing states will yield 7 per cent more tonnage than in 1943-'44, it was forecast.

WORLD TRADING IN OIL AND FOOD BY CO-OPS URGED

A federation of coöperative wholesalers here and abroad to handle petroleum products, food, and related supplies in world commerce was proposed yesterday by Howard A. Cowden, North Kansas City, Mo., chairman of the committee on international coöperative reconstruction of the Coöperative league.

Addressing the 14th biennial congress of the league, Cowden said the proposal was "a logical next step" for United States coöperatives. "owning as they do, nine gasoline refineries, oil wells, pipe lines, a lubricating oil refinery, and one aviation gasoline refinery which is being operated for the duration by a coöperative."

People and Events

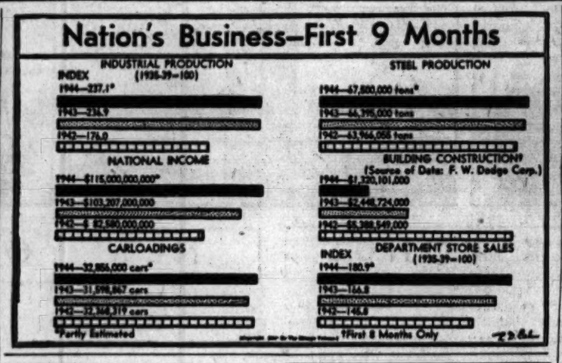
Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong, former head of the Chicago ordnance district and now commandant of the army industrial college at Washington, D. C., will present the army ordnance department's distinguished service award to the Illinois Institute of Technology today. Henry T. Heald, president of the institute, will receive the award which is being given in recognition of the institution's contributions to army ordnance in engineering and science.

General American Transportation corporation announced that R. C. Johnson, an employe of the East Chicago, Ind., plant, will be presented with the certificate of commendation of WPB's awards branch for personal achievement in furthering the war program. Leroy Kramer, vice president of the company, will make the presentation.

Sixty years of service to the farm implement industry will be observed by Ingersoll Steel and Disc division of Borg-Warner corporation in the Drake hotel tomorrow. Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will speak.

Bell & Howell company announced the appointment of J. Harold Booth as vice president in charge of merchandising.

Nation's Business—First 9 Months



New Employe Bonus Rulings Are Explained

New regulations to guide employers in determining what bonus payments may be made to employes without formal application for approval under the salary stabilization program have been issued by Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue Graves.

An important result is to make it clear that approval obtained for 1943 bonuses, in cases in which specific authorization by the commissioner was required, will not hold good for 1944, officials said yesterday. Even if no increase over 1943 is contemplated, payments, under such conditions, will require approval again this year.

Some Bonuses Need Approval.

Bonuses which will require authorization under this interpretation are those involving larger dollar amounts than in the base years 1941 or 1942, other than bonuses fixed by an established percentage basis. If the bonus exceeds 50 per cent of the base salary, only the dollar amount of the 1941 bonus may be paid without prior approval.

Generally the new rules follow closely the interpretations given by the revenue bureau late in 1943. If an employer, prior to Oct. 3, 1942, had regularly paid a bonus based upon a fixed percentage of salary and the percentage has not been changed, a bonus determined by this method may be paid, without prior approval, even tho the dollar amount may be increased as a result of an approved increase in salary.

Unfixed Bonuses Discussed.

Bonuses not determined by a fixed percentage, as in the case of awards for exceptional performance, may be paid without prior government approval, subject to certain limitations. If the base salary has not been increased since Oct. 3, 1942 [in the case of salaries of more than $5,000 a year] or Oct. 27, 1942 [in the case of salaries of $5,000 a year or less], the employer is permitted to pay without approval the same dollar amount of bonus as in 1941 or 1942, whichever is higher, unless the bonus exceeds 50 per cent of the salary. In the latter case only the 1941 bonus may be paid without the commissioner's authorization.

TWO RAILROADS SELL 34 MILLION IN BOND ISSUES

A total of $34,735,000 of bonds of two railroads in the Pennsylvania system was sold competitively yesterday in refunding programs to reduce fixed charges.

The Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad sold $23,735,000 to a banking group headed by Kidder, Peabody & Co. on a bid of 101.0201 for a 3¾ per cent coupon, Auchinloss, Parker & Redpath entered the high bid on 11 million dollars of Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad bonds, offering 100.45 for a 3 per cent coupon.

Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chicago, was high bidder on a 12 million dollar Portland, Ore., 22 year bond issue for a sewage disposal plant. The bid was 1.4975 per cent.

A syndicate headed by Brailsford & Co. and Shallinglaw, Crowder & Co., Chicago, offered 150,000 shares of $1 par common stock of Electronic Laboratories at $5 a share.

COURT REFUSES REVIEW OF TAX NOTE LIABILITY

The United States Supreme court has denied a petition of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and two other plaintiffs for review of an Illinois Supreme court decision which held recently that the Chicago board of education is not liable for 10 million dollars of 1929 tax anticipation warrants which were never paid.

Board of education attorneys argued that the state constitution prohibits payment of the sum. Law was cited that tax warrants must be repaid from tax income for the year in which the warrants were issued. The defaulted warrants were not paid because a revaluation of city property ordered in 1929 reduced valuation and tax income.

The case has been in litigation for 10 years.

Edison Bonds Authorized by Illinois Commission

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday authorized Commonwealth Edison company to issue 180 million dollars of first mortgage 3 per cent bonds and carry out its previously announced financing program. The commission authorized an amendment of the company's mortgage permitting the mortgaging thereunder of electric and gas utility properties of subsidiaries.

LAST QUARTER STEEL QUOTAS FOR CIVILIAN ITEMS ARE BOOSTED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—The WPB today authorized a supplemental 58,428 tons of steel for civilian production programs for the remainder of 1944, but made its use contingent in most cases on availability of man power and facilities that can be spared from the war.

The new allocation brings to 278,203 tons the fourth quarter grant of steel for direct disposal by the office of civilian requirements.

Of the total additional grant, 9,000 tons have been provided to restore cuts in regular fourth quarter programs for 28 products, including house trailers, ice refrigerators, fountain pens, mechanical pencils, commercial electric cooking equipment, radio receiver vacuum tubes, and laundry stoves. For this program no changes in limitation orders will be required.

Changes in regulations will be necessary for use of 19,428 tons of carbon steel provided for minor increases in programs for bicycles, hairpins and bobby pins, wash boilers, heating pads, musical instruments, and carpet sweepers.

For certain so-called major programs 30,000 tons of carbon steel were put in a special reserve pending the availability of man power and facilities. Items on this list include gas ranges, coal and wood stoves, oil ranges, electric ironers, warm air furnaces, and miscellaneous kitchen tools.

SUGGESTS TRADE PACTS TO DIVIDE WORLD MARKETS

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—American members of the combined raw materials board may initiate discussions on post-war entry of this government into "international commodity arrangements," Frederick M. Eaton, deputy United States member of the board, said today.

"In general, sentiment in this country is opposed to private international cartels," Eaton told the national foreign trade convention, "but a number of competent observers believe that in certain fields properly constituted international commodity arrangements between governments may be desirable."

Eaton is a member of both the materials board and the combined production and resources board, both made up of American, British, and Canadian officials. His was the first public statement by a board member concerning proposals known to have been discussed informally in Washington. In general the view of those who advocate such agreements is that commodity surpluses may necessitate international regulations if cutthroat competition is to be avoided.

GRAIN FUTURES CHANGE LITTLE; RYE RISES LATE

Grain futures trading yesterday consisted largely of evening up of market positions pending issuance of a department of agriculture crop estimate after the market closed. Prices on the Chicago Board of Trade held within comparatively narrow limits. Wheat was off about 1 cent a bushel early, but rallied to close ⅜ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Corn finished unchanged, oats unchanged to ⅝ cent lower, and barley unchanged to ⅜ cent higher. Rye developed independent strength in the late trading and closed ¼ to 1¼ cents higher.

INCOME PAYMENTS INDEX SETS RECORD HIGH DURING AUGUST

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—The department of commerce index of total income payments to individuals reached an all time high in August, Secretary Jones reported today. The index rose to 234.6 in August, up 24.4 points from July, on the basis of the 1935-'39 period as 100. In August, 1943, the index stood at 215.2.

Most of the August increase was attributed to larger agricultural income and military payments, with small gains in wage and salary payments by the manufacturing, trade, and mining industries.

Income payments to individuals were 12 billion 661 million dollars in August compared with 12 billion 888 million in July. The index, however, allows for seasonal influences, so that it advanced altho total payments declined slightly.

Kelly Reveals Chicago Port Authority Plan

A municipal authority, similar to the Port of New York authority, is being considered for Chicago, Mayor Kelly said yesterday after a series of conferences with Joshua D'Esposito, project engineer for the city's subway and representative of the federal works administration.

The new authority would assume complete control of all municipal terminal projects, including railroads, airports, piers for lake shipping, trucking, storage terminals, and the like, said the mayor. The new body would have no taxing authority, but would be empowered to issue revenue bonds for construction and development of the necessary facilities which, in turn, would be leased to the railroads, air lines, and lake shipping interests.

Terms Rails First Problem.

The foremost problem, said Mayor Kelly, concerns the railroads. D'Esposito, he added, has been appointed to make a thoro study to establish the practicability of constructing a terminal to serve, under one roof, all the railroads now using the Illinois Central station at Michigan av. and Roosevelt rd., the Dearborn station, and the Grand Central station.

Preliminary surveys by D'Esposito have shown the prospects to be very good, he told the mayor. Plans are emerging, pointing a way to solution of the problem, Mayor Kelly asserted.

Other Phases of Plan.

"Several such authorities already are in existence in the United States," he continued. "The record of their accomplishments is in each case a creditable one."

The mayor said legislative action would be necessary to set up the authority. It would be an appointed body, but Kelly said it made no difference to him whether the state or the city named the members. The authority eventually would be self-supporting under the plan, revenues from terminals, tunnels, bridges, and other facilities paying the expense of organization and operation.

BANK ANSWERS U.S. ARGUMENTS IN RESERVE SUIT

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 10 [Special].—Counsel for the People's Bank of Lakewood, Cal., today argued against contentions made yesterday by an attorney for the federal reserve system at a federal court hearing on a government motion to dismiss a suit by the bank to retain membership in the system. United States Atty. William F. Licking had contended membership was "a privilege, not a right," and that the board of governors could set up any condition to membership it chose in individual cases.

The bank agreed when it joined the reserve system that if Transamerica corporation or the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, both A. P. Giannini institutions, ever acquired stock in the bank, it would withdraw from the system. Without its knowledge, the bank said, Transamerica did acquire 500 shares, a 10 per cent interest. The suit was instituted to prevent the reserve system from forcing the bank's withdrawal.

The bank's attorney, Carl M. Owen, charged that the condition was designed "not to keep the bank a good bank, but solely to limit the growth of Transamerica." Atty. Albert C. Agnew, representing the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, told the court the reserve bank had not ordered People's bank to withdraw and had no intention or power to do so.

CABINET PLANT COMPLETES 40 YEARS OF WORK

The Churchill Cabinet company is observing the 40th anniversary of its founding with a special anniversary issue of its publication, Saw Dust News. The publication includes a congratulatory message to the employes by O. Gullicksen, founder.

Gullicksen built the company from a small one story building at 2119 Churchill street into the present block long factory at the same address. Since 1938 the company has been producing for defense and later war, with output 350 per cent aboye peace time production.

INCREASED HOG RECEIPTS SELL AT PRICE LIMITS

Ceiling prices of $14.75, the top, and $14 a hundred pounds were again paid for almost all hogs. The average was unchanged at $14.55.

Best steers and heifers were firm, but others sold slowly at barely steady prices. The lamb top rose 15 cents to $15, highest since Sept. 7, altho the general trade was steady.

URGES CLOSER TIE IN SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY

Research Viewed as New Frontier.

More research work by private industry and the universities and a closer collaboration between the two will produce more jobs and improve the American standard of living, Neil H. Jacoby, secretary of the University of Chicago, told the National Restaurant association convention in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

Neil H. Jacoby.

"In the future our American economy will not grow mainly by expanding its population, lengthening its railroad lines, or planting more acres of land," he said. "It must grow mainly thru intensive use of resources we now possess and thru development of new products and industrial processes. Research will be the new front that replaces the geographic front that disappeared one-half century ago."

Research a Job Maker.

Jacoby said extensive surveys show clearly employment has expanded most in industries whose technical progress has been the greatest, and that research is a "job maker, not a job destroyer."

"Research will be especially important when the fighting ends," he continued. "By aiding in the discovery of new products, it will contribute to the utilizing of the 21 billion dollar investment in war plants, and provide jobs for 9 to 10 million workers who will want to be added to the labor force. By finding new uses for old products, it will help cure the war end condition of overexpansion in many manufacturing industries."

American industry spent 300 million dollars annually on reasearch before the war, but other countries laid even greater emphasis on this activity, Jacoby said. A survey made by the National Reasearch council 10 years ago disclosed that in Russia 100,000 workers were engaged in research, in Germany 70,000, and in the United States 30,000, he said.

Speedier Application Needed.

"What is needed now and after the war is a closer collaboration between the industry and university branches of research," he said. "It is generally recognized that basic research in pure science underlies most advances in applied science. But it is not so apparent that there is normally a lapse of time between the discovery of a new fact or principle and its commercial application. This gap can be reduced by a closer working association of the specialist in the basic sciences and the industrial technologist."

An example of this collaboration is the research project established by the restaurant industry at the University of Chicago, Jacoby said. Information accumulated by this project will be valuable after the war because many people "have developed a discerning appreciation" of food during the war and will be more discriminating patrons.

MULLINS VOTES FIRST DIVIDEND ON 'B' SINCE 1936

Directors of Mullins Manufacturing company yesterday declared a special dividend of 50 cents on class B stock, the first cash payment since December, 1936. Five quarterly dividends of $1.75 each on the $7 preferred also were authorized, covering all payments due thru 1945.

Diamond Shoe corporation declared a 30 cents quarterly dividend on common stock. The company paid 20 cents in each of the three preceding quarters this year.

WICKARD SAYS 4 BIG WHEAT NATIONS PLAN WORLD MARKET SPLIT

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said today that four large wheat producing countries have agreed to divide the wheat export market after the war. Under the plan the United States would be allocated 16 per cent, or 72 million bushels, of an estimated 450 million bushel export market.

Other countries agreeing are Canada, Australia, and Argentina with Great Britain sitting in for the empire. Wickard said in an interview the allocation could be changed by mutual agreement and that eventually a price agreement would be reached.

Continental Moves to Acquire Owens-Illinois Can Company

Directors of Continental Can company have voted to purchase the assets and business of Owens-Illinois Can company, officials of the two businesses announced yesterday in New York. The sale is subject to the formal approval of Owens-Illinois and its parent company, Owens-Illinois Glass company, and will be acted upon by these organizations at meetings in Toledo, O., Oct. 20. The price was not disclosed.

If the sale is approved, Continental will take over Owens-Illinois manufacturing plants in Baltimore, Md., McKees Rocks, Pa., and the Chicago Clearing industrial district. The Clearing plant, which covers 400,000 square feet of floor space and provides employment for about 650 workers, produces food containers, steel pails, and general line cans. It has been in operation since 1937 altho Owens-Illinois Can has been in the container field to a limited extent since 1935. The two eastern plants produce a generally similar line of items.

Has Five Chicago Can Plants.

Acquisition of the Clearing plant would bring to six the number of can manufacturing plants Continental would have in the Chicago area, not including two machinery making factories. One of its can plants is about a mile from the Owens-Illinois plant.

Commenting on the proposed purchase, Preston Levis, chairman of the board of directors of Owens-Illinois Can, said:

"Maintenance of business volume by extensive conversion to war production was successfully accomplished, and in this transition the company's performance brought army and navy E awards to the plants at Baltimore and McKees Rocks. However, we feel that reconversion to peace time business in can manufacturing will be more readily effected by Continental than by us, and that our trade would be well served by that leading company in the can industry."

Hopes to Retain Personnel.

Carle C. Conway, president of Continental, said the acquisition would give the company facilities for the production of general line containers for tobacco, paint, grease, chemicals and other products in which Owens-Illinois Can has specialized. He said Continental wished to retain the personnel of the purchased company.

Ownership of the three Owens-Illinois factories would bring to 66 the number of Continental plants, 44 of which are metal container producing units. It also has two plastic producing factories, three crown cap plants, 11 paper container facilities, and six machinery and servicing factories.

Terms Strike Threat Stab in Soldiers' Back

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 (AP).—Undersecretary of War Patterson declared today that a threatened strike of mechanical employes in 64 war plants, set for Thursday, would represent "a stab in the back of American soldiers who are now locked in battle with the enemy in Europe and the Pacific."

"But cutting off the flow of vital war material at the most critical hour, such a strike would expose our fighting men to greatly increased danger and would add both to the length of the war and the size of our casualty list," Patterson said in a telegram to Matthew Smith, Cleveland, O., secretary of the Mechanics' Educational Society of America.

Termed Criminal Betrayal.

"It is unthinkable that any group of Americans could be guilty of such a criminal betrayal of the interests of their country, particularly since the plants against which this threat is directed are in no way involved and are powerless to settle the dispute out of which the strike threat arose—the dismissal of one employe of the Cleveland Graphite Bronze company.

"This is the second such threat which your organization has made in the period since the war department took control of the Cleveland Graphite Bronze company under the provisions of an executive order signed by the President.

"United States Won't Be Coerced."

"The government of the United States will not be coerced by any group, nor will it allow any group to place the lives of our fighting men overseas in additional peril.

"It is the solemn obligation of your organization to rescind at once all threat of strike action and to abide by the provisions of the war labor board order for the final disposition of this and all future disputes thru the processes of conciliation and arbitration."

ROYAL EXPECTS QUICK SHIFT TO TYPEWRITER JOB

Royal Typewriter company expects to be producing typewriters in volume 90 days after permission to reconvert is received, E. C. Faustmann, president, said yesterday in reporting increased sales and profits in the fiscal year ended July 31.

Additional plant capacity will be required when the company returns to normal production and places new equipment and machinery in operation, he said. Reconversion costs can be financed from working capital, he added.

Sales in the fiscal year ended July 31 were $18,758,594, compared with $13,634,502 a year earlier. Net income totaled $1,056,581, equal to 74 cents a share on 1,074,472 common shares outstanding, contrasted with year ago profit of $326,439, or 23 cents a share on the 268,618 shares then outstanding.

Wilson Athletic Goods Buys Golf Club Maker

Wilson Athletic Goods Manufacturing company yesterday announced the purchase of the L. A. Young Golf company, Grand Rapids, Mich., for an undisclosed price. The Young company, maker of the Walter Hagen line of golf clubs, will continue operations in Grand Rapids as a division of the Wilson company.

7 CHICAGO EXCHANGE SEATS SOLD; $4,000 TOP HIGH SINCE 1936

Seven seats on the Chicago Stock exchange have been purchased within the last two weeks, Kenneth L. Smith, president, announced yesterday. The last was for $4,000, up $400 from the preceding sale, and the first $4,000 transfer since Oct. 3, 1936. The first purchase in the series was a private transaction, the next five were seats held by the stock exchange, and the seventh was private.

"Membership in the stock exchange has broadened outside Chicago, particularly in the middle west," Smith said. "Many of the most substantial firms and corporations in Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, Minnesota, Indiana, and other midwestern states have joined the Chicago exchange with the avowed purpose of constructing a strong middle west market place."

He said the board of directors authorized sale of the five seats held by the treasury on Sept. 12 to established and strongly financed investment houses. He reported 43 membership purchases during 1942, 1943, and 1944.

The exchange now has 300 memberships. After a 100 per cent seat dividend in 1929 the exchange had 470 seats. During and after the market recessions 170 seats were retired by purchase. The highest price at which a seat sold before the seat dividend was $110,000—in 1929—and after the dividend the highest price paid was $50,000—also in 1929.

15 PAPERS GET EXTRA QUOTAS OF NEWSPRINT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10 [Special].—Formal announcement was made today by WPB of the granting of extra newsprint to 15 newspapers and a revision in base tonnage on which the Chicago Sun's quota is computed. The extra grants of newsprint are for the third quarter, but may be carried over to the fourth quarter when approval was given too late for third quarter use.

The Sun's adjusted base tonnage of 36,932 tons a year is effective for the third quarter and all subsequent quarters. It was determined by adding 2.97 per cent to the paper's 1942 consumption. Newsprint consumption generally in 1942 was 2.97 per cent less than in 1941, the base year for other newspapers. The Sun did not begin publication until December, 1941. It had asked for an increase in tonnage substantially larger than that granted.

Today's action of the board does not dispose of the charge that the Sun illegally exceeded its tonnage in the second quarter of 1944. This matter is under investigation by the board's compliance division.

STOCKS MIXED; SOME REGISTER WIDE ADVANCES

Paris Bourse Opens

PARIS, Oct. 10 (AP).—Trading in foreign securities was resumed on the Paris bourse today amid bearish interpretations of a decree ordering all foreign securities to be listed and filed with the government. No American issues appeared on the first day that operations were allowed in foreign securities since German occupation of the capital.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Buying of air transports and other specialties steadied the stock market today altho demand remained too light to provide much encouragement for bullish forces. Altho gains and losses were almost even at the close, the advances were much wider.

At new 1944 highs were American Airlines, up 2½; Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, up ⅝; Foster Wheeler, up 1¼ and Burlington Mills, up ¼. Advancing were United Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines, Pan American Airways, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, Worthington Pump, General Electric, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Texas company, and Anaconda.

BOND MARKET IRREGULAR.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Special issues were given a modest lift in today's bond market, but most active loans drifted aimlessly in a narrow range. Sales of $6,714,500 compared with $6,562,500 yesterday.

The scarcity of investment bonds was reflected in renewed interest in the higher priced rails, industrials, and utilities. American Water Works 6s sold at 113¾, Burlington 4½s at 111¼, Commonwealth Edison 3½s at 114, Great Northern 5s at 126½, and Southern railway 5s at 119.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER.

Prices were lower in turnover of 28,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Active issues included Midland United preferred, up ⅝ for a 1944 high of 24¾; Chicago corporation, down ⅛, and Hupp Motor and Peabody Coal, both unchanged. Cudahy Packing preferred gained a point.

MEDINAH CLUB HOTEL RENAMED BY NEW OWNER

Hotel Continental and the new Town Club of Chicago are the names selected for the hotel and club facilities in the 42 story Medinah club building, 505 N. Michigan av., John J. Mack, Chicago hotel operator, announced yesterday. He bought it recently for $1,543,750.

About 1 million dollars will be spent remodeling the structure into a 650 room hotel from plans by Holabird and Root. Operation of the hotel will be continued during the alterations which are scheduled for completion early in 1945.

The new Town club will spend about $100,000 remodeling the 9th to 13th floors, inclusive, for its use. James J. Finnegan, president of the defunct Medinah club, said memberships in the old club are invalid.

The third floor will be occupied by the recently formed Armed Forces Officers club of which Rear Adm. John Downes is president and Brig. Gen. Manus McCloskey is vice president. Abner J. Stilwell is treasurer and Sydney Lovitt executive director.

MARKET HOLIDAY

Banks and principal markets, excepting live stock, will be closed tomorrow in observance of Columbus day.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

—C. H.

Dollar volume of the company's business has increased during the war, and profits, altho below those of pre-war years have been maintained in excess of $6 a common share annually. Universal is engaged in the purchase, storing, processing, and sale of leaf tobacco, chiefly for use in cigarets. More than half is commission business.

In markets where normally a large export business is done, but where sales have been curtailed or suspended because of the war, improvement is expected in line with favorable military developments.

This country's big 1944 tobacco crop, 23 per cent above 1943, promises a further gain in Universal's turnover. Gross income in the fiscal year ended last June 30 was $57,500,000, against $21,700,000 in 1939.

Earnings a common share in fiscal years were: 1944, $6.84; 1943, $6.38; 1942, $6.15; 1941, $6.59. Profits are exclusive of substantial equities in undistributed earnings of subsidiary companies not controled, amounting in 1944 to $191,918. For six years prior to 1941 earnings for the common stock exceeded $7 a share annually. Currently the dividend rate is $4 a year.
